

This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world's books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

Usage guidelines

Google is proud to partner with libraries to digitize public domain materials and make them widely accessible. Public domain books belong to the public and we are merely their custodians. Nevertheless, this work is expensive, so in order to keep providing this resource, we have taken steps to prevent abuse by commercial parties, including placing technical restrictions on automated querying.

We also ask that you:

- + Make non-commercial use of the files We designed Google Book Search for use by individuals, and we request that you use these files for personal, non-commercial purposes.
- + Refrain from automated querying Do not send automated queries of any sort to Google's system: If you are conducting research on machine translation, optical character recognition or other areas where access to a large amount of text is helpful, please contact us. We encourage the use of public domain materials for these purposes and may be able to help.
- + Maintain attribution The Google "watermark" you see on each file is essential for informing people about this project and helping them find additional materials through Google Book Search. Please do not remove it.
- + Keep it legal Whatever your use, remember that you are responsible for ensuring that what you are doing is legal. Do not assume that just because we believe a book is in the public domain for users in the United States, that the work is also in the public domain for users in other countries. Whether a book is still in copyright varies from country to country, and we can't offer guidance on whether any specific use of any specific book is allowed. Please do not assume that a book's appearance in Google Book Search means it can be used in any manner anywhere in the world. Copyright infringement liability can be quite severe.

The President then read the Bishop's

ANNUAL ADDRESS.

MY BRETHREN,

THE CLERGY AND LAITY OF THE CONVENTION :—

Our gathering at this time has not the intense interest of our last meeting, in the Centennial Convention; but it has interest of its own, for we have already entered upon the second century of our Conventional history. We have before us distinctly the lessons which were impressed on us by the review of the first one hundred years. They were very grand men who were before us in the Church. But of all which they did, that only remains which they did for Christ and the Church. What they did for themselves and for their families, though done wisely and dutifully, yet it was for their time, and with that time has passed away. They have gone to their rest. There is no more work for them. But we have our work and have still time, it may be only a brief one, in which we can do something to extend the Kingdom of our Lord. And shall we not do it? Shall we not, like our Master, "work the works of Him Who has sent us, while it is yet day, before the night cometh, when no man can work"?

In the year which has passed since our last meeting, the Church has lost, by death, two of her most useful chief workmen, the Bishops of Georgia and Massachusetts.

Bishop Beckwith, of Georgia, was consecrated April 2d, 1868. His diocese was still suffering from the desolation brought on it by the civil war. But under his wise and effective work and administration, it had much more than recovered its condition; was growing to be among the foremost of the Southern Dioceses. Bishop Beckwith was one of the very eloquent of our preachers, sound and wise in administration, a well learned Divine, greatly beloved by his people and by his brethren of the House of Bishops.

Bishop Paddock, after unusually successful pastorates in Connecticut, in Detroit, and Brooklyn, was consecrated September 17, 1873, in Grace Church, Brooklyn. The present Bishop of Vermont had the privilege to be present and taking part in his consecration. Bishop Paddock was elected Bishop after a very sharp struggle of parties in the Diocese—by a compromise; and at first it seemed that he would have few to co-operate with him zealously. He ignored party in the Church, and set himself faithfully at his proper work of building up the Church in Massachusetts. He was ready to meet all cordially who were alive to that purpose. The result showed his wisdom. Very soon the conflict of party was forgotten. All portions of the Diocese were heartily working with him. And in his Episcopate of about seventeen years there has been a very great increase of numbers and strength in the Diocese, not because Bishop Paddock had great genius, but because he had what was so much more important, great diligence and great fidelity in all the functions of his office.

Just as this Address is being completed, has come the intelligence of the death of the Right Rev. Dr. Cyrus F. Knight, Bishop of Milwaukee. He died Monday afternoon, June 8th, 1891.

Bishop Knight was born in Boston, March 28th, 1831, and was educated at Burlington College, New Jersey, and Harvard University. He graduated at the General Theological Seminary, New York, in 1854, and on July 2d of that year was ordained Deacon by Bishop Wainwright. On May, 1856, he was ordained Priest in St. Luke's Church, Germantown, Pa., by Bishop Alonzo Potter. Shortly after his ordination to the Priesthood he went abroad, and, after a long period of travel and study, returned to Boston, where he became rector of St. Mark's Church, a position he held ten years. He then removed to Hartford, Conn., where he became rector of St James Church, remaining there until 1887, when he was made rector of St. James' Church, Lancaster, Pa. He received the degree of Doctor of Divinity from Bethany College, Kansas, in 1880, and Doctor of Sacred Theology from Racine College in 1890. Years before he had been made Doctor of Civil Laws by Bishop's College in Lennoxville, Quebec. On March 26th, 1889, he was consecrated Bishop of Milwaukee in All Saints Cathedral.

Our own Diocese has suffered a very great loss in the death of one of our most honored and beloved Clergy, the Rev. Dr. Bailey. This Convention is made strange and sad to most of its members because we miss his presence and help for the first time in more than forty years.

ALBERT HOPSON BAILEY was born in Poultney, Vermont, June 14th, 1821. He was the son of a Churchman whose name is found among the list of the earlier members of this Convention. His preparatory education was at the Troy Conference Academy, in his native place. He was a graduate of the University of Vermont and afterwards of the General Seminary of the Church in New York. He was ordained Deacon by Bishop Hopkins in September, 1846, and Priest by the same Bishop in September, 1847.

His first parish was St. Thomas', Brandon, which he held for five years, after which he became Rector of St. James' Church, Hydeville, during which time the parish Church was built. In 1857 he became, by the election of the Trustees of the Vermont Episcopal Institute, the first Professor of Divinity on the Willoughby foundation, then recently established. He continued for a time in charge at Hydeville. In 1858 he became Rector of Calvary Church, East Berkshire, and of Union Church, Montgomery, for some three years, within which time the Rectory was built at East Berkshire. At this time he lost his wife, and was left with a group of quite young children. For their sake he was induced to remove to the vicinity of Poultney, that these helpless ones might be under the wise and loving care of his most excellent mother. For the next five years, therefore, he was Rector at Hydeville and Missionary at Fair Haven and West Rutland.

In 1865 he was called to take charge of Grace Church, Sheldon, and Christ Church, Enosburgh. Seeing very soon the promise of growth at Enosburgh Falls, he began to hold service there which was continued until a Missionary was found for the Station. In 1868, while in charge of Sheldon and Enosburgh, Dr. Bailey received a call from one of the older parishes of the Diocese, with the offer of an increase of his salary. The case was referred to the Bishop for his advice. The motive which was inclining him to accept the call was not the additional compensation, but that in the change he would be able to save the time which he had been obliged to spend in driving ten or twelve miles and back each Sunday, to hold the service at Enosburgh. The people at Sheldon, however, were not willing to part with their Rector, whose value they knew. After canvassing the parish, they offered their Rector the same salary to be Rector at Sheldon only as that which had been offered him from abroad. This proposition Dr. Bailey, with the Bishop's approval, accepted. This involved giving up the service at Enosburgh, where the good people were strongly attached to him. The Bishop well remembers Dr. Bailey's parting with the Sunday School at Enosburgh,—the loving pastoral words in which he bade adieu to them, and the strong affection with which it was plain they regarded him.

Sheldon when it thus became the sole charge of Dr. Bailey, seemed likely to be soon one of the large towns of the State. A mistaken reputation of the efficacy of its mineral waters had been widely spread, and large numbers of people had been attracted to the place where there was such promise of growth and prosperity. But the promise was soon disappointed. The reputation of the waters was discredited, and the financial failure of its people, who had made large investments in the faith of its promise, followed.

It was in such dark days that the erection of the new building of Grace Church was accomplished. The foundations of the old Church had been found unsafe; a new one had been begun, and must be completed under such discouraging circumstances. The carrying through of that undertaking, in spite of the many difficulties attending it, was accomplished principally, I believe, by the faith and devotion of the Rector, and the sympathy which they had caused among his parishioners and friends. The new Grace Church, a plain, substantial, but churchly structure, is a visible monument of the persevering fidelity of the Rector.

The failing resources of his parish soon compelled him to supplement his duties by missionary work ; first at Fairfax, and then at Fairfield. He was still keeping up his services, sometimes at North Sheldon, Congress Hall, and Pine Hill ; seldom omitting them from any inclemency of the weather. Even his failing health of the last three years could not persuade him to give up the service at Sheldon and Fairfield. They were kept up till the last Sunday of his life. In this he was doing some of the most heroic work of which so much has been done in the Diocese of Vermont.

Dr. Bailey had by nature very good gifts ; quick perceptive powers, singularly good judgment, and a memory much more than usually retentive of that which was intrusted to it. Then he was all through life an industrious, persevering student. So he became one of the learned men of the Church. He came to have that which is among the highest of all attainments—a very exact and critical knowledge of the Word of God, in its letter and in its spirit. He could bring forth out of his treasury things new and old—the old truth, so well understood and digested that it was presented with new life and fresh feeling ; showing it to be the truth for all time, old and new.

In the days when the Vermont Convocation held its meetings he gave many valuable papers in exegesis of the hard places of the Scripture. And to the end of his life he was producing most carefully written and edifying sermons. Notwithstanding his very great readiness in extempore speaking, he was rarely willing to preach except with a carefully prepared manuscript. He believed that the exposition of God's Word ought to have the most thoughtful and deliberate preparation.

Quite early in his professional life he began to give much attention to the history of the Church in Vermont.

His diligent researches had much to do with making the "Documentary History" of the Church in Vermont so accurate and valuable as it is. From the stores of his knowledge of our Church History he was able to produce several memorable sermons on occasions of much interest to us all. As at the Special Convention called to elect the successor to Bishop Hopkins; the sermon before the Convention in 1870 in commemoration of the Rev. Dr. Hicks; the sermon at the semi-centennial of the complete organization of the Diocese, October 30, 1882; and last, but most valuable, the sermon at the Centennial held at Arlington.

That sermon is a very large and valuable discourse. With its notes it covers all the annals of the Church in Vermont; supplying many most valuable details, giving us all that has been ascertained of the early parishes,—of the Clergy and many of the Laity. It is a precious addition to the history of the Church.

It is sad for us to remember that the severe and long continued effort required in the production of this historic discourse must have been made when he was quite feeble,—needing, as a sick man, rest rather than absorbing work. Dr. Bailey seemed to understand with almost prophetic insight that this sermon would be the last of all the services which he would be permitted to do for the Diocese of Vermont, and he seemed resolved to spare no labor to make it as perfect as possible. How early he began its composition is not known. At the time of the Convention he told the Bishop that the manuscript was much too long for delivery as a sermon, although it was not then complete, and it was only finished near the end of August.

When it was complete he went West, and had a very delightful visit with his children in Illinois and Missouri.

After his return he seemed for a time about in his usual condition. He officiated as usual at Sheldon and Fairfield, notwithstanding the severity of the weather and the bad condition of the roads. His last service was on Quinquagesima Sunday, February 8th. Two days after he was attacked with cerebral hemorrhage; he was unconscious most of the time until his death, Saturday evening, February 14th.

Dr. Bailey was one of the deputies to the General Convention from 1867 to 1874,—member of the Standing Committee of the Diocese from 1854 to 1862, and again from 1875 until the time of his death;—member of the Board of Land Agents since 1868;—a Trustee of the Aged and Infirm Clergy fund from the time of the constitution of that Board;—Chairman of the Committee on Canons since that Committee was organized; Registrar of the Church from the establishment of the office till 1888.

In Dr. Bailey's death we all, Bishop, Clergy, Laity, lose one of our most devoted fellow laborers, a most trusted adviser and most loving friend. But most of all are we bound to give God thanks that such a blessed life, of nearly three score years and ten, has been lived among us. I say most blessed, because it was in so many respects, a copy from the life of our Master;—in the strong sense of duty which seemed to be always its controlling power;—in the so complete forgetfulness of self when there was work for Christ or His Church to be done;—in the pastoral fidelity in which he was so literally "giving his life for the sheep";—in the faith and cheerful patience with which all his many trials were borne,—yes it was a blessed life; the preparation for one more blessed and unending.

And recently has come to us the news of the very sudden death of Rev. George G. Jones, late Missionary at Newport and North Troy. Mr. Jones was born in Sterling, Massachusetts, October 9th, 1822 and graduated at the Wesleyan University, 1844. After his college course he was Professor of Ancient Languages, first at Amenia Seminary, New York; then at McKendrell College in Illinois; then Principal of Oak Grove Seminary, Ala. Originally a Methodist, he was ordained by Bishop Eastburn in 1862.

During the late civil war he was Chaplain of the Thirteenth New Hampshire Volunteers. On September 18, 1875, he was transferred to this Diocese, and became Rector of St. Peter's, Bennington, which place he held until 1880; and where he was greatly respected and loved. Retaining still his connection with the Diocese of Vermont, he did some work at the South and in the Dioceses of Massachusetts and New Hampshire. Like many who were in the war, he brought from it the seeds of disease from which he suffered all his life. In the autumn of 1877 he reported to the Bishop that he thought himself so far recovered that he could undertake the pastoral charge again. He then took the missions of Newport and North Troy, which he held until his death. Under his wise and able care these missions were very prosperous. He had gone to Boston after Easter to meet his family, who had been spending the winter at the South, and was found dead in his bed, probably from heart disease.

The General Missionary who had taken the service in the Missions in his place the Sunday after the news of his death found the Churches of both Missions had been suitably draped in mourning for him; and by the earnest request of both the congregations he was moved to hold in each place memorial services for their late Missionary. The people who had known him best and profited by his pastoral care were forward to testify their full confidence in him, and their esteem and love for their late Pastor and Missionary.

There were many of our number who heard with much sadness the tidings of the death of the Rev. Nathaniel French Putnam, who died at Salt Lake City, the fourth Sunday after Easter, April 26th. Rev. Mr. Putnam was for more than fifteen years among the most faithful of our Clergy. He was ordained Priest by Bishop Hopkins in St. John's Church, Poultney. During his Rectorship at Poultney, Trinity Church was built. In 1870 he became Rector of St. Luke's, St. Albans, which charge he held until August 1st, 1876, when he was called to be Rector at St. Johnsbury. Under his administration the new parish of St. Andrew's was formed, the congregation gathered, and the Church built and consecrated.

Rev. Mr. Putnam was, like many of our Vermont Clergy, abundant in Missionary work outside his parishes. Besides services held in many places, the Missions at Newport and North Troy were started and carried on by him until they were found of sufficient importance to need the full services of a Missionary. He left among us the reputation of a most faithful Pastor and a devoted servant of God. His service in Salt Lake City showed the full ripening of his Priestly and Christian character, as is most abundantly shown in the strong and glowing tributes to his memory paid by his Bishop, his fellow Clergy, and congregation, which testify their love and admiration for him, and their sense of the greatness of their loss in his death.

After the adjournment of the last Convention I carried on the summer visitation of the parishes as appointed. By God's blessing I was able to visit all the parishes and missions, with the exception of one, where there were classes prepared for confirmation. November 20th I had the great satisfaction of officiating at the solemn Benediction of the new Chancel of Trinity Church, Shelburn. Very great improvements to this pretty rural Church have been made by a liberal parishioner. A spacious Chancel, with tile floor, beautiful walls, very fine enameled windows, a new altar and furniture, a very striking bell turret, with a porte cochere at the base.

December 2d I consecrated to the glory and worship of Almighty God Gethsemane Church, Proctorsville, a beautiful and convenient Church, built on the site of the small chapel erected by Miss Sally Parker. The terms of Miss Parker's will were thus fulfilled, and a spacious lot of ground, sufficient for the Church and Rectory, was secured. The last service of that visitation was on December 17th, the Ordination to the Priesthood of the Rev. Judah Dana, in Grace Church, West Rutland. He had been a Candidate for Deacons Order only, and as such ordained in 1885. But after more than five years of most faithful service in that lower order he was, by the advice of the Bishop and the Clergy, who knew his excellent work, advanced to the Priesthood, to the great satisfaction of his parishioners.

I left Vermont the day following, and, after a brief visit to my children in Detroit, I spent the winter at Pass Christian, Miss.

I returned to Vermont May 1st, and began at once a visitation before appointed, in which I have since that time been engaged. In these visitations I have delivered thirty-four sermons and addresses; celebrated the Holy Communion thirty-two times; confirmed 304 persons; catechised five times; baptised two adults and one infant; consecrated one Church, received the transfer of one Clergyman; transferred two others. I have given consent to the Consecration of the Rev. Edward R. Atwell, D. D., Bishop Elect of West Missouri, and of the Rev. David Sessums, Assistant Bishop-elect of Louisiana.

Within the past year there have been the following changes among the Clergy of the Diocese. The Rev. George Aloysius Wilkins, ordained Deacon on Trinity Sunday of last year, has become Minister in charge of Christ Church, Bethel, and Grace Church, Randolph. The Rev. Alfred H. Wheeler, ordained at the same time, has become Missionary and Minister in charge of Christ Church, Island Pond. The Rev. John Henry Hopkins also ordained Deacon at that time, has been transferred to the Diocese of New York. The Rev. Clarence N. Conant, Deacon, was received from the Diocese of Newark and has become Minister in charge of Zion Church, Manchester Center.

The Rev. Paul Flinn Swett, graduate of the General Seminary of New York, ordained Deacon on the first Sunday after Trinity, 1891, has become Missionary and Minister in charge of St. John's Church, Highgate, and Holy Trinity, Swanton. The Rev. William Buxton Clift, also a graduate from the Seminary, was ordained Deacon at the same time, and has become Missionary at Newport and North Troy, vacant through the death of the Rev. George G. Jones.

The Missions of the Diocese have been generally prospered. Five were confirmed at Fair Haven, and one at Hydeville. The debt on the Rectory at West Rutland has been reduced, six were confirmed there, and nine at a second time. The service has been maintained at Forestdale and at East Middlebury. Shelburn ceases to be a Mission, and becomes henceforward a parish. Two were confirmed there. The Missionary at Winooski, now relieved from the charge of Shelburn, will be able to give that station more time and care. At Milton the building of the new Church has been begun, the funds needed for its completion having been provided; and on the 14th of May, with many of the clergy and a large gathering of the people of the Mission and friends, I laid the cornerstone of Trinity Church, Milton. Six persons were confirmed at Swanton. A small class was ready for confirmation at Fairfax, but an indisposition of the Bishop prevented the visitation at the time appointed. Six were confirmed at Enosburgh Falls, three at Christ Church, Enosburgh. Three persons were confirmed at St. Augustine's, North Troy. Eleven were confirmed at St. Mark's, Newport. Christ Church, Island Pond, was not visited, having been some time vacant. Six were confirmed at White River Junction. Two were confirmed at Proctorsville, at the consecration of the new Church.

There have been some notable improvements in some of our parishes. In St. Michael's, Brattleboro, the floor of the Chancel, including the choir and the sanctuary, has been raised; the walls of the latter colored in two shades of terra cotta. The east wall of the sanctuary has been ceiled in chestnut, surmounted by a frieze, ornamented with trefoils and a pointed cornice. The altar has been raised, and stands upon a broad step of polished ash, and the re-table is also of the same material, the front being one of the most beautiful specimens of the native wood, very highly polished and containing the inscription: "Holy, Holy, Holy," in gold leaf. The organ has been moved to the epistle side of the chancel, and stalls are placed in the choir. A rood screen of polished chestnut, designed for this Church by R. Geissler, of New York, has been erected, and there is a continuation of this screen across the two bays, the one containing the organ and the other the font, separating the latter from the main body of the Church and forming the baptistry. The space formerly occupied by the organ at the west end of the Church has been taken into the nave, and filled with pews. A choir room has been built at the east end of the Church, and the male choir of eighteen voices is now suitably vested.

At Immanuel Church, Bellows Falls, the Schouler Chapel and Parish House, built in granite like the Church, and connected therewith at the southern porch by a handsome cloister, has been erected by the generosity of Mrs. James H. Williams. Handsome stalls and a large Bible for the Chapel were the gifts of Mrs. Aaron Arms. A water motor has been added to the organ in the Church. The Rectory has been painted and papered. There is now a vested choir of twenty-four men and boys to aid in the service of the Church.

At Trinity Church, Rutland, very extensive additions have been made. There is here a new and spacious Chancel with tiled floor; a very beautiful marble altar, an organ chapel, and a choir room, with cloisters connected with it on either side. The organ has been removed from the base of the tower, which is now opened through the center aisle, and there is also a very well-trained choir of men and boys, suitably vested, which is a great help in the service. The Church has also incandescent electric lights. The changes and additions have made this Church one of the most convenient and beautiful in the Diocese. I greatly regretted that the delay in completing these alterations prevented me from being present at the Benediction of the new Chancel and its furnishings. At my request the Bishop of Albany kindly came and officiated.

At Christ Church, Bethel, a proper set of Communion linen was given by two communicants, fifty dollars toward the purchase of a bell for the Church by another, and a vested choir of mixed voices adds to the service on Festival occasions.

Immediately after the receipt of the Centennial Journal I sent a letter to his Grace, the Archbishop of Canterbury, the President of the Venerable Society for the Propagation of the Gospel in Foreign Parts, inclosing a copy of the Resolutions of that Convention. Of that letter the Archbishop spoke with much feeling in his Address, at the Society's Anniversary, April 30th :

“Then I have one other thing to name, because it touched me considerably, and I should like to lay it before this meeting—quite a different matter, and away from this report. I received last month a letter from the Bishop of Vermont. The history of the action between that Diocese and this Society is very interesting ; and probably many of you know that they held lately a Centenary Convention. Well, the first thing that they did there, after thanking God for His great mercies in the development of their Church, was to express their obligations to the Venerable Society for the Propagation of the Gospel in Foreign Parts, and its liberal disposition of grants made within the State in which it held for the support of the Bishop, its parishes, the Missions and Church in Vermont. They passed these two resolutions, which I should like to read, one concerning ourselves. The Convention resolved that :—

yard bore the burden and heat of the day, and by whose wisdom and self-denying efforts this branch of the Lord's planting at length became immovably rooted in an unpropitious soil. Resolved, that we thankfully recognize the great debt due from the Church within this Diocese to the provident care and generous aid of the Venerable Society for the Propagation of the Gospel in Foreign Parts, through which for many years it has been greatly relieved in support of its Bishop, and the maintenance of its missionary work."

Now may I read you the third resolution, and may we resolve also, for we have far greater cause to be thankful, that we will make the same vow that the Diocese of Vermont has made:—

"Resolved, That by God's help we will ourselves endeavor to be faithful Stewards of the sacred treasures transmitted to us, and to pass them on to the generations that come after us."

(The whole Convention rose to their feet as they passed that resolution.)

May God, by His Blessed Spirit, direct all our deliberations; may He teach us what we should do for the prosperity of His Kingdom. And may His blessing be upon us,—on the congregations to which we belong, and on all in the household of faith.

The Rev. Mr. Buckley submitted the following resolution :

Resolved, That the time of holding our Diocesan Convention be changed from the third Wednesday in June to the first Wednesday of the same month, which was amended upon motion of the Rev. Mr. Godard, leaving it for the Bishop to fix the day, and pending the consideration of the resolution, the whole matter was laid upon the table.

On motion of Mr. Briggs,

Resolved, That the Auditors of Trust Funds be requested to report to the next Convention whether any action is desirable in regard to the investment of the Trust Funds of the Diocese, and if any action is desirable, and what action.

On motion Mr. Woodfin,

Resolved, That the Parishes be requested to report to the Auditors each year prior to the annual Convention any and all Legacies or special Funds held in trust for the benefit of the Parish or for any special object, stating the purpose or purposes of such funds.

The Committee appointed at last Convention to take into consideration the expediency of revising the blanks on which the several Parishes made their reports. Through their chairman the Rev. Mr. Goddard submitted their report, embracing a full explanation of various changes proposed to be made in the Constitution and Canons, together with resolutions accompanying, which was read by the Chairman, and on his motion referred to the Committee on Canons.

On motion Rev. Mr. Buckley,

Resolved, That the report of the special Committee upon the expediency of revising the blanks for parochial reports be printed in the Appendix of the Journal. [8.]

On motion Mr. Woodfin, the Convention adjourned to meet at 7:30 P. M.

WEDNESDAY, June 17, 7:30 P. M.

The Convention met pursuant to adjournment, the Rev. Dr. Bliss in the chair.

The President stated that the business before the Convention was the consideration of the Missionary work of the Diocese.

Atwell, Niles, Randall and others respecting the Missionary work in their respective jurisdictions. The Rev. Frederick R. Graves, missionary to China, then made a very interesting address.

The Convention then proceeded to the election of a Missionary Committee, which resulted in the choice of the following persons :—

Divine service being concluded, the President took the chair, and the Convention proceeded with the unfinished business.

The resolution of the Rev. Mr. Buckley relative to the time of holding the next annual Convention was then taken from the table on motion of the Rev. Mr. Smith, and the following substitute was adopted :

Resolved, That the time of holding the next annual Convention be the third Wednesday in June, 1892.

The Rev. Dr. Bliss, then submitted the following Resolution which was adopted by a rising vote.

Resolved, That this Convention desires to express its deep sense of the loss it has sustained in the death of the Rev. Albert Hopson Bailey, D. D. Identified with its history since 1846, he has from that time till its present session ever been one of its ablest and most valuable members. He has served with efficiency on nearly all of its more important Boards and Committees. For 24 years has he been one of the standing Committee. Twice has he been chosen to represent the Diocese in the General Convention of the Church. Chairman of the Committee on Canons since its original organization. He has been especially influential in shaping the legislation of the Diocese. Broad and accurate in his information, familiar with both the general and the Diocesan statutes, quick in his perceptions, discriminating in judgment, cautious in forming his opinions, firm, while modest in maintaining them, forcible and clear in statement, his conclusions have been received with profound deference, and have been generally approved both by the Committee on Canons and by the Convention. In a wide range of graces and virtues this Convention recognizes that Dr. Bailey possessed an exceptionally high character as a man and as a minister of our Lord Jesus Christ, and while bowing in glad submission to our Heavenly Father's will, we can but feel that in his removal this Convention and the Diocese have suffered an unusual bereavement.

The Committee on Finance submitted its report, which, on motion of Mr. Chapman, of Middlebury, was accepted and adopted, and assessments ordered as recommended by the Committee to be considered due September 1st.

Church Services—Sunday mornings and evenings and frequently during Lent. Holy Communion on the first Sunday in every month. Early celebrations on third and fifth Sundays and on all great Festivals.

During the past year the interior of the church has been greatly improved. The floor of the chancel, including both choir and sanctuary, has been raised, and the walls of the latter newly colored, the eastern wall being ceiled below the windows. The altar has been raised, and now stands upon a broad step of polished ash. The front of the re-table is one of the most beautiful specimens of the same native wood, and contains the inscription, "Holy, Holy, Holy," in gold leaf. The organ has been moved to the Epistle side of the chancel, and stalls placed in the choir. A rood screen of polished chestnut, designed for this church by R. Geissler, of New York, has been erected, and there is a continuance of this screen across the two bays, the one containing the organ, and the other the font, separating the latter from the main body of the church, and forming the baptistry. The space formerly occupied by the organ, at the west end of the church, has been filled with pews. A choir room has been built, and the choir is now suitably vested in cassocks and cottas.

Church Services—Clerical 12, lay 3, total 15. The Holy Communion, three times. Lay Readers, the same three as at Cambridge Center. Donations: Chancel and Record Books, many church and Sunday School papers, from Dr. and the late Mrs. A. W. Holden; an altar cross from Mrs. Abram Wing; and the offer of a pulpit lectern from the Church of the Messiah; all of Glens Falls, N. Y. On March 8th a service was held in memory of Mrs. Holden, with offerings for missions, and a font, besides the new cross. Deaths and removals have diminished our numbers and resources about one half from the beginning, two years ago. This fact has mainly compelled us to reduce about one half, the number of services, and the Missionary's allowance. Many calls have been made as usual. A friend from Winooski sent some Christmas booklets for our children, and only outside help has enabled us to meet our apportionment for Diocesan Missions, which has this year been so largely increased; we may be "faint, yet pursuing."

Church Services—Clerical 36, lay, occasional, say 15 to 20, total 56. The Holy Communion five times, in private once at Fairfax Village, total six times. The deaths of two communicants, Mr. William Buck, a vestryman, and Mrs. Fanny (Haynes) Buck, one of our oldest members, further reduced our small numbers, and adds much to the severity of our recent losses. In this sparse community, we have frequent discouragements, yet we press on. To make out our very large quota for missions this year, we have been obliged to have frequent offerings, and, at last, to ask the aid of the Woman's Auxiliary from funds earned by them for painting the church. We need more services and more means, not only here, but also at each of the other five missions now served by one priest. In God is our help!

Church Services—Regular lay reading on Sundays and occasional clerical services, including preparation and presentation of Confirmation class by Rev. R. C. Searing. On St. Matthew's Day, 1890, Rev. C. M. Conant took charge. Two services on Sundays; evening prayer on Wednesdays (cottage service), Fridays and Saturdays. Morning prayer and Pro Anaphera on all Holy Days (not Sundays). Daily prayer during Lent (morning and evening on Wednesdays and Fridays), and twice daily during Holy Week. Holy Communion about once a month by courtesy of Rev. R. C. Searing, to whom the minister in charge and the parish gratefully acknowledge their indebtedness, and also by kindness of Rev. Wm. Farrar Weeks. During the year the church property and furnishings have been augmented by the following gifts: A handsome coping surmounting the wall about two sides of the church, costing $120, and the deed of lot in rear of church and rectory (lowest possible value $50) from the Senior Warden; an altar Service book at Christmas (cost $5) by various communicants; a set of white hangings for altar, pulpit and lectern (cost $34.92) by the Young Ladies' Guild at Easter; a Florentine (blue) marble Font (cost $40) by Rev. E. B. Taylor, Vergennes, Mrs. Ligerwood, of New York, and various communicants, on the third Sunday after Easter.

On Tuesday evenings during Lent the parish was favored with an exceedingly able and helpful course of sermons by the Revs. George D. Sulliman and Joseph Corey, S. T.D., of Albany Diocese, and the Revs. E. B. Taylor, Wm. Farrar Weeks and Wm. Bogert Walker, of our own Diocese. To these unselfish laborers in the Lord's vineyard as well as to the untiring courtesies of the Rev. R. C. Searing, of St James' Church, Arlington, we extend our grateful acknowledgments. Materially and spiritually this old parish shows signs of renewed vigor. We also gratefully acknowledge the generosity of Mr. and Mrs. Schuyler Skaats, of New York, in sending us munificent gifts of flowers, fruit, candy and Christmas cards at the Nativity season, 1890, and most beautiful floral decorations at Easter, 1891.

Offerings by ladies through Woman's Auxiliary are reported under that department of church work.

Church Services are held in this mission each Sunday afternoon. The attendance is good. The people are poor and mostly foreign. The missionary and minister in charge have been for many years hampered in their work here by having far too many fields to cultivate. But it is hoped that when Mr. Bailey is relieved of the work at Shelburne, much more personal attention can be devoted to the people in this village, and it is fully believed that our church has a great work to do here which will in a measure be inaugurated and in working order before the next annual convention.

JAMES B. JONES,
CHARLE F. CHAPMAN, } Lay Delegates.

RUTLAND, MAY 30, 1891.

To the Rt. Rev. the Bishop of Vermont:—

My labors during the past year have been extended over a larger territory than formerly, as I have, as general missionary, to cover the entire State. At your request I have visited several of the organized missionary stations, and officiated, and celebrated the Holy Communion. This part of my work is very important, in the fact that otherwise they would have been for a long period deprived of the ministrations of the priesthood. At West Randolph, through Holy Week, I held a mission which was largely attended, and a marked interest awakened in the church. The Rev. George G. Jones, the beloved Rector of Newport and North Troy, having been called suddenly from his earthly labors, to the realities of the other world, I preached the Sunday following in those places a memorial sermon. In several instances where the clergy were in the Diaconate I have assisted them, and celebrated the Holy Communion. A second visitation has been made to many towns, and the people welcomed me again most cordially, and seemed to feel it a privilege to engage in the services. A number of new towns also received attention, and my list of scattered communicants considerably increased. In the towns throughout the State where we have no place of worship, the Ministers of the other Christian bodies have very kindly and willingly placed their house of worship at my disposal, so that I feel under great obligations to them for their christian courtesy and thoughtfulness. The good results of this general missionary effort are becoming apparent, in that I have, during the last year, baptized both adults and children, who, had I not visited the towns where they reside, would have been in some other communion or remained in the world.

There is one feature of the work in this State which is discouraging, and that is the tendency of the people to migrate. It is illustrated by the mission at Ludlow, which has lost every communicant but one by removal, so that it has been thought best to discontinue it. In towns like Barre, where the population is large and constantly increasing, there is a demand for the placing of some one who can do aggressive work, and by residing in the town exert an influence in favor of the church and its teachings. This is the only way the church in any town can become a power for the spread of the true faith.

In teaching the scattered flock, I have aimed to impress upon the mind that they should teach the Catechism to their children, and also make the Prayer Book the best exponent or interpretation of the Gospel.

Being obliged in this State to travel largely by private conveyance, much time is consumed, and the labors are fatiguing. It happens also in this State that places a short distance away in a direct line, are a day's journey apart, because of the mountains. The missionary because of this cannot get over the diocese very rapidly, and finds very few moments of rest.

Before closing this report I wish to express to the Woman's Auxiliary my appreciation of the earnest support received from that quarter, in aid of the general mission work, and I would also express my grateful remembrance of the kindly sympathy and aid manifested in many ways by the Bishop and Clergy of the Diocese. Below is found a summary of what has been done: Travelled 7,837 miles; visited 83 towns; calls made 230; baptisms 8; celebrations 35; officiated 163 times.

Church Services—Morning and evening prayer daily. On Sundays have attended St. Paul's church or had services in the Institute chapel.

The following tables correctly represent the statements of the Parochial Reports. In only three respects has the least liberty been taken with the figures as given in the reports:—

1. Totals omitted in the reports have been made by the Committee, and incorrect footings corrected.

2. Offerings for the Indians and Colored People have been included under the head of Domestic Missions, and when the offerings for all missions have been reported in one sum, they have been divided to the several columns according to the rule of the Diocese, three-fourths to the Diocese, and one fourth equally divided to Domestic and Foreign Missions.

3. Where no reports have been received, the number of Communicants last reported has been introduced as the present number, for the sake of making the summaries more complete, and in the reports of Communicants we have ventured to make the first and last columns consistent by corrections in the column “died and removed,” assuming that the “present number” is, of course, correctly reported, and that errors are most likely in the column referred to.

The work of the Committee has been rendered doubly trying by the imperfect nature of the reports. Should any inconsistencies appear, the Committee is not responsible; the inaccuracy must be attributed to the reports.

Report of the Standing Committee.

The Standing Committee respectfully reports its proceedings for the past year :

June 19, 1890, met at the Arlington Hotel, Arlington, and organized by the election of the Rev. J. Isham Bliss, D.D., President, and the Rev. A. B. Flanders, Secretary.

August 19, 1890, met in St. Paul's Rectory, Burlington. Consent was given to the consecration of the Rev. Edward R. Atwill, D. D., as Bishop of the Diocese of West Missouri. The testimonials of the Rev. Lucius M. Hardy, recommending him to the Bishop for Priest's Orders, were signed.

November 6, 1890, met in St. Paul's Rectory, Burlington. The testimonials recommending the Rev. Judah Dana, Deacon, for Priest's Orders, were signed. It was voted to approve the testimonials of Charles E. Livingstone, recommending him to the Bishop as a candidate for Holy Orders.

December 9, 1890, met at St. Paul's Rectory, Burlington. The committee voted unanimously to sign the papers consenting to the consecration of the Rev. Henry Mellville Jackson, of Richmond, Va., duly elected assistant Bishop of Alabama.

The committee also acted upon the notification of Bishop Neely of the election of the Rev. John Wright Chapman, at a special meeting of the House of Bishops held at Pittsburg, Penn., as Bishop of the missionary jurisdiction of Alaska. There being some technical difficulties in the way,—some doubts as to the legality of the election,—the committee deemed it advisable to withhold consent to his consecration, believing that the whole matter should lie over for action at the next General Convention.

April 30, 1891, met at St. Paul's Rectory, Burlington, and gave consent to the consecration of the Rev. David Sessums, M. A., elected assistant Bishop of the Diocese of Louisiana.

May 28, 1891, met at St. Paul's Rectory, Burlington, and signed the testimonials of Mr. William Buxton Clift, and of Mr. Paul Flynn Swett, recommending them to the Bishop for ordination to the Diaconate.

The testimonials of the Rev. Clarence M. Conant for Priest's Orders were found uncanonical, and the committee were compelled to refuse consent to his ordination.

June 17, 1891, met in the chapel of Trinity Church, Rutland, and signed the testimonials of the Rev. Alfred H. Wheeler, and of the Rev. George Aloysius Wilkins, recommending them to the Bishop for Priest's Orders.

Resolutions relating to the death of their honored brother and colleague, the Rev. Albert Hopson Bailey, D.D., were also passed, and ordered to be placed upon the Record.

Respectfully submitted,

ALONZO B. FLANDERS, Secretary.

Rutland, Vt., June 17, 1891.

Vermont Episcopal Institute.

THIRTY-FIFTH ANNUAL REPORT.

JUNE 17, 1891.

The Trustees in submitting their thirty-fifth annual report to the Convention, would say, that the Willoughby Professor has been at all times prepared to attend to the duties of his professorship, when there have been students or candidates desiring instruction, and during the last year has given instruction accordingly at different times.

ACADEMICAL DEPARTMENT.

In no year since the foundation of the Institute, has the work done in the Academical Department been more satisfactory—never has there been a nobler set of young men, and never those who have been more devoted to their studies, or who have made greater improvement.

The health of the pupils has been remarkably good: hardly during the whole year have the services of a physician been required.

The military drill which has become an established feature of this school has been regularly maintained, and the benefit to the health, physical culture, and manly bearing of the pupils is very perceptible.

As the arrangements with Mr. Ross as principal have by the term of the agreement with him expired, the Trustees have this day made another with him for the term of five years, upon practically the same basis as before.

BISHOP HOPKINS HALL.

We are glad to say, that the high standard of instruction which was established at the opening of this Department of the Institute, has been well maintained the present year; and that teachers and scholars both have manifested great interest in the performance of their duties, and the examinations show that real solid work has been done in all branches. The number of pupils has increased the last year, with a flattering prospect of a still further increase the ensuing year.

We have received from Dr. and Mrs. W. Seward Webb, of Shelburne, another substantial indication of their interest in the work of Diocesan education, by a donation of $4,409.34, which has been expended at their suggestion in some improvements in Bishop Hopkins Hall, and the erection of a building 30 by 40, three stories high, for the purposes of a laundry, and additional rooms.

FINANCES.

REPORT OF THE
Missionary Committee

OF THE DIOCESE OF VERMONT.

The Missionary Committee beg leave to present their report.

At the Centennial Convention held at Arlington, Vt., June 18, 1890, it was voted on motion of Rev. R. C. Searing, that the Missionary Committee be directed to raise for Diocesan Missions for the coming year, a sum not less than in former years, and for a Diocesan Missionary at the rate of $1,500 a year, the time of the Missionary to commence October 1st, 1890, and appropriate the amount needed among the Parishes and Mission Stations, as they may deem best for the good of the Missionary work in the Parishes.

The usual notice for Diocesan and General Missions was sent out, and for the Diocesan Missionary the following letter :

"At the last Diocesan Convention the following resolution was adopted :—

"Resolved, That the Missionary Committee be directed to raise for Diocesan Missions for the coming year a sum not less than in former years, and for a Diocesan Missionary at the rate of $1,500 per year, the time of the Missionary to commence October 1st, 1890, and appropriate the amount needed among the Parishes and Mission Stations, as they may deem best for the good of the Missionary Work in the Parishes."

As you will see, the Diocese, commencing with October 1st, 1890, becomes responsible for this amount. The Ladies' Auxiliary have agreed to assume one-half of the $1,500 a year salary of the Missionary, leaving $750 to be apportioned among the several Parishes and Missions. This necessarily calls for extra offerings, the appropriations commencing each quarter ; and the Committee ask that in addition to your regular apportionment, your Parish shall pay for the period ending July 1st, 1891, the following sum, $——.

The attention of the Committee was called to the fact, if the Committee should assume charge of the work of the Diocesan Missionary, it would create the inevitable necessity of this additional expense ; with the full knowledge of this fact there was a unanimous vote in favor of such action, and now the Committee is compelled to ask that the several Parishes and Missions redeem the pledges made by their clerical and lay representatives of the Convention.

In fulfillment of the motion by Rev. E. P. Lee, at the last Convention, the following letter was promulgated :

"At the Diocesan Convention this year, held at Arlington, June 18 and 19, by motion of the Rev. Mr. Lee, the following was adopted :—

"Resolved, That it shall be the duty of the Missionary Committee to confer with the several Missions and Parishes receiving aid from the Mission Funds of the Diocese, and together fix a definite sum which each of the said Missions and Parishes shall pay toward the support of their Missionaries."

This resolution simply gives direction as to the action that shall be taken in accordance with the Canons as to each aided Parish and Mission, shall contribute toward the work in the Diocese. The appropriation for your Parish will, of course, depend somewhat upon the contingency of how much it will be able to do to help itself this year. The calls are many, and several promising fields might be occupied did the funds at the command of the Missionary Committee justify their incurring the expenditures. This being so, the Committee feels it its duty to ask that where aid is granted, the Parish or Mission aided, shall agree to help itself to a fair extent; hence this action, which is in accordance with the positive directions of the Convention. Will you please at once write to the Secretary of the Committee at Burlington, with reference to the matter, stating the largest amount that you think can be raised in your Parish for the support of the Church? A feeling has arisen that some of the aided Parishes and Missions have not, in the past, done their whole duty in this regard, but have received more aid than has been commensurate with their efforts in their own behalf. Unless the contributions are larger than expected, if new fields shall be occupied, the amount appropriated to the present aided Parishes and Missions may possibly have to be lessened, and of course those that show the most disposition to help themselves will be quite likely to be the ones who will receive the most liberal consideration at the hands of the Committee."

The next meeting was held September 9th, 1890, when the Sub-Committee presented their report, which was accepted and adopted, and other resolutions of a clerical nature were made.

The last meeting was held June 11th, 1891, at which all the members were present excepting Rev. C. M. Niles. Various matters pertaining to missionary work and outlook were discussed, and resolutions relating to suggestions applying to the same, passed. It was also resolved to appropriate $50 for St. Mary's, Northfield, Vt.

The Committee suggests that the efficient work of the Rev. B. W. Atwell, General Missionary, be continued, and hopes that some means may be found for the same.

The Committee would also recommend that the necessary expenses of the Clerical Members while attending the meetings of the Committee, be paid from the fund at the disposal of the Committee.

We would likewise recommend that a sufficient sum be appropriated for Barre, as in the opinion of the Committee it is the most promising mission field in the Diocese at the present day.

On account of vacancies in several of the Mission Stations by death or removal, but $3,611.05 has been expended.

In conclusion, the condition of missionary effort in the Diocese today, cannot be better expressed than in the words of the Secretary for the year 1887, when he says :

“The amount we have apportioned is the smallest sum with which it is possible to carry on missionary work for 1890 and 1891. We have no help to expect from outside sources, and must raise this amount among ourselves. While more is needed, and while much more could be advantageously used, this is the amount we ought to have, and absolutely must have. If any parish fails to raise the sum named on the opposite page, we have only chance possible gifts to make good the deficiency. We say chance possible gifts, for there is nothing else certain, unless it be a deficiency. In order to arrange details and carry on the work, the Convention annually names three clergymen not receiving missionary aid from the Diocese, and three laymen, to form a council of advisers and assistants to the Bishop.

“In order to guide the contributors, this Missionary Board has issued the appended schedule of such sums as it seems fair and necessary that each station should give. The amount named for Diocesan Missions is the smallest indispensably and imperatively necessary amount which the Board can assign. Those points which receive aid, receive it on condition of contributing to the Diocesan Missionary Work. Let this be noted. The sum named for General Missions is that which it is most earnestly recommended each point should raise for the work in the United States and abroad. The sum named for Diocesan work must be raised, if we would keep faith with Missionaries actually at work, and preserve a semblance of decency and honor."

Respectfully submitted,

J. ROSS ROBERTS, Secretary.

Report on Christian Education.

The intellectual training of our children is necessary, if we would secure the development of their mental powers and faculties. In the majority of cases, we believe that it should also be accompanied by some kind of manual instruction. Every parent owes a duty to his children and to the community wherein they dwell. They are to avail themselves of the provisions made for their benefit, and not allowed to grow up to man's estate in indolence, ignorance and illiteracy, thereby becoming not only public burdens, but actual reënforcements to the dangerous and criminal classes. It is to avoid such a condition of affairs, that laws relating to compulsory education have been enacted and in some countries rigidly enforced.

Now, while it is admitted that intellectual culture, together with physical and industrial training, should be carried on, certainly no less attention should be given to Christian education, but it is evident that, owing to the sad divisions existing in the Christian church of today, a system of religious training cannot be introduced into our public institutions of learning. There, the soul of the child is practically ignored. He is told that he has a mind to be cultivated and a body to be nourished, strengthened and kept in health, in order that he may accomplish his life-work, but he receives no definite instruction in regard to his duty toward God.

The opponents of the public schools of our country have not hesitated to denounce them as Godless and irreligious. We question the truth and propriety of such language, for the majority of the teachers as well as of the officers connected with the same, are "those who profess and call themselves Christians."

This subject of Christian Education is one of vital importance and interest to us as churchmen. At the present time much laxity exists in regard to it, not only in the world at large but even among the several religious bodies around us. It is of the utmost importance that our children should be well and thoroughly instructed in Christian knowledge, and in accordance with the exhortation in the office of Public Baptism, that "they should learn the Creed, the Lord's Prayer and the Ten Commandments, and all other things which a Christian ought to know and believe for his soul's health." Recognizing the fact that positive religious teaching is essential, we believe that the basis of all religious instruction in this branch of the Holy Catholic Church should be the Catechism—that form of sound words which should be taught to all baptized children as soon as they shall be able to learn, and to all children coming under our system of religious truth. If parents could be convinced of their duty in this respect, the results would be far more satisfactory than they are at present, and when children are sent away from home to be educated, such schools should only be patronized as provide in the curricula for so important a matter; and this leads us to speak of our own diocesan institutions of learning.

Affairs at the Vermont Episcopal Institute, at Rock Point, are in a flourishing condition. The school for boys, under the able management of Principal H. H. Ross, continues to do good work for the Christian Education of young men. Under Rev. L. M. Hardy's management, Bishop Hopkins Hall is sending out into the world a large number of carefully and conscientiously trained Christian women. Yet there is a great lack in both these schools, not due, however, to those who have them in charge—and that is, the dearth of Vermont children among their pupils. The cause is not difficult to find. In order to have good schools worthy of our church, and schools so equipped as to give the best results in mental, physical, and moral education, the price for the school year must necessarily be high. The majority of Vermont churchmen who would like to have their children educated at Rock Point, are not able financially to expend the $400 or $500 annually which would be involved in such a course. Therefore these schools should by all means be endowed for the benefit of the children of Vermont churchmen. And as one means to this end, your Committee would suggest that each parish raise gradually a fund with which to endow these institutions with a scholarship for a pupil from that parish. This is being done now in one parish of the Diocese.

At the University of Vermont and State Agricultural College there have been during the past year twenty pupils who are communicants of the church, besides many others from church families. These make a large percentage of the students, and under such circumstances, the Institution being a State College, it seems to your Committee that the attention of its Trustees should be called to the propriety of having this church represented in the faculty of the University, as it has not been for the three years past.

It is our pleasure as well as our duty to recommend to the members of our communion these two Diocesan Institutions of sound learning, and to urge upon them, that, so far as it is possible, they should endeavor to patronize them and thus extend their influence and contribute to their prosperity. That great and substantial advantages to the church in Vermont would arise from such a course, no one can deny, and it seems to your Committee that all Vermont churchmen having children to educate have also a plain duty in this respect.

REPORT OF COMMITTEE

ON

Sunday Schools.

It was thought by your committee at the beginning of the conventional year, that one or more institutes might be held, the object being the increase of enthusiasm in the Sunday School work of the Diocese, but nothing of the kind was attempted. This neglect may have been the fault of the committee having charge of the work, or it may be attributed to other causes over which they had little or no control, for it cannot be denied that there are certain hindrances to aggressive work in this particular direction, in our own Diocese. Lack of funds, with which to procure the services of efficient and prominent persons, to address the schools, the distance to be traveled from one part of the Diocese to the other, the uncertainty of obtaining a general attendance on the part of Sunday School teachers, and others interested in this specific work—all combine to prevent such action as your committee would be glad to see carried out. They do not assert that any of the hindrances mentioned are insurmountable, but recall them to your attention as palliatives for their apparent indifference in this matter. If it could be so arranged that this important branch of the church's work could be recognized at the meeting of the convention, we should then be able to hold a meeting some time during its session, with the certainty of having a good attendance on the part of both clergy and laity, and even one such meeting each year would be productive of good, in arousing an interest upon the subject. As it now is, the most that can be effected is an earnest and faithful endeavor on the part of the parochial clergy to increase and strengthen the Sunday Schools in their several parishes, the personal oversight and regular catechising of the children by the several rectors and missionaries in charge of our parishes and missions. It was not very encouraging to learn from the statistics relating to our Sunday Schools in the centennial Journal, (page 114,) that there had been no increase in the number of teachers, and actually a decrease in the attendance of pupils during the past year. Now it is evident that no small amount of material which might be effectively used, is lost to us by the lack of attendance on the part of the young men and young women committed to our charge, who seem to consider themselves too old to attend the sessions of the school as pupils, and who are by no means fitted to become instructors of younger children. The committee would advise the formation of Bible classes and classes for instruction in the doctrine, discipline, and worship of the church, to be taught by adult communicants, who by their presence and co-operation would increase and augment the efficiency of our several schools. It is possible that in many of our parishes this is already done, but if there are any where it does not exist, and competent and willing persons can be found to engage in it, the results would be beneficial in the highest degree.

We are constantly having accessions to our parishes from those who are outside our own communion, and who are, therefore, ignorant of the church's ways. If such persons could be induced to enter the Sunday School as regular members of adult classes, and thus be led to a definite knowledge of the truth, and become well instructed communicants, it is easy to see that the church in our Diocese would be wonderfully increased and strengthened. Your committee do not claim that any of the thoughts advanced in this report upon this particular subject are novel or unusual. They are introduced with the object of interesting the laity who are communicants, and to indicate to them how much their attendance and support would encourage and aid the rectors of our parishes, who are held responsible for the increase and prosperity of their particular schools. The laity, and especially the male communicants, do not always realize the weight and importance of their individual efforts in the direction indicated, their presence giving encouragement to the clergymen in charge of the parish of which they are members, and their example serving to increase the power and influence of the Church of God in their several communities.

In view of the existing state of affairs, and what has been said in this report, your committee would recommend the adoption of the following resolution :

Resolved, That with the Bishop's approval upon the evening previous the assembling of the Annual Convention, a special service be held for the purpose of promoting the interest of the Sunday School work of the Diocese, and increasing its efficiency, and that an offering be made at that service to be expended at the discretion of the committee.

All of which is respectfully submitted,

WILLIAM H. COLLINS,
GEORGE H. BAILEY,
F. D. BUCKLEY,
E. P. GILSON.

[APPENDIX S.]

The committee to whom was referred the improvement of the forms for the parochial reports, respectfully report that they found their first duty to be a careful study of the blanks heretofore in use for these reports, and of the canons in regard to them.

This examination showed two things :—

1. No particular form of the reports is defined by the canons.

2. The forms lately in use are not only not prescribed by the canons, but are in several respects so in conflict with the canons that it is not practicable in using them to make such a report as the canons require without considerable alterations and confusion.

No form being prescribed, the reporting officers are at liberty to use either the old forms, with changes to suit them to the canon, or they may report the matters required upon plain paper, or they may use any printed form which will enable them to present the facts which must be reported.

We found it, therefore, practicable to have a much better form than we have had heretofore, without any change of canon, or any conventional action whatever, and to use these improved forms for the reports to the Bishop at this present convention.

Our first efforts, then, were directed to the preparation of these improved forms exactly accordant to the canonical and constitutional provisions as they now stand.

A draft of such blanks was prepared by the committee, and, as these reports are addressed to the Bishop, and are subject to additional topics of inquiry at his discretion, the committee's draft was, as of course, presented to him for review, and, with some slight alterations, received his approval.

They were then sent to press. They were made complete, with dates for the reports of this year, and only enough were printed for that purpose and for the convenience of the committee, because we propose to offer for the action of the convention some changes of canon which will allow, if adopted, still further improvements in the forms.

As soon as the printed proof was perfected, it was again submitted to the Bishop, with dates, etc., complete, and it was returned to the committee, indorsed with his approval without any qualification.

The blanks were then printed off and a sufficient number of them sent to the Secretary of the convention upon an understanding previously assented to by him that he would send them out to the Diocese for the reports this year.

But at this point your committee were advised that it seemed to the Secretary that further conventional action is necessary before these forms can be used; and, after some correspondence on his part with the Bishop, it was determined to send out again the old forms, and the new ones were returned to the committee.

Nothing was left for the committee to do but to send the forms to the reporting officers of the parishes with a brief statement of the facts in the case, which was accordingly done. Copies of the forms and of this circular are annexed to this report and are made a part of it.

In reference to these forms we ask attention to the following particulars:—

1. They are strictly in accordance with the canonical requirements, which is not true of the old blanks. The matters of report specified in them which are not mentioned in the canons are such as the Bishop may, at his discretion, require to be reported, and such as by his approval of the blanks he did so require.

2. They are so arranged as to bring clearly to light the exact condition of the parish, both statistical and financial, as far as figures can show it. Questions may be raised as to how far such reports are desirable for the information of the Bishop, and how fully it may be desirable to print them. But the reports suggested by the blanks are such as the canons and the Bishop authorize, and the printing of them is every year at the discretion of the Bishop alone.

It is probably true that no other diocesan canons provide for so full statements as those of Vermont.

Your committee have no doubt, however, as to the proper answers to these questions.

In our judgment there is no information called for by these blanks, except such as ought to be fully accessible to the Bishop and the financial officers of the Diocese. And, furthermore, there is nothing more desirable in the management of such trusts, as our parishes are, than that the fullest publicity should be given to their condition at all times.

There are cases, we think, in which the conscientious making of these reports will be an education of the parish officers in keeping before them the real conditions and necessities of their trusts, which, aside from the reports, might for long periods escape their notice.

If the recommendations which are to be made in the second part of this report should not meet the approval of the convention, and the present requirements of the canons be, therefore, left unchanged, the forms here annexed may be continued without substantial variation, except at the Bishop's direction, and without requiring any act of the convention.

Respectfully submitted,

EDWARD N. GODDARD, } Special Committee on
EDWARD L. TEMPLE, } Parochial Reports.

In examining the constitutional and canonical provisions bearing upon the subject referred to them, your committee find that they require amendment in several respects, in order to obtain the most satisfactory reports, and to remove conflicting provisions.

We take these points in the order in which they come up in the Diocesan Canons, edition of 1885.

A. Article 7, of the Diocesan Constitution, requires the Lay Delegates' reports, and makes various provisions about them.

It needs amendment, because :

1. It is in conflict with the canons of the General Convention on this subject.

In Title 1, Canon 18, § 1, (Digest of 1889, pp. 79-80,) it is required that the matters referred to in Article 7, included in the phrase, "all other matters that may throw light on the state of the same [church]," be reported by the Minister, or if the parish be vacant, by the Warden. It is not competent, therefore, for the Diocesan law to transfer this duty to the Lay Delegates.

Even if this were not settled by the general canon, the Church Wardens (with the Rector), and not the Lay Delegates, are the officers who may be presumed to know and rightly to report the state of the temporalities of the parish.

It would seem that at the time of the drafting of this Article (about 56 years ago), the Lay Delegates were usually the Wardens. This, however, is no longer the fact.

Defective reports and repeated complaints from all quarters, show that the Delegates cannot, and in fact do not, make these reports on their own knowledge. To a great extent they are drafted by the Rectors, and signed only pro forma by the Delegates.

Again, the double-headed report here required is a provision peculiar, we believe, to Vermont, and would be better consolidated into one document.

For these reasons we propose a resolution, No. 1, as follows :

Strike out from lines 6, 7 and 8, of Article 7, (p. 8,) the following words:—

“At every Convention the Lay Delegates shall report to the Bishop the temporal condition of their respective parishes, stating their income, their debts and the amount of their Minister’s salary.”

And insert instead thereof, the following:—

Reports of the condition of every parish and mission in the Diocese shall be made to the Bishop at each Annual Convention by the respective Rectors (or Ministers) and Church Wardens thereof, which reports shall include a statement of the income of the parish, its debts, and the amount of the Minister’s salary, together with such other particulars as may be defined by canon, or required by the Bishop.

B. The canon principally dealing with parochial reports is Title 2, Canon 9, Secs. 2 and 3, (pp. 23 and 24.)

It needs amendment in the following details:—

1. The two reports (Rector’s and Delegates’) should be consolidated.

2. The reporting officers should be Rector and Church Wardens. The general canon (before referred to) calls for a report from the Minister. Some of the facts to be reported belong to the Rector’s office; others to that of the lay officers. All is harmonized by making them report jointly.

3. The general canon directs the report to be made, when there is no Bishop, to the President of the Convention, not of the Standing Committee.

4. The general canon defines the time of this report to the first day of the Annual Convention. It is, therefore, not competent for the Diocesan canon to require it two weeks earlier.

5. It does not seem necessary to specify in the canon, any details of the parochial reports, except that they shall contain the items required by the general canons and the Diocesan constitution. All the rest is better left to the discretion of the Bishop and the reporting officers, from time to time, by which course the reports can be modified as occasion requires, so as to produce the best results without need of the cumbrous processes of constitutional legislation.

We propose, therefore, in resolution No. 2, here annexed, a new draft of Title 2, Canon 9, Section 2, in accordance with the above suggestions.

Section 3 of the present canon deals with the Lay Delegates' reports, which we propose to abolish, consolidating its matter, as above stated, with the report of Rector and Wardens.

We propose, therefore, to substitute for it a new section, 3, providing a rule for such assessments, or apportionments of offerings expected from the parishes, as may be made under direction of the Convention. All such assessments shall be made on the basis of the entire condition of the parishes, and not merely on the number of the communicants reported.

This new Section 3 is presented in Resolution No. 3, annexed.

There will be no inconvenience in enacting this section in this way at once, although the change of Article 7 of the Constitution cannot be formally perfected until next year.

To cancel any formal objection, we propose a Resolution, No. 4 :—

That the signature of the Lay Delegates to the parochial reports required by the Canon, Title 2, Canon 9, Section 2, as amended by this Convention, shall be reckoned a sufficient compliance with the requirements of Article 7 of the Constitution, at the Diocesan Convention of 1892.

C. The parochial reports and all the reports of Diocesan officers, are now required to be made up to Easter Monday, and to cover the ecclesiastical year, from Easter to Easter.

We propose to improve the form of reports by a change of this rule, to a fixed twelvemonth year, terminating as near as may be thought practicable to the date of Convention. We advise the first day of June as the limit.

The reasons are,—

1. That the year now reported is a varying term ; last year was reported for 50 weeks ; this year for 51 ; next year it will be

55 weeks, etc., making the work difficult to reckon and imperfect for comparison.

2. The average of 10 weeks, never less than 7, between Easter and Convention, is too long to be omitted from useful reports, especially as it often includes important changes in the lists of confirmations and communicants.

This leads to inaccuracy in reports and not infrequently to duplication of the numbers reported.

It also exacts from the Treasurer and other Diocesan officers, the useless labor of supplemental reports in order to present the real condition of the Diocese.

The change has frequently been asked for by the Treasurers and other officers of Convention, and by Parochial officers who have tried to make clear and consistent reports.

We believe that one reason why the change has been heretofore rejected by the Convention, has been the incompleteness of the measures proposed and the want of time to formulate the rather numerous changes of canon which this single matter involves.

Your Committee have endeavored to avoid this difficulty by a careful collection of all the canonical provisions involved in it, and we believe that all these points will be reached by the resolutions of amendment annexed, and numbered 5, 6 and 7.

[If the date of June 1 is thought too near Convention, we will accept an amendment to each of these resolutions and to Section 2, above reported, to change it to May 15, but we advise the later date.]

D. Canon 7, Title 2, Section 3 (p. 21, ed. of 1885), requires the Secretary of the Vestry to report to the Convention in connection with the certificate of election of Delegates, the number of male communicants in the parish.

This report should be abolished, because :

1. It is a matter of which the Secretary cannot have any official or certifying knowledge, being derived from the register of communicants, of which the Rector, and not the Secretary, is the custodian.

2. The official report elsewhere required from the Rector and Wardens is ample evidence, and the best evidence by which to check the number of Delegates to which the parish is entitled, and it is always at hand at the Convention, if needed.

We therefore report a resolution amending the Secretary's certificate in this respect. Resolution No. 8.

These are all the changes of canon which seem to your Committee needed for the improvement of the reports, and we submit a draft of about the form the single Parochial report would take if these changes should be adopted.

In regard to the fixed time of reports which we advise, it has been adopted with great satisfaction by the Diocese of Missouri, and we think by some others.

All of which is respectfully submitted by

AMENDMENTS OF THE DIOCESAN CONSTITUTION AND CANONS.

The committee on improvement of the parochial reports, propose the following resolutions of amendment, and move that they be approved, and referred to the committee on canons, with directions to report to this convention with their advice thereon.

(1.) Resolved, that this 101st convention of the Diocese do approve the following amendment of Article 7, of the Diocesan constitution, and order the same to be laid before the next annual convention for final action, agreeably to Article 9 of said constitution.

Strike out from lines 6, 7 and 8, of Article 7 of the constitution (p. 8, ed. of 1885) the following words, namely:—

and insert instead thereof as follows:—

“Reports of the condition of every parish and mission in the diocese shall be made to the Bishop, at each annual convention, by the respective rectors (or ministers) and church wardens thereof, which reports shall include a statement of the income of the parish, its debts, and the amount of the minister's salary, together with such other particulars as may be defined by canon or required by the Bishop."

The purpose of this amendment is to make the least possible change in Article 7 consistent with the consolidation of the two reports, known as rector's and delegates' reports, into a single document from each parish, to be reported by the minister and church wardens.

(2.) Resolved, that the canon, title 2, canon 9, [edition of 1885, p. 23, 24,] be repealed and the following substituted for it:—Canon 9 of parish registers, accounts, reports and assessments.

Section 1.

[Section 1 is to stand as it is now.]

Section 2. Reports.

On or before the first day of each annual convention of the diocese, the rector or minister and church wardens of every parish or congregation shall report to the Bishop, or, if there be no Bishop, then to the president of the convention, on the state of the parish on the first day of June next, before the convention, specifying the particulars required by the canons of the general convention, [digest of 1889, title 1, canon 18,] and such other matters as may be specified in a blank form of report, at the discretion of the Bishop, to be submitted to them by the secretary of the convention thirty days before the date of the report, and whatever else in their judgment may throw light on the state of the church.

These reports, or such parts or abstracts of them as the Bishop directs, may be read in convention or printed as an appendix to the journal.

(3.) The reports specified in section 2 shall be taken as the basis of all assessments or apportionment of offerings expected from the several parishes, whether made by the convention or any board or committee of the diocese, and all assessments thus made upon any parish which shall remain unpaid at the date of the next parochial report shall be counted in such report as a part of the indebtedness of such parish, and it shall be the duty of the reporting officers to state in the report the reason of the non-payment thereof.

A resolution to provide for reports of lay delegates to the convention of 1892, in case the amendments to the constitution Article 7, and to the canon, Title 2, Canon 9, are approved by this convention :—

(4.) Resolved, That the signature of the lay delegates to the parochial reports, required by Title 2, Canon 9, Section 2, as amended by this convention, shall be reckoned a sufficient compliance with the requirements of Article 7 of the constitution at the convention of 1892.

(5.) Resolved, That the canon, Title 1, Canon 2, Section 2, be amended as follows :

Strike out the last three lines [lines 7, 8, 9, page 12, edition of 1885], and insert the following :—

“The treasurers’ annual reports shall be made for twelve months ending on the first day of June next, before the convention.”

(6.) Resolved, that the canon, Title 1, Canon 10, be amended as follows :—

In the last line but one [line 10, page 15, edition of 1885], strike out the three words “last Easter Monday” and insert the five words “first day of June next,” so that the sentence shall read “these reports shall be for the year preceding the first day of June next, before the convention.”

(7.) Resolved, that the canon, Title 3, Canon 1, Section 8, line 3, (p. 26, ed. of 1885,) be amended by striking out the words “last Easter Monday,” and inserting the words “first day of June.”

Strike out from the secretary’s certificate at the end of the section, [line 27, page 21, edition of 1885,] the words and blanks “certify that ——— church has ——— male communicants. And I further,” so that it shall read “I hereby certify that at a meeting of the vestry,” [etc., the rest as now,] and after the certificate add the following words :—

“And the number of the delegates to which any parish is entitled, shall be determined by the number of male communicants reported by the rector and church wardens at that convention, agreeably to the provisions of the diocesan canons, Title 1, Canon 1, Section 2, [p. 10, ed. of 1885].

Circular sent to the Rectors with the blanks proposed by the committee for reports of 1891.

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER,—

In obedience to the duty assigned them, this committee prepared the inclosed blank forms. These forms provide for reporting all things that the canons require to be reported, and are in every respect accordant to the orders heretofore laid down by convention.

These forms and the plan of preparing them, were submitted to the Bishop and had his approval. The final printed proof was also indorsed with his approval before the blanks were printed. But at the last moment, on suggestion of the Secretary of the convention that conventional action was required, the Bishop directed the old forms to be sent to the reporting officers. As these new forms are dated and will be of no other use, we send them out for the information of the Diocese as to what we tried to do, and in hope they may be of some use to the reporters in filling up the old blanks, which are blind, imperfect and uncanonical, and in making clear beforehand the further action which your committee will recommend to the convention.

We venture to suggest that the reporting officers, provided they do report the facts required by the canons to be reported, are at liberty to use plain paper, or these forms, or any forms capable of presenting the facts.

Respectfully yours, etc.,

CONSTITUTION.

VERMONT BRANCH OF THE WOMAN'S AUXILIARY TO THE BOARD OF MISSIONS.

ARTICLE I. This association shall be known as the Vermont Branch of the Woman's Auxiliary to the Board of Missions.

ARTICLE II. The object of this association is to aid the women of our congregations in church work, whether for the parish, the Diocese, or for our general missions.

ARTICLE III. Any society or association of women working for either of the purposes thus indicated may be in union with this Branch, and may be represented in its meetings by such a number of delegates, not exceeding five, as it may elect.

ARTICLE IV. The officers of this Branch shall be a President, two or more Vice-Presidents, a Treasurer, a Recording Secretary, and a Corresponding Secretary, who shall be elected annually.

ARTICLE V. The President shall preside at all meetings of the Branch, unless the Bishop of the Diocese be present, and chooses to preside ex-officio.

ARTICLE VI. The Vice-Presidents shall preside in the absence of the President in the order of their election.

ARTICLE VII. The Treasurer shall have charge of the funds of the Branch, and shall pay out the same according to the directions of the association.

ARTICLE VIII. The Recording Secretary shall keep a roll of the delegates in attendance at the meetings, and shall also keep the record of the proceedings of the Branch.

ARTICLE IX. The Corresponding Secretary shall conduct the correspondence of the Branch with the affiliated associations, the Secretary of the Woman's Auxiliary, and others.

ARTICLE X. This Branch does not propose to interfere with work which the associations are doing for the church in their several localities, yet it would recommend that each such association should select some time in the year to work especially for the cause of our General Missions, in connection with the Woman's Auxiliary.

ARTICLE XI. It is recommended, in case the Convention of the Diocese approve that course, that members of these associations, under the direction of their Clergy, charge themselves with the circulation of the pledges for our Diocese Missions, and, if necessary, the collection of the same.

ARTICLE XII. The Constitution shall only be altered or amended by a vote of delegates representing two-thirds of the associations in union with this Branch.

ARTICLE XIII. By-Laws in accordance with the Constitution may be adopted or altered at any meeting.

ARTICLE XIV. The annual meeting of the Branch shall be held on such day of September, October or November as shall have been appointed at the previous meeting. The President shall at any time call a meeting of the Branch, on the written request of three parish societies.

BY-LAWS.

BY-LAW 1. Any society or association of women working for either of the objects indicated in the Constitution may be received into union with the Vermont Branch of the Woman's Auxiliary to the Board of Missions at any annual meeting of the same, by a vote of a majority of the members present, upon presenting a certificate from the Rector of the parish, or of the Missionary in charge, or in the absence of either, of the Senior Warden, setting forth that such society or association is duly organized for Church work.

BY-LAW 2. The Convention of the Vermont Branch shall be composed of delegates from the several societies in union with the Branch, who are hereby authorized to act and vote upon all questions, upon presenting credentials signed by the President and Secretary of the society which they propose to represent, certifying that they have been duly elected at a regular meeting of said society, as delegates to the Convention.

BY-LAW 3. In case there should not be, for any reason, an election of officers, as provided for in the Constitution, those previously elected shall hold their offices until others are chosen.

BY-LAW 4. All the officers of the Diocesan Auxiliary shall be entitled to all the priveleges of the floor, and to speak and to vote upon all questions which shall come before the Convention.

BY-LAW 5. The funds collected by any society for the Vermont Branch, for any object, shall be held by the Treasurer, and paid out on the order of the President for that special object.

BY-LAW 6. The President, Treasurer, and Secretaries of this society shall be elected by ballot, after open nomination.

BOARD OF LAND AGENTS.

The Board of Land Agents have adopted the following rules for their government in making appropriations:—

1. That the year for which appropriations are made shall commence at Easter.

2. That the appropriations made in any parish for one year shall be considered as applying to such part of the year only, in its just proportion, as the said parish shall have a Rector or Minister.

3. That the appropriations shall be paid semi-annually, one half in six months from Easter, and the balance in twelve months.

4. That it is not expedient, in the opinion of the board, to make any further appropriations for the building of Churches and Parsonages.

The Board holds its annual meeting in June, at the time of the Annual Convention.

TITLE III. CANON 3.

DIOCESAN MISSIONS.

In every parish of this Diocese a quarterly collection for Diocesan Missions shall be made regularly in the months of February, May, August and November, and the amount contributed shall be promptly forwarded to the Treasurer of the Missionary Committee. And it shall be the duty of every parish Minister to give due notice of these collections, and to call the attention of his congregation to their importance and claims.

RESOLUTIONS OF CONVENTION.

Resolved. That when there is a vacancy in the Rectorship, the Wardens be requested to see that the quarterly collections are duly made for Diocesan Missions, and forwarded to the Treasurer.

Resolved. That the parishes be requested to raise annually for Diocesan Missions a sum not less than one dollar for each communicant.

The Committee appointed at last Convention to whom was referred the matter of Prayer Book Revision, submitted the following report, which was accepted and adopted :—

There are contained in the Notification to the Diocese of the Proposed Changes in the Prayer Book to be acted upon in the General Convention of 1892, Fifty-two resolutions proposing changes to be roughly stated as follows :

- (1) Proposing rubrical changes of more or less importance ; about fourteen.
- (2) Proposing verbal changes and alterations in existing forms ; about seventeen.
- (3) Proposing additions of new matter ; about twenty-one.

Of these last Ten will insert new Prayers and Thanksgivings for special occasions.

One resolution introduces an entire new service (for Ash Wednesday).

Three resolutions add new Collect, Epistle and Gospel (i.e. Early Celebration on Christmas and Easter, and in connection with the Marriage Service).

Three resolutions insert new verses; Four, new sentences of Scriptures.

Your Committee does not feel called upon to enter into a detailed criticism either of the alterations or additions. For the most part they would commend themselves as unobjectionable taken singly; in some cases as very fitting; in a few cases as really necessary. Some again we would condemn, but there would be no agreement as to which these were. The general impression, however, of the Proposed Changes is that fifty-two more changes and additions might be proposed for the Convention of 1895 with equal propriety; in fact, that the matter of Prayer Book revision has reached a stage where it might be prolonged indefinitely.

Your Committee are further of the opinion that the present unsettled condition of the Book of Common Prayer tends to do harm, by producing confusion in the minds of worshippers, vexatious differences of practice in the Churches, and an undue freedom, perhaps, on the part of the Clergy, (who, however, might be innocently in doubt in a sudden emergency as to what is authorized and what not).

We therefore present the following resolutions:

(1) Resolved, That in the opinion of this Convention the present revision of the Book of Common Prayer should be closed with this General Convention of 1892.

(2) Resolved, That the Delegates to General Convention be and hereby are instructed to use their influence to complete the work of revision, so that the Book of Common Prayer, as finally revised, may be given to the Churches directly after the Convention of 1892.

DAVID L. SANFORD,
GEO. HERBERT BAILEY, } Committee.

The President then announced the following service, assisted in the Epistle by the Rev. Mr. Collins, Rector of St. Michael's Church, Brattleboro.

The Sermon was preached by the Rev. Thomas Ockford, of St. Luke's Church, Chester, his text being taken from John xviii. 36th and 37th verses,—“Jesus answered my kingdom is not of this world: if my kingdom were of this world, then would my servants fight that I should not be delivered to the Jews, but now is my kingdom not from hence. Pilate said unto Him, Art thou a King then? Jesus answered thou sayest that I am a King.”

The Right Rev. Bishop then proceeded to the order for the administration of the Holy Communion, assisted by the Rector of the Parish and the Rev. Dr. Harris in the distribution of the elements, the Rev. Dr. Bliss saying the Post-Communion.

WEDNESDAY, June 15, 1892, 2:30 P. M.

The Convention met pursuant to adjournment.

The Right Rev. Bishop then delivered his ANNUAL ADDRESS.

MY BRETHREN,

THE CLERGY AND LAITY OF THE CONVENTION :—

It was a cause of very great regret to me that I found myself unable to be present at the last Convention of the Diocese. The message of brotherly sympathy for the Bishop in his enforced absence, with which the Convention begun its business, was very highly appreciated; a source of much comfort to me in the weakness and depression which seem to have been so constant attendants of the epidemic then so prevalent.

Within this last Conventional year three of our Chief Pastors have been called away from earthly labors to the rest of Paradise—the Missionary Bishop of China and the Bishops of Louisiana and Ohio.

Bishop Boone was the son of the first Missionary Bishop of China, born at Shanghai, in the Mission, and from his early years surrounded by the influence which comes from missionary labors and devotion. He was sent to this country for his education—graduated at Princeton College, and was a Theological student at Philadelphia and Alexandria Seminaries. He was ordained Deacon in July, 1868, and went at once to that work in China to which he had from the first devoted himself. He was consecrated as the fourth Missionary Bishop of China in October, 1884. He died October 5, 1891. His term of service in the Missionary Episcopate, hardly seven years, was full of constant labor and care for the interests of the Mission and for his fellow workmen,—a brief record, but most creditable to him and the Church which sent him.

Bishop Galleher was consecrated Bishop of Louisiana February 5, 1880. He had before him, as it seemed, a very successful course in building up the Church in Louisiana. He was eloquent and sound as a preacher; with such genial manners as soon won the confidence and affection of his flock. But after a few years of diligent labor his health failed. He was afflicted with sickness so severe and persistent that in April, 1891, he felt obliged to ask for an Assistant Bishop, who was consecrated in June last. Something more than four years, one-third of his Episcopate, which opened with so much promise, he was compelled to give up the active duties of his office; and, leaving a beautiful example of patience and quiet submission to God's will, he died in December last, greatly regretted by his Clergy and people.

Bishop Bedell was consecrated as Assistant Bishop of Ohio October 13, 1859, after a very successful pastorate in Ascension Church, New York. In 1873, by the death of Bishop McIlvain he became Bishop of Ohio. In 1874 the populous State of Ohio was divided into two Dioceses, of which he retained the northern portion, with the title of the Diocese of Ohio. He was much admired as a preacher, and was selected by the House of Bishops to preach a Centennial Sermon in St. Paul's Cathedral, London, in 1884. After nearly thirty years of diligent and faithful care of the flock, he was compelled by age and sickness to ask for an Assistant Bishop. His wise and careful work has been a great blessing to the Church, and most creditable to him.

The Church in Canada has lost one of her most learned and beloved Bishops, the Right Rev. Dr. Williams, Bishop of Quebec. Some of our number must remember him, for he came to us on two most memorable occasions. He was present and made a most beautiful Address at the funeral service of Bishop Hopkins. He was with us also at the Semi-Centennial of the Independent Organization of this Diocese—the Fiftieth Anniversary of the Consecration of Bishop Hopkins, October 30, 1882. Bishop James William Williams was born at Overton, Hampshire, England, in 1825. Educated at Oxford, he was ordained in 1855. Two years after he became Rector of the Lenoxville Grammar School. In 1863 he was consecrated Bishop of Quebec, succeeding Bishop Mountain. His administration has been very successful, and there are many to lament his removal, as well in the States as in Canada.

Through God's goodness we have not to report this year the death of any of the Clergy of this Diocese, as has so often been my sad duty. But I may be permitted to speak of one who was once a Candidate for Holy Orders in this Diocese, and who afterward had a brief but most successful pastorate in one of our parishes; one who was well known and loved by many of us, as well as throughout the Church—the Rev. Dr. John Henry Hopkins—the eldest son of the first Bishop of Vermont. I had known him from his boyhood, when he was my pupil at the first Vermont Episcopal Institute. He attained very high reputation as a journalist. The Church Journal, which he established, was very widely read and influential. After he gave himself to pastoral work he was a most successful and admired Rector at Plattsburgh, N. Y., and at Williamsport, Pa.

Poet, musician, architect, well learned in Theology, and especially in the History of the Church, a great preacher,—he seemed, much like his father, to have unusual gifts which could be used in many things for the Church. It was doubtless from some consciousness of failing health that he resigned his last parish to devote his remaining strength to a special work on Church History which he had planned and was very anxious to see completed. But his long and trying sickness came too soon for the execution of his plans. His last sermon, as I think, was a most instructive one which he preached at the ordination of his nephew and namesake at St. Paul's Church, Burlington. To many, as to me, he seemed to be one of the most attractive and amiable of men, one whose death is felt as a heavy loss.

And this Diocese has lost the valuable service of one who was very often a member of the Convention, and who was for twenty years a member of the Standing Committee—Jabez W. Ellis. He was an honored citizen of Montpelier, a devout member and supporter of Christ Church, a well informed and intelligent Churchman; one whom we believed to be quite competent to represent and care for the interests of the Church. The loss of such a man to the Diocese and to his parish is great.

The death of Mr. and Mrs. Franklin L. Wheeler was a very heavy affliction to the Rector of Grace Church, West Rutland, and to the parish. While the Rector was prostrate with sickness, his only daughter and his son-in-law were both taken away within one short week. The personal loss was very great to the aged pastor and his faithful wife. But it was the more severe because the daughter and son-in-law so removed had been the most efficient and zealous helpers in all the work of the parish—always ready to do whatever was needed for its advantage. May God raise up some others to take their places and help on the advancement of His Church there.

The illness which kept me from the last Convention has been very persistent and depressing. I ventured to hold two Confirmations and an Ordination the last days of June. In July I was unable to keep any appointments. August 2d I began my visitations, and went on with them till the second of November, when I was again confined to my house for some three weeks. After that time I held two Confirmations and one Consecration. I did not think it prudent to make any further appointments for visitations in the winter. After my return from the South I began my visitations at St. Stephen's Church, Middlebury, May 1st, and have been able to keep all my appointments since that time.

June 30th, 1891, at Christ Church, Bethel, I ordained as Priests the Rev. George Aloysius Wilkins, Rector of that Church, and the Rev. Alfred H. Wheeler, Missionary at Christ Church, Island Pond. September 29th, in St. Paul's Church, Burlington, I ordained as Priest the Rev. Lucius Martin Hardy, the Principal of Bishop Hopkins Hall. December 30th, with the assistance of the clergy, I consecrated Trinity Church, Milton, a very beautiful and convenient Missionary Church. It is a great help to the congregation, an ornament to the village, the completion of which is largely due to the diligence and earnest effort of the Missionary, the Rev. Mr. Graves, and the liberality of the friends of the Church. And June 12th, 1892, in St. Paul's Church, Burlington, I ordained as Deacon George Yemean Bliss, a graduate of the General Seminary and of the University of Vermont.

In the services thus outlined I have delivered 24 addresses; confirmed 265 persons; celebrated the Holy Communion 30 times; baptized 1 infant; consecrated 1 Church; ordained 3 Priests and 1 Deacon; received the transfer of 3 Clergymen; transferred 1 to another Diocese. I have given my consent to the Consecration of the Rev. Dr. Isaac L. Nicholson, Bishop-elect of Milwaukee, and of the Rev. Dr. Cleland Kinloch Nelson, Bishop-elect of Georgia.

There have been the following changes amongst the Clergy of the Diocese within the past year. The Rev. Clarence M. Conant resigned the parish of Zion Church, Manchester Center, and removed to the Diocese of Albany. The Rev. Benjamin W. Atwell resigned his position as General Missionary of the Diocese, and accepted the Rectorship of Trinity Church, Shelburn. The Rev. Elmer E. Shoemaker was received from the Diocese of Central Pennsylvania, and became Minister in charge of Zion Church, Manchester Center. The Rev. Edward P. Lee resigned the Missions of Hydeville and Fair Haven, where he has been succeeded by the Rev. John Anketell, who was received from the Diocese of New York. The Rev. James C. Flanders has been compelled by persistent illness to resign the parish of Christ Church, Montpelier. The Rev. Alonzo N. Lewis, received from the Diocese of Connecticut, succeeds him as Minister in charge.

The Missions of the Diocese have been prospered much as usual this past year. The Missions at Hydeville and Fairhaven were not visited, as owing to the resignation of the Missionary there was no Confirmation. Six were confirmed at West Rutland. The Mission there has suffered, as mentioned, by the loss of two of its active helpers. Six were confirmed at Winooski. Services have been maintained in the Missions in charge of the Rev. Mr. Graves with good results. Three persons were confirmed at Swanton, where the congregation is much increased, as well as at Highgate. Six were confirmed at Enosburgh Falls; five at Newport; seven at Island Pond; three at White River Junction, and one from Jericho. The Mission at Richford is in charge of Mr. Forest L. Blunt, a candidate for Holy Orders of this Diocese. That at Barre is in charge of his brother, Mr. Simon B. Blunt, since the illness of the Rev. James C. Flanders, the former Missionary there. This was found the best provision which could be made for these Missions. The Bishop is informed that there are classes for Confirmation in each of the Stations, awaiting his visitation.

The Rev. Benjamin W. Atwell resigned the position of General Missionary of the Diocese, in which work he has been succeeded by the Rev. Dr. William J. Harris, who began the work January 1st.

It is understood that the work of alteration of the Church Prayer Book is to cease after the next General Convention. The revised Prayer Book is then to be published. We have made some improvements in the book. The permission to omit at Evening Prayer the Exhortation, Confession and Absolution; to omit the longer Exhortation in the Communion Office when the Communion is celebrated more than once in a month; these are such relief as had been much needed. The introduction of the Magnificat and Nunc Dimitis is also a decided enrichment of our Evening Prayer. These Evangelic Hymns, found in the English Prayer Book, we are most thankful to find restored in the Revised Book. We cannot say much for the changes in the Collect for Aid against perils, or that for the Civil Authorities in Evening Prayer. But on the whole, when we consider the tendency to change in these days, we may be thankful that our venerable forms of devotion have suffered so little—that the Prayer Book of the future is so nearly the same as that endeared to us and our fathers.

In some few of our parishes efforts have been made to secure some endowment to aid in maintaining the services. This is a very necessary provision. In some of the weaker parishes it is already plain that in the natural course of events in a very few years, with the removal of those who now sustain them, the service must cease. And yet these may be parishes which have a long and creditable history; parishes where generations have been brought up in the Christian faith and life; which have sent forth many trained Churchmen, who have added much to the strength of the Church in other places. And in these parishes, at some time in their course there have been members of such sufficient means that they could have provided against such disastrous failure. They could, by timely gifts of endowment or by legacies, have kept up the financial strength of their parishes, which has been so weakened by their removal.

It is true that in past years there were not many examples of such gifts or legacies to turn the attention of our people to the duty of making such provision for the necessities of the future. And there was hardly sufficient assurance that the parishes in former days would have kept carefully and used the designated funds so intrusted to them. Perhaps there were too frequent examples where parishes had used for current expenses funds which came into their hands, and which should have been kept for endowment. At any event we have examples of such endowments now being actually made. And we have in the Trustees of the Diocese of Vermont a corporation which will hold with fidelity and apply to the purposes designated any sums that may be given for the endowment of the parishes by legacies or gifts. This corporation was chartered by the Legislature of the State at the request of the Convention of the Diocese, after a very careful discussion of all the provisions of the Charter. And the members of the Board so constituted have now been all of them elected by the Convention. The Diocese may have always the highest assurance that the members of the Board are men of unblemished reputation; men of high moral character and skill in business. Then this Board can hold titles of real estate and funds for endowment only in trust, and must use the income of such endowment, only for the purpose specified by the giver. It is, doubtless, the existence of this Board, so constituted and so guarded, which has induced some members of our parishes to make the endowments already begun. And why should not such examples be followed? In most of our parishes there are members who could, if they saw fit, make some contribution for such an endowment. If they could not do it in one offering, they could give smaller gifts each year. Or, without injustice to those whom they are to leave behind them, they could by legacy provide that the parish should receive assistance in keeping up its service after their departure.

And I see no reason why those members of our parishes who have smaller means should not be allowed to do what they can to provide for the permanence of the Church Service. I think it would be well to have in many of our parishes one Sunday in the year, to be known, perhaps, in the parish as Endowment Sunday, when the offerings should be made for such purpose as the strengthening of the Service in the parishes. These offerings, if not each very large, yet in a few years they would begin to be a sensible addition to the resources of the parishes. I earnestly commend this matter to the members of the Convention and to the devout members of the parishes.

And in connection with this subject I think it well to speak once more of the duty of having all our Churches and Rectories held in trust by the Trustees of the Diocese. So long as these titles are held by the parishes, the Churches and Rectories are liable for all the indebtedness of the parishes, and might be sold under the decree of the civil courts for such indebtedness. But if held in trust for the parishes by the Board they are exempted from such liability, and cannot be alienated from their intended use. It is a righteous act so to defend their Churches and Rectories. The men who gave of their means for their erection intended them for the use of the Church in all times; and we are not acting as faithful stewards if we leave these structures exposed to any such danger, which we might so easily avoid. It is not wise in us to have them thus exposed. It would be a great discouragement to any friend of our parishes who might wish to make a gift or legacy for their advantage, if he knew that those in charge were indifferent or indisposed to defend the property of which they are the custodians against possible alienation and loss.

The corporation to hold Church property in trust was designed specially for the benefit of the weaker parishes, as those most in danger. But many of these have failed to use the protection so designed for them. I think it has come about from some misapprehension—some fear that the property so held in trust would be controlled in its use by the Trustees of the Diocese. But the deeds of trust convey only the title of the property to the Board, while the same deeds of trust secure the use and control of the property to the vestries and congregations. The two strongest parishes in the Diocese were quite prompt to avail themselves of the protection of their quite large Church property by having it held in trust by the Board. I think no one has heard any complaint either in Burlington or Rutland of any interference of the Trustees in the use of Church or Rectory.

The weak parish, which needs the help which its friends and some who were formerly its members could possibly give it, and which has the title of its Church and Rectory held in trust for it, has given to such friends the best assurance that it can give of its permanence, its capacity in the future to use any gift that may be given it; that it will have a Church in which the Service of God may be celebrated, and a Rectory, if it have one, in which its minister may be sheltered. And the Bishop, as especially interested for the weaker parishes, desiring them to have all the protection and all the advantages which can be secured for them, is obliged again to call the attention of their Clergy and Vestries to this matter.

The Church Schools of the Diocese are in a very good condition. I am sure it would have given my venerable predecessor, the founder of these schools, great satisfaction if he could have seen them as they appeared at the recent visitation. Nine were confirmed at Bishop Hopkins Hall. This school is now full to the extent of its capacity for accommodation; and the reputation of the Principal and teachers is established for thoroughness in teaching, and for a very wise and kindly treatment of the pupils and for a faithful nurture in the principles of the Church.

And the Institute keeps up its reputation. It has a very fine body of cadets, which the Bishop catechised according to his usual custom, putting them through the most severe trial of their knowledge of it. One was confirmed.

We have in these schools two institutions very well furnished for their work of Christian Education. They could be made, however, much more useful to answer one of the crying needs of the Church. They could by moderate endowments be enabled to offer a free education to the sons and daughters of the clergy of the Diocese. There are few trials more severe than that which comes to many a clergyman, in seeing that his children must grow up without the careful culture which he has himself received, and which it seems they ought to have inherited through him—or ought to have received through some provision of the Church. It is much to be wished that the friends of these institutions would make such endowments in them as would provide for the gratuitous education of the children of the Clergy of the Diocese.

Such endowments, once begun, would have a strong tendency to grow. They call the attention of others to the want which they are seeking to supply—of others who can, perhaps, appreciate that need, who can do something for its relief. In this connection it has given very great satisfaction to learn that one good friend of the Church, who has been so long the Secretary of this Convention, designs to make a Memorial of his son, who, a very dear and blessed young man, was a graduate of the Institution, in an endowment of $3,000 for the Institute for the education of some deserving youth. I do not think he wishes to limit that benefit to the sons of clergymen. But it makes a beginning, and I doubt not will help in time to supply the need for which I plead. What is especially gratifying in this proposed Memorial is the form it takes. Memorials of our dead friends are quite in accord with the demand of the heart bereaved. But we should exercise good judgment in regard to them. Memorial Windows, Memorial Altars, Fonts, Crosses, Candlesticks are well. But Memorial Endowments—which would help to keep up the service of the Church, where perhaps without them it must cease,—or which would go on for generations helping the education of some Christian children, perhaps those in whom the Church ought to have a special interest—seem to be better;—better, because the good so begun goes on continuously long after those who made that beginning have entered into rest;—and better because nearer to the will of Him who will say from the Throne of Judgment, “Inasmuch as ye did it unto one of the least of these My brethren, ye did it unto Me.”

May God who of old did teach the hearts of His faithful people by sending to them the light of His Holy Spirit, grant us by the same Spirit to have a right judgment in all things.

May He guide and control all the deliberations of this Convention, and direct all our action so as most to promote the welfare of His Kingdom and the glory of His Holy Name.

The Committee would again recommend the adoption of the following resolution :

Your Committee would respectfully urge upon the attention of the comparatively few Parishes that have not yet made the capitalization recommended by this resolution, the importance of their doing so. It will not in any way increase their burdens or responsibilities, but will enable the Convention to do away with the necessity for this Committee, and also with the annual levying of assessments both desirable objects to be attained.

Resolved, That the next Annual Convention of the Diocese be held in St. Paul's Church, Burlington, on the first Wednesday in June, 1893.

Resolved, That each Clergyman of the Church in this Diocese be requested to preach a sermon in his Parish on the Sunday next preceding the next Annual Convention, on the work of the Church in this State,—what it has done, and what, under God's blessing, it can do in the future.

Resolved, That each Parish and Missionary Station make an offering on the same Sunday, to be specially set apart and sent to the Treasurer of the Diocese, for such object as the Bishop shall designate, as a memorial of his Consecration.

Church Services—Every Sunday, and on the greater Church Festivals. Special services during Advent and Lent. Holy Communion on the first Sunday of each month, on other Holy days, and during the summer every Sunday, at an early hour. The Rector has also held occasional services at West Randolph and Royalton, and in "Old Christ Church," Bethel.

During the year, a handsome brass altar cross was presented to the church by Mrs. John Henry Wheeler, of Chicago, and Miss Emily Starr Fogg, a devoted resident communicant. For the first time in its history, the Church now possesses a fine-toned bell, the gift of Mrs. Mary Laurette Wilson, wife of Hon. J. J. Wilson, of Bethel, as a memorial of her parents. It bears the inscription:—"In memory of the Rev. A. D. McCoy, and his wife Elizabeth." These appropriate gifts were gladly welcomed, and are highly appreciated by the parish.

On Tuesday, June 30th, in Christ Church, the Rt. Rev. Bishop of the Diocese ordained to the priest-hood the Rev. Alfred H. Wheeler, of Christ Church, Island Pond, and the Rev. Geo. Aloysius Wilkins, now rector of the parish. The occasion was one of marked interest, it being the first ordination ever occurring in this Church.

The first chapter of "The Daughters of the King" organized in the Diocese has been formed by ladies of the parish. It is called "The Bishop Bissell Chapter," in honor of the venerated head of the Diocese.

The statistics presented show a gain in offerings and in number of communicants, and an increased attendance at Sunday school. The average attendance at services is also larger than it was last year. The Ladies' Guild is doing good work, and the newly organized chapter of "The Daughters of the King" is making plans for improving the Church building. The vested choir of misses and girls for festival occasions wins high commendation in every instance of its appearance in public services.

Church Services—Holy Communion monthly, on the greater festivals, weekly in Lent. Morning and Evening Prayer on every Sunday save one. Several special children's services Sunday afternoon. Evening Prayer on Fridays, daily service in Lent, with an average attendance of 18. Services at East Charleston were suspended in January, but will be resumed before the Convention meets. Preached four times in Westmore; St. Titus, twice. The number of families include twelve that live from four to sixteen miles away from Island Pond. They depend upon the church for spiritual offices. This mission should be better equipped for the work it has to do. A rectory is badly needed, and a team is indispensable if the Church is going to utilize the opportunity now open to her. Several times I have had imperative calls to go out from five to eight miles at night. We are working hard to collect money for the purchase of a rectory, and have two hundred and fifty dollars in hand for this purpose. Outside assistance must be given us to effect our purpose, for the village is on a decline in some respects as the large lumber interests are diminishing.

The Committee has found great difficulty with the figures of the Parochial Reports. It is simply impossible to construct accurate Tables or Summaries from the Reports as now made out. It is the opinion of the Committee that the forms proposed by Rev. E. N. Goddard and Mr. E. N. Temple, (see Appendix S., page 172, Journal of 1891), should be adopted and strictly followed. Until something is done to secure uniformity and accuracy in the Parochial Reports, the work of this Committee must be comparatively valueless.

The labor of the Committee would be materially lightened if all the Rectors and Lay Delegates would give the "Totals". The Committee ought not to be burdened with work which belongs to others. No one but those who have been on this Committee can know what a task it is to compile Tables from defective and inaccurate Reports.

Vermont Episcopal Institute.

THIRTY-SIXTH ANNUAL REPORT.

JUNE 15, 1892.

The Trustees in submitting their thirty-sixth annual report to the Convention, would say, that the Willoughby Professor has been at all times prepared to attend to the duties of his professorship, when there have been students or candidates desiring instruction, and during the last year has given instruction accordingly at different times to several candidates.

ACADEMICAL DEPARTMENT.

The general work of this department has been about the same as in former years. There have been thirty-seven pupils; fifteen from Vermont, eight from New York, seven from Massachusetts, two from Connecticut, and one each from Arkansas, Montana, Iowa, Nova Scotia and Cuba. Of those who have finished their course this year, one goes to the University of Vermont, one to Yale, one to Amherst College, which has placed the Institute upon the list of schools, as do many other colleges, which are willing to receive our students upon the certificate of the Principal without further examination. The Principal says in his report to the Trustees that "the school has been blessed in a marked degree in the matter of health, notwithstanding the prevalence of the 'grippe' during the winter; not a boy here was affected with it, nor has there been any case of serious illness. On the other hand our boys have invariably improved in physical vigor, many of them surprisingly so," which shows how well adapted are all the buildings, and the provision for heating and ventilating the rooms, and the climate of Rock Point to the health and vigor of the pupils, so important to a successful prosecution of their studies.

The League of Rock Point Cadets have during the last year repaired and rejuvenated the large parlor and reading room, at an expense of $500, raised among themselves with the assistance of $300 from Mrs. William Seward Webb, who very gladly made the contribution as soon as she knew it was wanted. This has added greatly to the beauty of the room and, with a good library, made it what Bishop Hopkins originally designed it to be, an attractive, pleasant and homelike resort for the teachers and boys for conversation and reading, when not engaged in their regular school duties.

The military drill, which has become an established feature of this school, has been regularly maintained the past year, under the charge of Col. Louis Rouillion, and the benefit to the health, physical culture, and manly bearing of the pupils is very perceptible, and is highly prized by its patrons.

BISHOP HOPKINS HALL.

The Convention no doubt will be glad to learn of the continued success of this branch of the Institute,—not only that the high standard of instruction which was laid down at the opening of it as the basis of education and Christian culture has been maintained, with a full corps of competent teachers in all branches,—but that the number of pupils has increased since our last report. It will be remembered that we commenced with eight the first year, and we have had this, the fourth year, an average attendance of forty-three, all resident in the building. These have come from thirteen different States and Canada, which shows the wide reputation the school has already acquired beyond the borders of our own State. There are accommodations in the building for about sixty pupils, and if we are to judge by the applications recently made in addition to those previously promised, we shall hardly be able to accommodate all. Preference will be given to those of our own Diocese if all cannot be received.

The success of this department has exceeded in this short time the expectations of its most sanguine friends, and if it continues to increase in the same proportion in the future, it becomes evident that we shall have to call upon our friends in the Diocese to supply funds to enlarge its accommodations.

The Board has been engaged, as you are aware, up to a very recent date, in raising money and erecting the buildings suitable for the purposes of education. Every one who has any knowledge of business must be aware that it requires a certain amount of expense for teachers, servants, and supplies of various kinds, whether there are few or many pupils, and now that the buildings and all conveniences are provided, the object is to get the most good from them possible, and especially to pupils from Vermont. There are many very worthy boys and girls, who have partial means of their own, to which a small sum added would enable them to procure an education. There is but one endowment, and that is for the girl's school, which is of great service to a limited number, the income of it having been appropriated the past year to the education of the daughters of four Vermont clergymen; and the Board will continue it to the same another year if wanted. We can not emphasize this subject better than to quote from the excellent report of your own Committee on Education made to the Convention last year :—

“Affairs at the Vermont Episcopal Institute, at Rock Point, are in a flourishing condition. The school for boys, under the able management of Principal H. H. Ross, continues to do good work for the Christian education of young men. Under Rev. L. M. Hardy's management, Bishop Hopkins Hall is sending out into the world a large number of carefully and conscientiously trained Christian women. Yet there is a great lack in both these schools, not due, however, to those who have them in charge—and that is, the dearth of Vermont children among their pupils. The cause is not difficult to find. In order to have good schools worthy of our church, and schools so equipped as to give the best results in mental, physical, and moral education, the price for the school year must necessarily be high. The majority of Vermont churchmen who would like to have their children educated at Rock Point, are not able financially to expend the amount annually which would be involved in such a course. Therefore these schools should by all means be endowed for the benefit of the children of Vermont churchmen. And as one means to this end, your Committee would suggest that each parish raise gradually a fund with which to endow these institutions with a scholarship for a pupil from that parish. This is being done now in one parish of the diocese.

It is our pleasure as well as our duty to recommend to the members of our communion these two Diocesan Institutions of sound learning, and to urge upon them, that, so far as it is possible, they should endeavor to patronize them, thus extend their influence and contribute to their prosperity. That great and substantial advantages to the church in Vermont would arise from such a course, no one can deny, and it seems to your Committee that all Vermont churchmen having children to educate have also a plain duty in this respect."

It is not necessary that a full endowment of a scholarship be made at one time, but if each parish, as suggested by this Committee, would gradually set apart the offerings of two or three Sundays in the year, placing the same at interest and adding to it each year, it would not be long before we should have one pupil at least from every parish in the Diocese.

As we are preparing this report, a communication comes to us which makes a practical application of the idea we are endeavoring to impress upon the Convention, and which we can no better illustrate than in the words of the communication itself:—

“TO THE TRUSTEES OF THE VERMONT EPISCOPAL INSTITUTE.

Gentlemen:--WHEREAS, I Thomas H. Canfield, having been closely identified with the Vermont Episcopal Institute for nearly forty years continuously, as an original charter trustee, and as its treasurer since 1865, as an active member of the Board during the founding of it and the erection of the various Seminary buildings; and as my children have been upon its roll as pupils for eighteen years, and

WHEREAS, I have devoted much of my time and money to place upon a sure basis both the boys' and girls' schools now in successful operation thereon, whose whole system and teaching shall be in accordance with the standard doctrines, worship and discipline of the Protestant Episcopal Church in the United States of America, and believing that the future welfare of the Republican institutions of our Country depend to a great extent upon a higher standard of education and a more elevated tone of morals, which have for their basis the Christian religion; and it being my desire, as far as I can, to contribute to the diffusion of such a high standard, in the future as I have in the past.

Therefore, to the Glory of Almighty God, and in loving memory of my eldest son, John Henry Hopkins Canfield, who for so many years was connected with the Academical Department of the Institute, and whose remains now repose within its consecrated grounds, myself and wife do hereby give to the Vermont Episcopal Institute, the sum of three thousand dollars, to which we may add more, if God prospers us and spares our lives, to be known as the “John Henry Hopkins Canfield Memorial Fund,” which sum, and all future accretions to said fund, are to be invested by the trustees in such securities as the Savings Banks in Vermont are allowed to invest their funds in at the time the investment is made.

The principal of the fund to always remain intact ; the income only to be devoted to the education in the Academical Department of said Institute, of worthy and deserving young men, such as the Bishop of the Diocese and the trustees may designate, preference being given to such persons as may be named by myself, my wife, my daughters, Emily, Marion and Flora, and my only remaining son, Thomas H. Jr., in seniority during their life-time.

In case the principal of said fund should become impaired, the income of said fund shall then be added to the principal until the same is restored to its original amount. If from any cause the Vermont Episcopal Institute shall become extinct, or the operation of the Academical Department for boys be suspended for the period of twenty consecutive years, then this fund and all accretions thereto is to become the property of the heirs of Thomas H. Canfield living at the time when said period of twenty years expires.

If at any time there be no applicants for the income of the fund, then said income shall be added to the principal until there are applicants for it.

Trusting that this slight tribute of affection and love,—of regard and esteem for the welfare of the institutions founded by the venerable first Bishop of Vermont, may be acceptable to your honorable Board, and that it may become a constant, active, living source of good for all time to come, to the cause of Christ and His Church, we are very respectfully

Your obedient servants,

THOMAS H. CANFIELD,
CAROLINE A. H. CANFIELD."

Rock Point, Burlington, Vt., June 10, 1892.

The income from this fund may help one and perhaps two young men yearly in completing their education, and thus be of great service. Who will be the next one to establish a scholarship? We hope this example will incite others, and so we may have our schools filled and performing in full the work for which they have such splendid facilities.

The Trustees have accepted the donation of $3,000 of Mr. and Mrs. Canfield upon the conditions of the trust therein made and for the purposes therein set forth.

The Trustees have for some time been desirous of obtaining a tract of land to the north of and adjoining the Institute property, lest it might pass into undesirable hands and become a source of annoyance. They are glad to inform the Convention that they have now accomplished their long desired object through the liberality of those warm friends of the schools, the Dr. and Mrs. William Seward Webb, of Shelburne, who have purchased the tract for $3,000 and deeded it to the Vermont Episcopal Institute as a gift.

THE JOHN P. HOWARD ENDOWMENT FUND OF BISHOP HOPKINS HALL.

This fund of $20,000 is represented by 125 shares of Rensselaer & Saratoga Railroad Co., stock, par value $12,500, which cost $20,000, and yields 8% per annum on the par value. The dividends for the year ending January 1st, 1892, amounting to $1,000, have been received by the treasurer and paid over to the treasurer of the Vermont Episcopal Institute, toward the support of the Diocesan School for Girls, known as Bishop Hopkins Hall.

THE C. W. CONANT FUND FOR THE BENEFIT OF ST. THOMAS' CHURCH, BRANDON.

At the date of the last report there was on hand the sum of six dollars as income of this fund of $100, and there has, during the past year, been received the additional sum of six dollars, as income thereon for the year ending April 1st, 1892.

These sums, amounting to $12, have been paid over to St. Thomas' Church, Brandon, in accordance with the trust.

THE REV. THEODORE A. HOPKINS FUND.

This fund of $500 for the benefit of St. Andrew's Church, St. Johnsbury, continues invested in a first mortgage, as at the date of the last report. The interest for the year ending February 7, 1892, amounting to $30, has been collected by the Treasurer and paid to St. Andrew's Church, St. Johnsbury, in conformity with the terms of the gift.

During the past year two additional funds have been given to the Trustees of the Diocese of Vermont in trust, as follows:

THE LUCRETIA MILLER THAYER MEMORIAL FUND.

On November 13, 1891, the Trustees of the Diocese of Vermont received a gift of $1,000 in trust for the benefit of St. Mary's Church, Northfield, from James Carey B. Thayer, of that place, which is in the following words:

NORTHFIELD, Nov. 13, 1891.

TO THE HON. WILLIAM G. SHAW,

Treasurer of the Trustees of the Diocese of Vermont:

MY DEAR SIR:

Enclosed please find check for one thousand dollars, which sum is given for the benefit of St. Mary's Protestant Episcopal Church, of Northfield, in the Diocese of Vermont, in loving memory of my wife, Lucretia Miller Thayer, late deceased, which I desire to be placed in trust with the Trustees of the Diocese of Vermont, upon the following conditions, to wit:

First, The fund hereby constituted shall be known as the Lucretia Miller Thayer Memorial Fund.

Second, The income of said fund shall be paid annually or semi-annually, as the case may be, to the Treasurer of St. Mary's Church, to be expended for the support of the rector or minister in charge of said church.

Third, In case religious services in conformity with the liturgy and canons of the Protestant Episcopal Church of the United States shall be suspended in said church for the term of twelve consecutive months, there being no legally settled rector or minister in charge in said church during said time, then and in such case the income that may accrue during such suspension of services shall be added to and become a part of the said fund hereinbefore named, and the income of the new fund so created shall be paid over to said church, as before provided, from the time a rector shall be legally settled or a minister in charge employed.

Fourth, In case said church shall from any cause become extinct, then and in such case the income of said fund and its increase, if any shall have been made, shall be annually added to said fund, and the income of said new fund so created shall be paid to the treasurer of a church which may be newly organized in conformity with the canons of the Protestant Episcopal Church of the Diocese of Vermont, and located in said town of Northfield, as hereinbefore provided.

Fifth, The fund hereby created shall be perpetual, and the income growing out of it shall never be used for purposes other than those herein specified.

Trusting that my action may meet the approval of the Trustees, I am,

With assurances of personal regard,

Yours very truly,

JAMES CAREY B. THAYER.

This fund of $1,000 has been invested in a first mortgage loan, drawing interest from December 1, 1891, and the interest to June 1, 1892, amounting to $30, has been collected and paid over to the Treasurer of St. Mary's Church, Northfield, in conformity with the terms of the trust.

THE CRAMTON FUND.

On February 2, 1892, H. A. Cramton, of Enosburgh, Vt., made a trust gift of two hundred dollars to the Trustees of the Diocese of Vermont, in memory of his mother, Semantha Cramton, then recently deceased, which gift was expressed in the following words:—

I, H. A. Cramton, of Enosburgh, Vermont, do hereby give and grant unto the Trustees of the Diocese of Vermont, a corporation existing under the laws of Vermont, the sum of two hundred dollars, in memory of my mother, Semantha Cramton, of said Enosburgh, recently deceased, which said money shall be known as the Cramton Fund, and shall be held and managed by said Trustees of the Diocese of Vermont in trust for the following purposes, viz.:

Said fund shall be invested by said Trustees of the Diocese of Vermont to the best of their judgment, from time to time, and the net income thereof shall be annually or semi-annually paid by them to the rector or minister in charge of Christ Church at Enosburgh aforesaid, so long as said church shall be supplied with a rector or minister in charge officiating therein as such, and under the Protestant Episcopal Church of the Diocese of Vermont. In case said Christ Church shall not be supplied by such a rector or minister in charge for any period less than ten consecutive years, then the net income of said fund shall be accumulated by said Trustees of the Diocese of Vermont and added to the principal of said fund, thereby increasing the same, and whenever, within said period of ten consecutive years, said Christ Church shall be supplied with such a rector or minister in charge for a period of at least one full year, then the net income of said fund, so increased as aforesaid, shall be paid over to said rector or minister in charge during his incumbency as such.

But if, at any time, said church shall have no rector or minister in charge for the full period of ten (10) consecutive years, then the net income of said fund and its increments shall be paid by said Trustees for the benefit of Diocesan Missions in the Diocese of Vermont. But if, at any time after said Trustees of the Diocese of Vermont shall, in accordance with the foregoing provisions, have commenced to pay the net income of said fund for the benefit of Diocesan Missions in the Diocese of Vermont, said Christ Church shall be revived, and the same shall be supplied with a rector or minister in charge for the full term of one year, then so long as said Christ Church shall be so supplied, the net income of said fund and its increments shall be paid over to said rector or minister in charge as aforesaid, and when under these provisions no rector or minister in charge shall be entitled to said net income, the same shall be by said Trustees annually or semi-annually paid for the benefit of Diocesan Missions as aforesaid.

It shall not impair the right of such rector or minister in charge of said Christ Church to receive said net income because such rector or minister in charge officiates at the same time as such in any parish of the Protestant Episcopal Church in Vermont, the church edifice of which shall be situated within twelve miles from said Christ Church in Enosburgh.

Dated at Burlington, Vermont, this second day of February, A.D. 1892.

H. A. CRAMTON.

This fund is on deposit in the Burlington Savings Bank to the credit of the Trustees of the Diocese of Vermont, where it is expected to yield income from February 1, 1892, at the rate of $4\frac{1}{2}$ per cent. per annum, payable semi-annually on the first of July and January.

CONVEYANCE OF CHURCH PROPERTY.

The Trustees of the Diocese of Vermont have during the past year received a conveyance in trust from the wardens and vestry of St. Mary's Church, Northfield, of the rectory property in that place, and from the Protestant Episcopal Church Society of the town of Shelburne, of Trinity Church property in that town.

Respectfully submitted,

WILLIAM G. SHAW,
Treasurer.

Brattleboro, June 15, 1892.

We, the undersigned, having verified the foregoing report of William G. Shaw, Treasurer of the Trustees of the Diocese of Vermont, find the same correct and the securities as stated in this report.

REPORT OF THE

Missionary Committee

OF THE DIOCESE OF VERMONT.

The Missionary Committee would present the following report :

During the past year five meetings have been held at the Bishop's house, and with but one exception a quorum has been present. At the beginning of the Conventional year, by a vote of the Committee, and by sanction of the Bishop, the Missionaries of the Diocese were requested to send in quarterly to the Bishop, a statement of the number of services held, and the amount received towards the payment of their salaries. A few responded to this demand. The Committee look upon it as very important that the Diocese should be fully informed in regard to the labors of those doing mission work, and their local support; and they think the Diocese, thus enlightened, will be roused to an increase in their contributions towards this work. If the abundant labors of our devoted Missionaries in this state were realized as they should be, the parishes would not only be willing to contribute what they are assessed, but they would doubtless supplement these contributions. A larger sum than usual was apportioned to the Mission at Barre, and it is certain that the expenditure has been none too much, as it has given a decided impetus to the movement for the church in that town, and enabled us to have a resident Missionary. An additional appropriation of one hundred dollars was made for the support of the General Missionary, as from reliable information it was found necessary, as the expenses, if he does the work as he should, are large. It is certainly the desire of the Diocese to have the General Missionary in a degree independent, and not be obliged to ask hospitality of those who may not be inclined, or find it inconvenient to grant it. In surveying the field, there is evidently a demand for another Missionary, and is it not possible that the Auxiliary, or perhaps some individual, as once before, will for a time support one to look after the southern section of the State, while the Diocese sustains another for the northern portion? Some of the Missionaries have asked for an increase of their stipends, that they may have the means to reach out and plant the Church in fields ripe for the harvest in their vicinity, and there should certainly be a favorable response to these demands, if we are to be a live Church. This entails the necessity of raising more money, but it is true the higher we set our mark in this respect, the larger will be the amount assured. When the General Missionary was first appointed, it was thought impossible to raise the amount required for his support, but through the blessing of God it was accomplished, and nobody died because of it, but all were made alive. The Committee are gratified to report that there is no deficiency for the support of Diocesan Missions, as has been the case many times in the past. We ought to realize that there was never in the history of the Diocese, a better opportunity for advancing the interests of our Communion, and we are called upon to contribute liberally for Missionary purposes.

Attest,

B. W. ATWELL, Secretary.

DIOCESAN MISSIONARY'S REPORT.

RUTLAND, May 31, 1892.To the Right Reverend the Bishop of Vermont :

My report as Diocesan Missionary covers a period of five months, beginning with the first of January last. During this time I have visited a large number of towns in various sections of the State; have held forty-three Sunday and eleven week-day services; have celebrated the Holy Communion nineteen times; have baptized nine children and five adults; have prepared a number of persons for confirmation, (a class of eight or ten persons awaiting that rite at one point), and have visited about one hundred and fifty different families.

In pursuance of your charge I have put myself into communication with vacant Missions, and those served by Deacons or Lay Readers, for the purpose of securing for them the somewhat regular celebration of the Holy Communion. In most cases neighboring Priests have kindly taken this service upon themselves, so that I had occasion to visit only a few of such Missions. Wherever I have found a few scattered communicants I have usually held a public service, sometimes celebrating the Holy Communion in connection with such service, and sometimes gathering the communicants by themselves in some private house. I have held a considerable number of services where we have no communicants of our church, and am greatly indebted to the courtesy of ministers and other officials of various religious bodies for the use of their places of worship. In a good many instances the regular service for the day has been given up to me, the local minister leading in the responses, which have almost invariably been full and hearty, the congregations numbering from sixty to one hundred persons. Almost without exception I have been able to secure the aid of an efficient choir at such services, meeting them for a rehearsal of the canticles especially, so that the full musical service of the Church has usually been had, with the single exception of the Te Deum.

Although no very considerable results of this itinerant work may immediately appear, it is hoped that some comfort has been brought to many scattered members of our household of faith, who often feel themselves to be forgotten, and that seed has been sown whose fruit may sometime appear, if not in the region where it is sown, at least in those larger communities of the East and those vast regions of the West to which our Vermont people are constantly going, and where they are doing their full share in influencing the character of a heterogeneous population.

I can not close this report without expressing my deep sense of gratitude to the Woman's Auxiliary, without whose aid and sympathy this work might not have been undertaken, and certainly could not have been by any means so largely done.

WILLIAM J. HARRIS,
Diocesan Missionary.

Report on Christian Education.

The two educational centres of the diocese, the Vermont Episcopal Institute and Bishop Hopkins Hall, are believed to be in a flourishing condition and effectually doing the work belonging to them.

The former of these institutions has received a gift of three thousand dollars from Mr. and Mrs. Thos. H. Canfield, as a memorial of their son, John Henry Hopkins Canfield, a former pupil, to be used in establishing a free scholarship. So worthy an example of beneficence ought to be followed by other communicants of the church in Vermont, as the results of such gifts cannot be over estimated. They serve to enable young men to obtain a thorough classical education under the direction of faithful and earnest instructors in the church's way and doctrine. A suitable resolution was passed by the Convention thanking the donors in their establishing the first endowed scholarship in the Vermont Episcopal Institute.

Your Committee would again call attention to the claims and advantages of our two diocesan Institutions of learning, so worthy of the support and confidence of all churchmen and others seeking educational advantages for their children.

D. L. SANFORD, } Committee.

ON

Sunday Schools.

The acknowledged failure on the part of parents and sponsors to properly train their children in those things which pertain to their spiritual well-being, makes it obligatory that every parish should maintain a live, active, enthusiastic Sunday school. Notwithstanding the large accessions we are constantly having from those outside our Communion, our Confirmation classes must be formed largely from the young growing up in our Sunday schools, and that is the best Sunday school whose service and method of instruction early lead the child into the enjoyment and privileges of full membership in the Church of God, made members of Christ at their baptism. The Sunday school should emphasize that membership, its responsibilities and its possibilities.

Abstracts and impersonal teaching have no place in the model Sunday school; the child should be taught personally to know a personal Saviour. To this end the Church has put into our hands the church Catechism, which if presented to the child in a concrete and personal way, by a teacher whose life is open to the truth of God on the one hand and the spiritual needs of the child on the other, can but result in bringing the child early and by a safe transition into the full enjoyment of of membership in the Church of God, the ultimate object of the Sunday school. Of the editing of Leaflets and Sunday school instruction books (all of which are more or less defective) there seems to be no end; and there is danger of teaching too much in our Sunday schools, as we do in our so-called day schools, a smattering of everything and a knowledge of nothing.

Teachers are inclined to spend valuable time upon side issues, expatiating on curious biblical facts of archaeology and chronology, of history and geography, while too little time is spent in engraving upon the hearts of the young the grander lesson of a living faith in a living Christ.

In the Sunday school everything depends upon the consecration and spirituality of the teacher.

Your Committee rejoices that this important branch of church work is now brought to the attention of the whole body of clergy, and a large number of representative laymen of this Diocese at the annual Convention.

Able speakers (men whose reputation as Sunday school workers is established) should be invited to address the annual Convention, and the enthusiasm which they would impart would be felt in all our Sunday schools throughout the Diocese and God's Kingdom would be advanced.

Respectfully submitted,

WILLIAM H. COLLINS,
F. D. BUCKLEY.

RECORDING SECRETARY'S REPORT OF THE MEETING IN BRATTLEBORO, JUNE 15, 1892.

ST. MICHAEL'S CHURCH, }
BRATTLEBORO, VT., June 15th, 1892. }

According to a resolution passed in September, 1886, directing a special meeting of the officers of the Auxiliary to be held during the meeting of the Diocesan Convention, to whom the annual reports of the Treasurer and Secretaries were to be made, a meeting was held in a small hall near the church, immediately after the reading of the Bishop's address.

In the absence of the President, Mrs. L. G. Kingsley was made Chairman, and Mrs. C. E. Allen, Secretary of this meeting.

The Treasurer's Report was read by Mrs. E. L. Wyman.

The Corresponding Secretary's Report was read by Mrs. C. E. Allen, and the Recording Secretary's Report by Mrs. Buckingham.

On motion, the several reports were accepted, and ordered to be printed in the Journal of the Convention.

The meeting then adjourned.

ELLEN C. ALLEN, Secretary.

A meeting of the Woman's Auxiliary of the Burlington District, was held in St. Paul's Church, Burlington, on Wednesday, May 11. Morning Prayer was said by the Rev. Messrs. Hardy and Niles; the Holy Communion was administered by the Rev. Drs. Bliss and Harris. The sermon was given by the General Missionary, the Rev. Dr. Harris, and was, in part, an able exposition of the policy of the Church in making the Diocese, rather than the Parish, the unit of strength and effort. After the service, luncheon was served in the parish rooms.

At 3 P. M. a business meeting was held in the chapel. The chief topic discussed was "The Enrollment Fund." It was resolved to ask the several rectors of the Burlington District to bring before their respective parishes the subject of "The Enrollment Fund," so that every man, woman and child might have an opportunity to contribute toward the said fund of $1,000,000. The plan further is, that each family should have a mite chest by June 1, to be opened on the third week in September next, and the contents be given to the General Auxiliary in Baltimore, in October, as Vermont's offering toward that fund. This is a very important subject and should receive the immediate attention of all the Church people in the Diocese, and the whole church.

In the evening missionary addresses were made by the Rev. Dr. Harris, and the Rev. Messrs. Graves and Niles.

The meeting of the Woman's Auxiliary of the Windsor District was held at Royalton, May 18-19, and was largely attended. On Wednesday the Delegates were tendered a reception and five o'clock tea at the hospitable home of Hon. D. C. Denison. An informal meeting followed, in which Mrs. Paul, of Woodstock, gave useful hints on "The Preparation of Missionary Boxes," and Mrs. Canfield, of Burlington, read a paper on "Systematic Giving." In the evening a large congregation gathered in St. Paul's Church. Devotional exercises were conducted by the Rev. G. A. Wilkins, acting rector. The Rev. F. W. Smith, of Woodstock, gave an interesting address on "Domestic Missions," and the Rev. W. J. Harris, D. D., General Missionary of the Diocese, spoke of the work in Vermont, its needs and encouragement.

On Thursday, A. M., the Rev. Mr. Wilkins made a strong plea for the foreign mission work, and Mrs. Canfield urged the formation of junior auxiliaries. A vote of thanks to the Royalton auxiliary for their kind attentions and warm hospitality was unanimously adopted and the meeting adjourned. Its influence was inspiring and will be felt throughout the district.

At Enosburg Falls, May 18th, a successful meeting of the St. Albans district meeting of the Woman's Auxiliary, was held in St. Mathew's church, the Rev. Edward S. Stone, priest in charge. There were present some 20 delegates from the surrounding parishes. At the first service, consisting of the Litany, celebration of the Holy Communion, and sermon, the Rev. Josephus Tragitt, of Calvary church, East Berkshire, delivered a scholarly and eloquent discourse from Esther iv : 14. After a lunch at the rectory and a business meeting, Evening Prayer was said, and a most earnest and practical sermon was preached by the Rev. P. F. Swett, of Holy Trinity church, Swanton.

During the past year St. Mathew's has been improved by being frescoed, and by the addition of a new chancel carpet, hangings and font cover. It is a very complete and well-appointed church, and for a number of years has had a weekly Eucharist.

CONSTITUTION.
OF THE
VERMONT BRANCH OF THE WOMAN'S AUXILIARY TO THE BOARD OF MISSIONS.

ARTICLE I. This association shall be known as the Vermont Branch of the Woman's Auxiliary to the Board of Missions.

ARTICLE II. The object of this association is to aid the women of our congregation in church work, whether for the parish, the Diocese, or for our general mission.

ARTICLE III. Any society or association of women working for either of the purposes thus indicated may be in union with this Branch, and may be represented in its meetings by such a number of delegates, not exceeding five, as it may elect.

ARTICLE IV. The officers of this Branch shall be a President, two or more Vice-Presidents, a Treasurer, a Recording Secretary, and a Corresponding Secretary, who shall be elected annually.

ARTICLE V. The President shall preside at all meetings of the Branch, unless the Bishop of the Diocese be present, and chooses to preside ex-officio.

ARTICLE VI. The Vice-Presidents shall preside in the absence of the President in the order of their election.

ARTICLE VII. The Treasurer shall have charge of the funds of the Branch, and shall pay out the same according to the directions of the association.

ARTICLE VIII. The Recording Secretary shall keep a roll of the delegates in attendance at the meetings, and shall also keep the records of the proceedings of the Branch.

ARTICLE IX. The Corresponding Secretary shall conduct the correspondence of the Branch, with the affiliated association, the Secretary of the Woman's Auxiliary, and others.

ARTICLE X. This Branch does not propose to interfere with work which the associations are doing for the church in their several localities, yet it would recommend that each such association should select some time in the year to work especially for the cause of our General Missions, in connection with the Woman's Auxiliary.

ARTICLE XI. It is recommended, in case the Convention of the Diocese approves that course, that members of these associations, under the directions of their Clergy, charge themselves with the circulation of the pledges for our Diocese Missions, and, if necessary, the collection of the same.

ARTICLE XII. The Constitution shall only be altered or amended by a vote of delegates representing two-thirds of the associations in union with this Branch.

ARTICLE XIII. By-Laws in accordance with the Constitution may be adopted or altered at any meeting.

ARTICLE XIV. The annual meeting of the Branch shall be held on such day of September, October or November as shall have been appointed at the previous meeting. The President shall at any time call a meeting of the Branch, on the written request of three parish societies.

BY-LAWS.

BY-LAW 1. Any society or association of women working for either of the objects indicated in the Constitution may be received into union with the Vermont Branch of the Women's Auxiliary to the Board of Missions at any annual meeting of the same, by a vote of a majority of the members present, upon presenting a certificate from the Rector of the parish, or of the Missionary in charge, or in the absence of either, of the Senior Warden, setting forth that such society or association is duly organized for Church work.

BY-LAW 2. The Convention of the Vermont Branch shall be composed of delegates from the several societies in union with the Branch, who are hereby authorized to act and vote upon all questions, upon presenting credentials signed by the President and Secretary of the society which they propose to represent, certifying that they have been duly elected at a regular meeting of said society, as delegates to the Convention.

BY-LAW 3. In case there should not be, for any reason, an election of officers, as provided for in the Constitution, those previously elected shall hold their offices until others are chosen.

BY-LAW 4. All the officers of the Diocesan Auxiliary shall be entitled to all the privileges of the floor, and to speak and to vote upon all questions which shall come before the Convention.

BY-LAW 5. The funds collected by any society for the Vermont Branch, for any object, shall be held by the Treasurer, and paid out on the order of the President for that special object.

BY-LAW 6. The President, Treasurer, and Secretaries of this society shall be elected by ballot, after open nomination.

BOARD OF LAND AGENTS.

The board of Land Agents has adopted the following rules for its government in making appropriations:—

1. That the year for which appropriations are made shall commence at Easter.

2. That the appropriations made to any parish for one year shall be considered as applying to such part of the year only, in its just proportion, as the said parish shall have a Rector or Minister.

3. That the appropriations shall be paid semi-annually, one half in six months from Easter, and the balance in twelve months.

4. That it is not expedient in the opinion of the board, to make any further appropriations for the building of Churches and Parsonages.

The Board holds its annual meeting in June, at the time of the Annual Convention.

SERMON.

I cannot disguise from myself the fact that I occupy a somewhat embarrassing position here to-day. I am expected to speak of the life and work of Bishop Bissell. The theme is dear to my heart. My embarrassment arises from several causes. I have consented to do what I feel ought to have been done by one better qualified than myself, higher in office, and the compeer of him who for a quarter of a century presided in the councils of this convention. Then I am confident that our Reverend Father, while he would have appreciated the love and devotion which have prompted this service, would not have been in sympathy with it, neither would it have had his consent. Like Bishop Ken, he had a strong dislike to what are called "funeral sermons," and the idea of being "preached over" would have met his most vigorous protest. Besides this, our minds are not altogether in that state of calm which permits us to think of only one thing. We are under the influence of conflicting emotions, we are swayed by feelings both of sorrow and anxiety, sorrow for the loss of him who has been taken from us, anxiety as to what the morrow will bring, whether his office shall be wisely and competently filled. For men may die, the workman may fold his weary hands in sleep, the leader may fall at the head of his army, but the Church lives and the work must go on, and the army must be led forth unto victory, no matter who drops by the way, nor what hearts bleed.

Notwithstanding these causes of embarrassment which are personal to myself, it has been thought best that the sermon this morning should be commemorative; that in consideration of the long and faithful service of our lamented Bishop as the head of this Diocese, and the affectionate regard in which he was held by Clergy and Laity, something more is demanded on this occasion than the mere passage of resolutions to his memory. That now, when the tears of grief are fresh, and "the heart softens to the tongue," now, when the soul is full and ere the flood of other cares rolls in and dims the lines of sorrow as the waves wash out the tide-marks on the sand; now, when, had he lived a few weeks longer, this convention would have celebrated the twenty-fifth anniversary of his consecration, and we look upon his vacant chair, and miss the familiar form that filled it; now, when we are silently praying that God will raise up for us, in his stead, a worthy successor, we should not part with the past, and enter on the future, without paying a tribute of heartfelt respect to the anointed of God, the Bishop, the Pastor, the Christian and the Man. Let the half hour in our thoughts be golden, however poor the grammar and the tongue.

I shall not attempt to sketch to any extent the life of Bishop Bissell. There was little in it out of the ordinary course. "Modern Bishops," it has been said, "can scarcely be a picturesque body of men." This is true of most. There are no particularly great events in their lives. "The life that seems so quiet, the load of little accumulated cares, does not much appeal to general sympathy. The days may darken round the lonely man, but the world does not suspect the pathos of it. The heart strings may snap, but they make no noise in the breaking." Death leaves no blank that is not speedily filled.

His early life is too well known to call for consideration here. It is sufficient to say that he was born and educated in the State which afterwards became his Diocese, and which contains his grave. When he was called to the Bishopric from his parish in Geneva, N. Y., he remarked that "no traveller from foreign lands ever returned with greater delight to his long forsaken home than he did to the mountains and hills of Vermont." With every fibre of his being he loved its rugged scenery. The eye of no Swiss mountainer ever kindled with greater rapture at the sight of his Alpine grandeur. It was here that he imbibed in youth that passionate fondness for the beautiful in Nature, which developed so largely in him the poet's soul, if not the poet's function, and which made him such a delightful companion on the wayside, in the woods, and on the mountain ramble. Some of us here will remember with pleasure one or more of these excursions, in which the search for physical vigor was enlivened by pictures of the imagination, and the splendor of intellectual perceptions.

The Bishop was not by birth an Episcopalian. He was educated a Congregationalist of the strictest school of Calvinistic orthodoxy. Like most young men of studious habits he was fond of argument, and a bitter opponent of the Church of which he finally became a member and a minister. He was too broadly and generously molded to be long swayed by prejudice, or to form his judgment without careful investigation. A diligent study of ancient authors, of the history and polity of the Church, compared with the condensed account of the primitive organization as laid down in the Acts of the Apostles, convinced him of the justice of her claims to an Apostolic origin ; and after a hard struggle with his early prepossessions he became a Candidate for Orders, was ordained Deacon in 1839, made a Priest in the year following, and consecrated second Bishop of Vermont in 1868.

I should fail in analyzing the character of Bishop Bissell. My great love for him which deepened, if possible, more and more as time went on, would render me incompetent for such a task. I can do little more than copy, substantially, the remarks I made to the people of my parish on the Sunday following his burial. You had to know him intimately in order to appreciate him fully, or to judge him truly. There was about him a certain dignity of bearing, and a reticence of manner that at first sometimes impressed strangers unfavorably and caused him to be misunderstood. Then, again, he often uttered himself with a positiveness and directness of expression, common to men of decided ideas, which cut sharply into the opinions of men of a like independent character. But he was not a man to take a position and stand there, merely because the position was his own. He yielded readily where proof was sufficient to carry conviction. There was that about him which always commanded respect. It was no particular characteristic—you could not tell, perhaps, precisely what it was—it was not the clear cut outline of the face, with its various emotional expressions, it was not the keen flashing glance of his dark eye, it was no one conspicuously defined peculiarity, it was rather the general make-up, the undefined, insensible out-going of the man.

As a Churchman and a theologian he was sound, conservative, and of solid acquirements. He was of the old school that was called “advanced” twenty-five years ago.

He believed heartily in the fact and idea of the Church, and in the Divine origin and transmission of the Episcopate. He tolerated no innovations upon the integrity of the prayer-book, but he was not scared by a ceremony, or the color of a stole. He put no prohibition upon usages with which he was not directly in sympathy, where they were desired or accepted by the parish. He often remarked, "The Church is broad and flexible enough to entertain with charity all schools of thought, so long as the essential principles are not interfered with." It was owing to this wise and judicious management that his Diocese always remained a unit, and no friction was ever created between himself and his Clergy, or between the Clergy themselves. I do not think his real ability was always fully appreciated. He seldom spoke in the House of Bishops. He devoted no time to the work of authorship. Perhaps he had no taste for it. He has left but little more behind him than his convention addresses, which were well constructed, honorable to himself, and of service to the Church.

As a preacher he was effective. The people heard him gladly. There was an earnestness and sincerity about him that commanded attention, worth whole volumes of mere rhetorical flourish. You could not look at his sweet face and listen to the music of his voice without being drawn into sympathy with him. The holy influence of his heartfelt, loving, faithful words, in his tender pleading with the souls of men, as he held up Christ Crucified as the Way, the Truth, and the Life, was always observable on the congregation.

He was a man who could be touched with the feeling of human infirmities. Underneath a calm and somewhat un-demonstrative exterior, there was the heart of a woman, and gentleness of a child. His soul answered to the cry of sorrow in that "touch of nature, which makes the whole world kin." He did nothing for effect. His tenderness was a part of himself. A poor sick woman, whom he visited with me, exclaimed with tears when I told her of his death: "O weary and loving heart! Is he indeed at rest? O the comfort of those words which he spoke to me that day!"

His home life was delightful. How many of us here to-day have partaken of his generous hospitality. How well we recall his emphatic utterances in some theological discussion! And the hour or two in the evening, reading aloud from some favorite author. Few men possessed a keener sense of wit and humor. Humor with him was akin to sympathy. It was in the region of the intellectual nature, what charity is in the moral. It was the sunlight flecking the waves when the storm passes. These were times when the Bishop was merged in the scholar and the man, and the restraints imposed by office and conventionality were cast aside.

I might go on and speak of other traits of his character as they have impressed themselves upon my mind. But I must say a few words about the work done during the period of his administration.

When he became Bishop of Vermont, no one can say that he entered upon an easy task. He was called to succeed a Prelate of remarkable ability, a man of a thousand, learned, large patterned, a lawyer in legal knowledge, a musician, a painter, an architect, a scholar ripe from the feet of Ganahiel, a man who would have stood foremost in any capacity, as a Jurist, a Statesman, the leader of an army, who undertook nothing for appearance, and yielded nothing without a struggle, of what he undertook. No two persons ever presented a greater contrast. The one raised up to meet the wants of a Church at a special crisis in her history, bold in resources, of energetic will, progressive and aggressive in plans and expedients : the other taking the work as he left it, eminently conservative, quiet and undemonstrative, doing his duty faithfully, and satisfied with ordinary results.

Bishop Hopkins was consecrated in 1832. The Church in Vermont had sundered her relations with the Eastern Diocese and assumed an independent position. The tone of Churchmanship was not altogether of the highest or most catholic order. There had been a drift during the long years in which she was left without Episcopal oversight, which had been only partially arrested by the occasional visitations of the sainted Griswold. It wanted a man of the Athanasian type to proclaim the structural character of the Church and boldly meet the dangers of modern religionism. That man was providentially raised up in Bishop Hopkins. When he was consecrated, according to the tables of the Registrar prepared in 1882, he found in the Diocese 13 clergymen, 24 active parishes, and 1,169 communicants. During the thirty-six years of his Episcopate this number was doubled. But his greatest work was done in elevating the standard of the Church and giving back to her a properly defined and distinctively ecclesiastical character. The dignity of the priesthood was asserted ; the Sacraments were lifted out of their Genevan pauperism ; “ the breaking of bread ” became the central act of worship and the “ fixity of the Church,” as it has been called, was shown to be not the “ fixity of a dead stake driven into the ground, but the fixity of a tree with all the splendid play of its exultant life." Bishop Bissell received his consecration in 1868. There were awaiting him 26 clergymen, 34 organized parishes, with a list of 2,389 communicants. Some of us will remember the modesty and the shrinking sensitiveness with which he spoke of himself in his first address to the convention. He felt the difficulties of his position, and feared, without cause, I believe, adverse criticism. Neither Clergy nor Laity give their votes for a man and then subject him to an unjust comparison. They are too loyal for that. The Church does not always need men of the fiery eloquence and mighty power of Ken, of whom an Irish Prelate has said that had he been bent on a "theological campaign might have rent the Church of England in sunder and with himself and friends would have carried away from the National Establishment the acorn in which lay folded the Church revival." It was gratifying to Bishop Bissell that by God's blessing the progress of the Church, during the last twenty-five years, was equal to, and something more, than the progress made during the thirty-six years preceding. This is not owing to greater efficiency in management but to the increase of parishes, to the breaking down of prejudices against the Church, and to a more general advancement in wealth and liberality. The whole number confirmed by Bishop Bissell, according to the record which he has left, is 5,726, 1,485 more than the present number of communicants. This shows us what a large per cent has been lost to the Church in Vermont by death and removal. The number of churches consecrated during his administration is 22, two others are waiting. Fifteen new rectories have been built, 26 candidates have been admitted deacons, 23 have been advanced to the priesthood. The value of church property has more than doubled. The missionary offerings are as three to one. This is a record of which, on New England soil, no man need be ashamed. For a fuller summary of the condition of the Church, I must refer you to the statistical tables of last year. In all departments, financial, parochial, educational, and missionary, there is gratifying progress.

Our dear Bishop passed away on the Sunday after Ascension. Since 1884, he had showed signs of failing health. His vigorous constitution was being slowly undermined. In 1887, as you will remember, he expressed his willingness to have an Assistant, if the convention so desired; but in deference to his known wishes in the matter the convention declined to act. From that time onward there were intervals when he seemed much like his old self again, when he did his work fairly well and was encouraged to hope that he would ultimately rally from his great weakness. But, as time went by, it became apparent to all who knew him that his condition was not materially improved. More serious difficulties set in, when he seemed to be gradually approaching his end; then, under the influence of his vigorous will, his physical energies would reassert themselves and there would be a temporary recovery. Even in his last sickness he did not despair of further work. He was engaged upon his convention address only a few days before he died. But no Christian soul was ever more sweetly submissive to the Divine will. One day when preparation was being made to give him the Communion, and he was aware that even his physician thought that the end must soon come, he looked up to me with a smile, and said, "Is it not lovely!

Ebbing away without pain." Death came at last, almost without warning. It wooed him to sleep, as slumber woos the weary child. There was no struggle—no suffering—he merely began to breathe shorter and shorter, until the heart stopped. "So He giveth His beloved sleep." It is almost too soon to realize that he has left us, that the golden tongue is silent, that the busy brain has ceased its functions, that the light of love has gone out from the expressive eye, and no more remains to us but to "weep with them that weep."

But the Church lives and much remains to be done. Good men die, but God knows where to find other instruments for His glory. Another must fill the vacant chair, other hands must bear the pastoral staff, and to-morrow, if God wills—and may God direct us in our choice—we proceed to elect the third Bishop of Vermont. Let some portion of the interval, at least, be spent upon our knees!

The Rev. Dr. Bliss then proceeded to the order for the administration of the Holy Communion, assisted by the Rev. Mr. Collins in the distribution of the elements, the Rev. Dr. Bliss saying the Post Communion.

WEDNESDAY, JUNE 21, 1893, 2:30 P. M.

The Convention met pursuant to adjournment.

The President of the Convention then read the

ANNUAL ADDRESS.

MY BRETHREN,

THE CLERGY AND LAITY OF THE CONVENTION:—

During the year since our last session the Church has had severe losses by the death of two prominent members of her house of Bishops—the Bishops of Massachusetts and California; one dying just after his course full of promise was begun, and the other after an Episcopate of nearly two score years full of labor and hardship most honorably completed. The death of Bishop Brooks came with a startling suddenness to all the Church in the East. He was only allowed once to visit his field in its length and breadth, and to begin to be acquainted with the needs and interests, to answer which he supposed would be the main concern of his life. Bishop Kip was ordained Missionary Bishop of California in 1853, just when the gold fever was at its height, and the Golden Gate was crowded with the ships of all nations carrying the seekers for treasure. A strange field for the labors of such a refined and scholarly divine as he, and yet, in spite of the many difficulties in his way, he did most profitable work for the Church, and laid deep and broad foundations for its future, as the three Dioceses which will occupy that State will soon show. For several years past his sight was so impaired that he was unable to do very much of his work. The Church in the East has known comparatively little of that work. He was best known to us through the works he published, which have been of great service.

This Diocese also had its own severe losses, one in the death of the Rev. Judah Dana. In the last address mention was made of his severe bereavements in the death of a son-in-law and his only daughter, who were his chief helpers in his work, who died within a week of each other while he was very ill. He seemed to recover his health slowly and was setting himself about his pastoral work. I visited his parish about midsummer and supposed he might be spared some years to us, but late in the Autumn he was taken away from earthly labors to the rest that remains for the people of God. His period of Priesthood was, I think, less than two years, but filled with most faithful service.

There have been losses among the prominent Laymen also.

William Goodhue Shaw was the eldest son of one who had been in his day a very prominent member of St. Paul's Church, Burlington. He was a graduate of the University of Vermont and a lawyer of much reputation in his profession, a very careful and accomplished business man. He had been the faithful Treasurer of the Episcopal fund, and of the Trustees of the Diocese from the time of their organization. We owe very much to his wise and faithful care of those funds. A faithful and devout communicant of the Church in the last years of his life, he was, from his knowledge of the law and general acquaintance with men and business matters, one of the best furnished of all the advisers of the Bishop. I could not but feel that I had lost my chief counselor by his removal.

This Convention will seem strange to most of us, wanting the presence of Mr. Hiram Atkins, who was one of its most prominent and useful members. He was always ready for any service which the Convention wanted. Long a member of the Missionary Committee, he could always find time to attend its meetings. A very liberal contributor to the Diocese and Parish, the Church will long feel his loss.

I proceed with my annual report of my Episcopal acts for the past year.

After the adjournment of the last Convention, I went on with the visitation of the Parishes and Missions then in progress. I confirmed in every Parish and Mission where there were classes prepared, so that by the beginning of the Church year on St. Andrew's Day I had confirmed all who had been prepared, with the exception of one small class.

June 22, in Holy Trinity, Swanton, I ordained as Priest the Rev. Paul Flynn Swett. July 29, at St. Mark's, Newport, I ordained as Priest Rev. William Buxton Clift. August 24, with the assistance of the Clergy of the vicinity, I consecrated St. Augustine's Mission Church, North Troy. November 30, in St. Michael's Church, Brattleboro, I ordained as Deacon, Allen D. Brown.

1893. February 5, at Christ Church, Montpelier, at my request, the Bishop of Maine ordained as Deacons Forrest Hayden Blunt and Simon Blinn Blunt, and at the same place he confirmed four candidates from the Mission of Barre.

February 6, at St. John's Church, West Randolph, he confirmed two.

February 27, at his own earnest request, I deposed from the Holy ministry of the Church, Rev. Elmer Ellsworth Shoemaker, for causes not affecting his moral character. This deposition was made in the presence of the Rev. J. Isham Bliss, D. D., and of the Rev. George Y. Bliss. In the above named services I have delivered 22 sermons or addresses, celebrated Holy Communion 24 times, assisted in service 5 times, confirmed 145 persons, ordained 2 Priests and 3 Deacons, consecrated 1 Church, received 2 Candidates for Holy Orders, attended 1 funeral. I have also given my consent to the consecration of Rev.

Charles R. Hale, D.D., LL.D., Assistant Bishop of Springfield, Ill., and Rev. George H. Kinsolving, Assistant Bishop of Texas. I have also licensed five lay readers.

On the 3d day of June the twenty-fifth anniversary of my consecration was passed. The Convention was arranged as nearly as it could be in commemoration of that event.

The Committee which arranged for this celebration recommended that the Clergy should each preach a sermon on the work of the Church during the last quarter century. I suppose it is quite proper that the Bishop should also make some resume of his work during the same time.

There have been confirmed in the Diocese, within the last 25 years, 5,726 persons, 1,485 more than our present number of communicants, which is 4,241. The statement of the number shows what is the great hindrance to the work of the Church in Vermont, the great losses by the emigration of her members. Within the 25 years we have increased the number of the communicants by something over 2,000, but it is hard work in a State which the native born and English speaking people leave in such numbers, and where the increase in population is made up of French and Irish Roman Catholics, to promote the growth of the Church in any such rates as are possible in some Dioceses of the West.

I have consecrated 22 new Churches. There are two others all ready for consecration, and which have been used for worship more than 10 years. The expected consecration of the Churches at Richford, and White River Junction this spring, was only prevented by the Bishop's sickness.

Fifteen new Rectories have been secured for the Parishes.
I have ordained 27 Deacons and 23 Priests.

In 1868 the Aged and Infirm Clergymen's fund was $2,192.77. In 1868 the Vermont Episcopal Institute reported that they had invested in real estate and buildings $44,123.79, and $3,993.64 in the treasury.

Of these funds two were begun by the Bishop. Nearly 20 years since, four persons received very small legacies from their aunt, who was a communicant in this Diocese. They chose to send the amount, about $120, to be used as we saw fit. Remembering the help which was found in the Diocese of Western New York from the permanent missionary fund, I made it the foundation of a permanent fund in this Diocese and handed it over to the Trustees of the parochial fund. In their custody it was increased to its present amount, between $800 and $900.

After the Bishop's plan for providing for the life insurance of the Clergy of this Diocese was defeated, he received from the estate of Gen. Alonzo Jackman, of Northfield, something like $2,100, to be used at his discretion for the Diocese. This he resolved to make the beginning of a fund for widows and orphans of the Clergy of the Diocese. Then he learned that the funds of the trust for Aged and Infirm Clergymen, by the terms of their charter, might be used for the widows and orphans as well as for the Clergy themselves. This accounts for the fact that no larger increase has been made to the Alonzo Jackman fund, contributions being generally made for the elder fund in its place.

We owe very largely the beginning of our Episcopal fund to the enterprise and perseverance of that liberal friend of the Church, Col. Le Grand B. Cannon.

The Charter of the Trustees of the Diocese was for a long time in the hands of a very able committee, and was so framed that in all our experience it meets all the wants that were to be provided for, and I believe it is very rapidly growing in the estimation of all parts of the Diocese.

In looking back over the results of this quarter century's work I am impressed with the feeling of the greatness of the help that has been given to us by the grace and mercy of our God, and can from the bottom of my heart say, "Not unto us; not unto us, but unto Thy name give the praise for Thy loving mercy and Thy truth's sake."

And I have a very vivid remembrance of the uniform respect and kindness with which I have been received in every part of the Diocese. I have often said that I believe I have the most beautiful Diocese in the country, and I say now that its social, moral and spiritual beauty seems to me much like the grace and outward beauty of its landscape.

There is a most noble, intelligent body of Clergy and Laity represented in the Conventions of the Diocese.

It becomes my duty now to ask some relief in the ordinary administration of the Diocese. I had a very successful year up to the end of the autumn. I do not think I had to postpone one appointment, but the first of December I was taken very ill with a sickness continued in its severity for nearly three months. About the first of March I began to improve very slowly, but it takes a long time to restore one of my age from a condition so low as I was in. For the last month I have been able to conduct the ordinary correspondence of my office. I append the certificate of my condition and capacity for work of Dr. L. M. Bingham. I ask, then, for the election of an Assistant Bishop to take the ordinary administration of the Diocese, on the ground of my age and weakness. Remaining Bishop of the Diocese I shall be able, from my long acquaintance with the field, to give my Coadjutor and successor information and advice which may be very useful for him. I have hesitated to take this step because I knew it must entail very considerable additional expense to the Diocese. It doesn't seem to me absolutely necessary that the Assistant should be elected at this time. If it is thought necessary to look over the ground in order to provide for the additional payments of the two Bishops, the election could be postponed for some time. All Parishes and Missions have been visited, and confirmation held where there were candidates within the past 15 months. We could doubtless obtain help from the Bishop of Maine for an extended confirmation later in the season, and the elder Bishop could carry on the correspondence of his office, as he is now doing.

I remit the whole matter to the wisdom of the Convention. May the head of the Church, by the guidance of the Holy Spirit, help you to find a good and godly man, well learned and wise, to be the third Bishop of Vermont.

WM. H. A. BISSELL.

The above address was prepared by the late Bishop previous to his death.

The reading of the address being concluded, on motion of the Rev. Mr. Collins, Resolved, That a Committee consisting of two Clergymen and one Layman be now appointed by the President of this Convention, to prepare and present a minute having reference to the late Bishop, the Rt. Rev. William H. A. Bissell, D. D.

The President appointed as such Committee the Rev. Mr. Collins, the Rev. Dr. White and Mr. Temple.

The Committee subsequently reported the following minute, which was adopted by the Convention by a rising vote :

It is with heartfelt emotion that we rise to the performance of the present duty, which is to speak very briefly concerning the life and character of our beloved Father in God, the late William Henry Augustus Bissell, D. D., and to add our testimony to the fidelity ever manifested by him in what may be called his life work, for the faithfulness evinced by our Rt. Rev. Father deserves first to be mentioned. It was evident to all, that, to the extent of his ability, and frequently beyond his physical strength, Bishop Bissell was unflinching in the discharge of every appointed duty. Obligated by the severity of our Northern winters to pass a portion of those months in milder climes, he always returned to his work in the Diocese as soon as it was practicable and safe for him to do so, and sometimes earlier ; and in the fulfilment of that work he exerted all his strength and vigor ; so that, even in his declining years, the Diocese received, so far as it was possible for him to bestow it, the attention and oversight which its necessities demanded. Many a time did he leave his home for the purpose of fulfilling an appointment, or making a visitation to some distant part of his Diocese, when he should have remained within its shelter and sought the rest he so much needed, but duty with him was imperative in its call, and rarely, if ever, did he fail in what he had planned to do, and proposed to accomplish. He was noted for his conservative loyalty to the Church, and to the holy religion and sacred worship, which we have inherited from our fathers. In his communications to the Diocese, under the form of annual addresses, he ever sought the prosperity of this branch of the Holy Catholic Church, its growth, and greater efficiency among the people committed to his charge, and endeavored to promote the permanency of the pastoral relation by means of which that efficiency, so near his heart, could be produced. He was especially anxious in regard to the protection and preservation of all Church property, including Church edifices, rectories, and trust funds, constantly recommending and advising the transference of all real estate belonging to the several parishes to the custody of the Trustees of the Diocese, and urging constant care and watchfulness over the several funds belonging to the Diocese. And the result of such a policy as he thus persistently advocated is the somewhat surprising increase, as shown by statistics, in the endowments and vested property of the Diocese in its varied interests during his administration; a growth more rapid than at any preceding period, in spite of our great impoverishment from continued emigration, and to which attention has more than once been drawn by judicious annalists; and to reinforce a consideration of the disabilities, under which Vermont continually suffers from the cause just mentioned, it is proper here to say that, although Bishop Bissell confirmed during his Episcopate nearly six thousand persons, still the resulting net increase in communicants is but a little over twenty-one hundred. But what is lost to the Church here, is its gain elsewhere in the great harvest field.

An examination of his Episcopal charges as they were given yearly will still further prove the truth of these assertions. Among the subjects treated and brought to the attention of the Annual Convention, aside from those already referred to, we note the following: The duty of the Clergy to preach more frequently upon the subject of Missions, and of the Laity, to give according to their several ability, and especially to the missionary work of the Diocese; the faithful instruction of the young in the Catechism, in the history of the Church, and then due preparation for confirmation; the care and preservation to be given to all parochial records, and especially the proper use of the Parish Register; the entire or partial endowment of parishes as a sure provision against future contingencies arising from deaths or removals. These and many other topics which might be mentioned, taken in connection with his last request, that the offering made in all our parishes and missions immediately before this Convention, originally intended as a testimonial, but now to be regarded as a memorial, should form the nucleus of a fund, the interest of which should be expended in the education of the children of the Clergy in our two Diocesan institutions. These all are proofs of his unceasing interest and never-failing watchfulness over the Diocese, and we believe that, as time goes on, his singleness of purpose, together with the purity and sincerity of his conduct, will be even still more apparent.

His fatherly love and affection ever given to the flock, over which the Holy Ghost had made him overseer, deserves now to be mentioned. As our dear Bishop advanced in years, it was evident to all who knew him that the gentleness and loveliness of his Christian character was rapidly developing. There are none among the Clergy of the Diocese who cannot recall the sweet smile with which he always greeted them upon his visitation to their several parishes, who cannot realize how interested he was in all things concerning their work, welfare, and that of their families, and it was this exhibition on his part of deep personal interest in their affairs, in connection with his official duties, that served to endear Bishop Bissell to the hearts of his Clergy; they felt his presence in their homes to be in itself a benediction, his kindly greeting and words of encouragement and affection will be ever held by them in grateful remembrance, for he was truly their father in God, and as such his memory will be revered. It will be remembered by many now among us that five years since, at the Convention of the year 1888, an address was made to our late Diocesan, congratulating him on the completion of the twentieth anniversary of his consecration. In the midst of that address occur these touching words, which we deem worthy of reproduction here, as showing the estimate then placed upon the Bishop's work, and the regard in which he was ever held by the Clergy and Laity of the Diocese.

“It is just twenty years that you have gone in and out among us as our loved and esteemed Bishop. Your name throughout the Diocese is as familiar as household words; your presence has always and everywhere been welcome, and the children of the Church, from your condescending and familiar ways, cheering words, and face ever beaming with good-will towards them, and delight in their pleasures, all look upon you as their friend, whom they may approach without fear, and in whom they repose entire confidence. * * * * * For the two decades you have administered the affairs of the Diocese, harmony has prevailed in its councils, and peace in all its borders. There has been a unity of feeling and purpose between the Bishop, the Clergy and the Laity. Parties have been utterly unknown, and a fraternal spirit has seemed to pervade the bosoms of all. To your wisdom and prudence certainly much is due for all this, and we cannot but be thankful for what we have so long witnessed."

We are well assured that, in the hearts of those who are present with us to-day, there was the devout wish that the earthly life of our late Rt. Rev. Father might have been prolonged until we could have celebrated the twenty-fifth anniversary of his consecration to the Episcopate of Vermont. But in the wisdom of Divine Providence it was otherwise ordered, ordered that his soul should now rest in Paradise among the blessed saints, who have finished their course, while we remain in the Church militant, mourning over his departure from among us, and yet rejoicing that he has finally entered upon his eternal inheritance and that he has forever laid aside his feeble body with all its pains and weariness. "The souls of the righteous are in the hands of God, and there shall no torment touch them. In the sight of the unwise they seem to die, * * * * * but they are at peace." Could our departed Bishop speak to us to-day, would he not use these words, once written by a brother Bishop, who also now with him enjoys the blissful rest of Paradise?

"But oh, with what a bounding thrill

I felt the airs that never chill.

The strength, that knows not years !

No cloud in all the heaven's sweet blue ;

No more of doubt, where all was true ;

No death to close the longing view ;

No dream of future tears !
 The way was passed, and I could stand,
 As if on Jordan's farther strand ;
 As if the palm branch in my hand,
 The chaplet on my brow,
 A wanderer resting at his home,
 A pilgrim at the holy dome,
 To Zion's mountain I were come,
 Eternity was now !
 Oh joy, beneath the gathered sail,
 To hear from far the howling gale,
 And feel the haven won !
 Oh joy, along the well fought field
 To see the conqueror's spear and shield
 Give back the setting sun !
 All, all was mine, and battle's din.
 And the wild sea of grief and sin,
 No more with morn should yet begin ;
 For all their work was done."

The Committee on the Episcopal Fund submitted their report, which was accepted.

Ordered that the following assessments upon the Parishes for the Bishop's salary be made, payable to the Treasurer of the Diocese before the first day of January next :

Total, $185.00

Your Committee would respectfully urge upon the attention of the comparatively few Parishes that have not yet made the capitalization of their assessment, the importance of their doing so. It will not in any way increase their burdens or responsibilities, but will enable the Convention to do away with the necessity for this Committee, and also with the levying of annual assessments, both desirable objects to be attained.

Your Committee beg leave further to report, the action taken this day by the Trustees of the Vermont Episcopal Institute, and of the Trustees of the Fund for the Support of the Bishop of the Episcopal Church in the Diocese of Vermont, with reference to the disposition of a portion of the property of that Fund.

WHEREAS, At the Convention of the Diocese of Vermont held at Rutland, September 20th, 1854, the Rt. Rev. John H. Hopkins, D. D., LL. D., first Bishop of Vermont, did present a plan for the establishment of an Episcopal Residence and Church Schools, which embraced as a site for them the 100 acres of land with a brick house thereon situated on the north-west side of Burlington Bay, known as Rock Point, in which he then resided, involving an outlay of $15,000; which plan the Convention approved, and passed resolutions "requesting the Bishop to solicit funds for the end in view," and appointed "a Committee to procure from the Legislature a charter of incorporation adequate to carry into effect the objects contemplated."

AND WHEREAS, The said Committee did procure from the General Assembly of the State of Vermont, on the 14th day of November, A. D. 1854, a charter which "did incorporate and establish in the town of Burlington, and county of Chittenden, an institution by the name of 'The Vermont Episcopal Institute,' with full power to take by gift, grant, purchase, devise, or otherwise, any estate, real, personal, or mixed, for the use of said Institution, or for the promotion of education therein," and also provided for a Board of Trustees for the management of said corporation, which Board of Trustees were duly organized in compliance with the provisions of said charter, and have since performed their duties accordingly.

AND WHEREAS, On the 15th day of December, 1854, John Henry Hopkins, Jr., did by a good and sufficient deed, convey to "The Vermont Episcopal Institute, a tract of land on the north side of the village of Burlington, containing about 100 acres, being the same tract on which the Bishop has resided since 1841, and known as Rock Point," which deed sets forth "that said John Henry Hopkins, Jr., being desirous to devote said land in perpetuity to the service of Almighty God as the property of the Protestant Episcopal Church in the Diocese of Vermont, of which Diocese his father is Bishop, for the purpose of being the Residence of the present and every future Bishop of the said Diocese, and a site of a Theological Seminary and Schools in strict conformity to the standard doctrines, worship and discipline of the Protestant Episcopal Church of the United States of America."

AND WHEREAS, The Bishop, in accordance with the resolution of the Convention at Rutland, proceeded "to solicit funds for the end in view," and succeeded in raising about $42,000, nearly three times as much as was originally contemplated, besides a legacy of $10,000 for the endowment of a Theological Professorship, the latter coming from Vermont, as well as much of the $42,000, almost every Parish in the Diocese contributing liberally towards it, the Bishop himself giving about $5,000, as the commencement of a fund for a Girls' School; which enabled the Trustees, after laying aside and investing the $5,000 for the Girls' School, to pay in full for the 100 acres of land above mentioned, and all buildings thereon, and to erect a large Gothic stone building on the tract, in which has been successfully maintained for over 32 years a Church School for Boys.

AND WHEREAS, The late John P. Howard, of Burlington, who had been very desirous that the plan of Bishop Hopkins should be perfected by the establishment of the Girls' School, and not being able on account of ill health to carry out in person his wishes, annexed a codicil to his last will and testament while in Europe, in August, 1885, from which the following is an extract:

"WHEREAS, An effort is now being made to establish a Diocesan School for Females at Rock Point, Burlington, Vermont, under the auspices of the Protestant Episcopal Church of the Diocese of Vermont, in case the sum of $40,000 shall have been raised within the period of one year from my death, for the erection of a suitable building or buildings therefor, or in case such building or buildings shall by that time have been erected and fully paid for, then I give and bequeath to said Diocese the sum of twenty thousand ($20,000) dollars for the endowment of said school, the interest and income only of said sum to be used for the maintenance and support of the school." Mr. Howard died October 10, 1885, and before the 10th day of October, 1886, the sum of $40,000 was raised, thus complying with the conditions of the will of Mr. Howard, and the legacy has since been paid over to the Treasurer of the Diocese by the Executors of the Estate, and the Trustees have erected the buildings necessary for the Female Department of the Institute known as "Bishop Hopkins Hall," as contemplated in the will of Mr. Howard, and a Diocesan School for Girls and Young Ladies is now in successful operation therein, thus placing this valuable and magnificent property of 100 acres, with the two Schools buildings, together with the Episcopal Residence and all other appurtenances and improvements thereon, in the possession of the Diocese, free from any debt or incumbrance whatever.

nected therewith, after being in use for about fifty years, are very much out of repair, and require more or less alterations and improvements, in order to make them suitable and comfortable for the residence of future Bishops of the Diocese.

AND WHEREAS, The Trustees of the Vermont Episcopal Institute have no fund which they can use for such improvements and alterations, and as the time for the election of a new Bishop is near at hand, and prompt action is necessary to put the residence and buildings in suitable order for his occupancy, therefore, at a meeting of the Board of Trustees, holden at Burlington on the 21st day of June, 1893, the following preamble and resolutions were adopted :

WHEREAS, The property at the corner of William and Main Streets, in the City of Burlington, formerly occupied by the late Bishop Bissell, being a part of the property in the trust for the support of the Bishop of the Diocese, can, under the deed to the Trustees, be sold, and the proceeds of such sale used in procuring another Episcopal Residence, therefore

Resolved, That the Trustees of the Vermont Episcopal Institute do petition the Trustees of the Fund for the support of the Bishop, to favorably consider the sale of the aforesaid property, and to use the proceeds of the sale in restoring and improving the Episcopal Residence and property connected therewith, at Rock Point, Burlington.

Resolved, That a committee, consisting of LeG. B. Cannon and Fred E. Smith, be appointed to confer with the Trustees of the Episcopal Fund with power to agree with such Trustees, and with further power to contract for and supervise the necessary alterations and repairs above referred to.

At a meeting of the Trustees of the Episcopal Fund for the support of the Bishop of the Episcopal Church in the Diocese of Vermont, held in Burlington, June 21, 1893, the following preamble and resolutions were unanimously adopted :

WHEREAS, A communication has been received from the Trustees of the Vermont Episcopal Institute, with reference to the repairs of the Episcopal Residence at Rock Point.

AND WHEREAS, Mr. John D. Jones, on the 7th day of February, 1879, gave, granted, transferred and conveyed to " The Trustees of the Fund for the support of the Bishop of the Episcopal Church in the Diocese of Vermont," a certain property on the corner of William and Main Streets, in the City of Burlington, under certain limitations, with power to the Trustees by a two-thirds vote, to sell the aforesaid property and invest proceeds of such sale in the permanent fund for the support of the Bishop, or in their discretion to use the proceeds of such sale in another like Episcopal Residence.

AND WHEREAS, The said property of the trust at the corner of William and Main Streets, formerly occupied by the late Bishop Bissell, is unoccupied and disused, and no longer available or proper for an Episcopal residence, therefore sale, and that L. G. B. Cannon and Frederick C. Kennedy be and are duly appointed the Agents and Attorneys of the Board of Trustees to effect such sale, with power to execute a good and sufficient deed and such other papers as may be necessary for a free and valid conveyance of the aforesaid property.

Resolved, That the above referred to property be sold, either at public or private

Resolved, That a committee of two, consisting of LeG. B. Cannon and Fred C. Kennedy, be appointed to confer with the Trustees of the Vermont Episcopal Institute, with a view of aiding in making the necessary restoration and improvements on the Episcopal Residence and property at Rock Point, and if satisfactory arrangement can be made with said Trustees, with power to such Committee to use so much of the proceeds of the sale as may be necessary in making such restoration and improvements.

Respectfully submitted,

LEGRAND B. CANNON,
For Committee.

Church Services have been held regularly each Lord's Day, and the Holy Communion administered sixteen times at Hydeville. Catechising on the third Sunday of each month. Many additional services on Sundays and Fridays have been held by Mr. Hanger, our active and efficient Lay Reader and Candidate. The attendance has doubled within the past year, and is still increasing; and the communicants have doubled in numbers.

Castleton is an unorganized mission of St. James', Hydeville, (which village is in the township of Castleton), and is important as the spot where church services were first held in Rutland County, before the American Revolution. Services have been regularly held and the Holy Communion administered as in former years. Many additional services have been rendered by the Lay Readers, Messrs. Hanger and Maynard. A handsome hall has been supplied for service by Miss Wardlow, one of the communicants; and the ladies of the Mission have procured suitable furniture for it. The statistics of Castleton are included in those of St. James', Hydeville.

Organ Fund to repair,	31 00
Woman's Auxiliary,	133 10
Total of offerings,	$305 82

The funds of the Woman's Auxiliary are for a Rectory, with the exception of $50 paid on a note, leaving $82 unpaid. The Organ Fund is to give the organ a thorough repairing, which it must have in order to save it from total loss. We earnestly ask outside aid in building the Rectory, as we can not do it unaided, and they have labored hard to gather what we now have. A lot is bought, and about $300 on hand to use in construction.

Church Services—Morning and Evening Prayer every Sunday; one service on Holy Days, daily during Lent. Monthly celebrations, save in Advent and Lent, when there was a weekly; once a month in East Charleston during winter, and semi-monthly the rest of the year. Occasional service in Westmore and other places.

Four regular services were omitted in the winter and spring by reason of the Missionary's severe sickness of some four months, and the lack of provision for Lay Services by the Mission. The Rev. W. C. Clapp usually gives many services and celebrations of the Holy Communion—not reckoned above—at his summer visits in his native town, Jericho. The Missionary has held or assisted at twenty-four other services elsewhere, besides his continued visits at the hospital in Burlington. We note the lamented death of one of our oldest and most devoted and intelligent communicants, Mrs. Susan Emily (Dixon) Bostwick. Many church and Sunday school papers from the Missionary and other friends have been distributed on all his missions, and many calls made.

Since the 1st of October last, services have been held by the General Missionary on the first Sunday of every month, the Holy Communion being celebrated on each Sunday. This regular and uninterrupted scheme of services seems to have promoted a largely increased interest, not only on the part of our own people, but to some extent on the part of some others. In particular, it seems to have induced a gentleman, lately deceased, to provide in his will that a sum likely to amount to two thousand dollars or more should be given to us for the purpose of building a chapel. The Mission has also some four hundred dollars immediately available for the same purpose, and between two and three hundred dollars more not immediately available. Several persons are awaiting confirmation and altogether the outlook for the future is somewhat encouraging. The chief problem is, how to secure at least one service every Sunday.

DIOCESAN MISSIONARY'S REPORT.

To the Ecclesiastical Authority of the Diocese of Vermont :

During the Conventional year ending June 1st I have travelled fifty-four hundred miles within the Diocese in the immediate pursuit of my vocation as "General Missionary." I have made five hundred pastoral calls; have held one hundred and fifteen Sunday, and a number of week-day services; have baptized twenty-five children and seven adults, a total of thirty-two persons; have celebrated the Holy Communion forty-eight times; have presented eight persons for confirmation at a place where we have no regular services, and have found from two to four or five at other places, "ready and desirous" to be confirmed, whenever the opportunity may be offered.

About half of my time has been given to vacant missions and those served by Deacons and Lay Readers, particularly for the purpose of securing for them the celebration of the Holy Communion, when it could not otherwise be secured. To several of the more important or the more isolated of these Missions I have gone several times, about once in two months to West Rutland since the death of the Rev. Mr. Dana,—once in two months to Barre, where the Rev. S. B. Blunt, lately ordained to the Diaconate, and his faithful wife have continued to do good service; and on the first Sunday of every month since October last to Springfield, where services have been held more or less regularly, rather spasmodically, for a good many years, and where a revival of interest has led to a bequest from a gentleman, lately deceased, of what will amount to two thousand dollars or more toward the building of a Chapel. At these various missions the congregations have numbered from twenty to one hundred and fifteen, the latter number at one of the Palm Sunday services at Barre, and have been made up for the most part of our own people, except that at Barre and Springfield some interest is manifested by persons not identified with us. So long, however, as at Barre the congregation is obliged to climb two long flights of stairs to reach the place of worship, we cannot expect to draw to us many, who are not already strongly disposed to cast in their lot with us. The present congregation can do very little toward securing either a lot or a church. Will not some person or persons gladly help to put this very important mission in the way of getting a hold upon the community by providing for it a suitable place of worship?

The remainder of my time, about half of it, again, has been given to searching out our Church people in communities where the services of the Church have seldom or never been had, and holding such services as I might find opportunity to hold. I have continued to find our brethren of other names very courteous and hospitable in granting the use of their place of worship for these services. During the year I have held thirty-one Sunday services in such places, and in fifteen instances three services have by special invitation taken the place of the regular services of these various congregations, the local pastor usually assisting in the responses of the service. In every instance I have been able to secure the full ordinary music of the Church service except the Te Deum, and in many instances even that has been had. It has always been distinctly understood that I was to speak freely and frankly concerning the doctrine and practice of the church, and I have been able to speak very plainly without, so far as I know, giving any offence, the people apparently being glad to hear something about that concerning which they had had very little distinct knowledge. The congregations at these services have numbered from fifty to two hundred and fifty, and have for the most part been composed of persons who have very seldom or never heard the service of the Church, and yet they have readily followed it, and joined heartily in the responses.

Our own communicants, isolated in these communities, I have sometimes gotten together in some private house for a quiet celebration of the Holy Communion, and have sometimes had a celebration after the public service, in the place of worship where such service was held, in one instance, at Lyndonville, giving the Holy Communion to twenty-two out of the thirty communicants, whom I found there. All together I have found about one hundred and eighty of our communicants living thus isolated from the privileges of their beloved Church, most of whom are more than glad to have such privileges vouchsafed to them even infrequently.

I have found but one place in the whole Diocese where it would seem to me best at present to try to establish regular and permanent services, and that is at Hardwick. We ought to make a strenuous effort there ; it remains to be seen whether we can.

All together the congregations to which I have ministered have aggregated seven thousand persons, comprising over four thousand different persons, considerably more than half of whom have had little or no previous knowledge of either our doctrine or our manner of worship. What the practical result of such casual services may be, I do not pretend to estimate. Of one thing, however, I feel thoroughly assured, viz. : that if we believe in our Church as we profess to do, we ought to bring the knowledge of its doctrine and worship, as efficiently as possible, to every community in the Diocese.

Thanks are due to the Woman's Auxiliary of the Diocese for that continued help, without which this general missionary work could not be carried on, and also for the special appropriation made for the mission at Barre. Thanks are likewise due to several of the Clergy, who by exchanging services with Deacons and Lay Readers in charge of Missions, have frequently relieved the General Missionary of the necessity of going to those missions for the Holy Communion, so leaving him free for more "general" work than he otherwise might have been able to do.

WILLIAM J. HARRIS,
General Missionary.

Vermont Episcopal Institute.

THIRTY-SEVENTH ANNUAL REPORT.

JUNE 7th, 1893.

The Trustees in submitting their thirty-seventh annual report to the Convention, would say that previous to the death of the Bishop, who was the Willoughby Professor, he attended to the duties of his Professorship, so far as his feeble health would permit, when there have been students or candidates desiring instruction, and during the last year has given more or less instruction at different times as circumstances have required.

ACADEMICAL DEPARTMENT.

The general work of this department has enlarged greatly the past year. But what has made it peculiarly satisfactory has been the quality of the work done, in which an excellent corps of teachers have taken great interest. What an institution is really doing is best seen in its daily routine rather than in exhibitions and displays.

The moral and religious training of the Cadets has never been of better effect, apparently. At the visitation of the Rt. Rev. Bishop Neely, of Maine, on the 29th of May, three were confirmed and two others baptized. During the coming year it is proposed, through the agency of a resident Chaplain, to have regular services every Sunday in the Chapel, in addition to the daily morning and evening prayers.

We have now arrived at a point in the history of this department when we shall have to turn away pupils, or create greater accommodations. Three more than last year is the very maximum number that can be accommodated, and with the present prospects of an increased number the coming year, a serious question is presented, What shall be done with the boys?

It is an important question which the Trustees feel impelled to present to the Diocese. Without any material increase of expense for a principal, teachers, servants and apparatus, seventy-five boys can be taken care of as well as fifty, provided more room can be furnished for them. With three or four thousand dollars additional room could be made by which the facilities of the school could be nearly doubled, and thereby increase the good which the school would do for the glory of God and the good of mankind. It hardly seems that the Churchmen of Vermont will consent that the schools for which they have already contributed so much to establish and put into operation should be hindered in their great work now for the want of a sum so comparatively insignificant.

With a Bishop interested in the work of Diocesan schools, living where he will be in daily contact with them, as we hope, giving them the great assistance of his personal influence at Rock Point and in travelling about the Diocese, these schools will be called upon inevitably to do more than ever before. God has given us a property beautifully situated, with natural surroundings and possibilities unsurpassed anywhere; and if His people will give the support the importance of the case demands, the next decade will see these schools doubled in size, and their influence for good quadrupled.

BISHOP HOPKINS HALL.

The success of this branch of the Institute still continues to increase, and has now nearly reached the capacity of the present buildings in the short space of five years.

There have been in attendance the past year fifty-seven pupils from different States and Canada, although a majority have been from Vermont. The daughters of four clergymen of the Diocese have been assisted in their education the past year from the income of the Howard legacy.

No greater recommendation of Bishop Hopkins Hall can be given than the success which has attended all its work during the last five years. The prospects for the coming year are very flattering, and the indications are that the buildings will be filled to their utmost capacity.

The great need of endowments, so fully set forth in the report of the Committee on Education to the Convention of 1891, and again more urgently and eloquently expressed in their report to the Convention of 1893, and the great and important results to be attained, especially for those of moderate means, in these schools, cannot but bring before the mind of every earnest Churchman the serious consideration of what an important duty devolves upon him. We would particularly request everyone to read the report of the Committee of Education, which will be found in the appendix to the journal.

The Convention of this year, impressed with the great importance of these schools to the Church, has appointed a committee to canvass the Diocese, to present the matter to the various Parishes, and to call upon the members for donations to a fund, the income of which shall be devoted toward paying the salaries of teachers and instructors in these schools.

We commend this action of the Convention, and most earnestly hope that the committee will meet with a hearty and liberal response to their applications from all friends of Christian education and the Church.

The Treasurer would report in regard to the lands in Polk County belonging to the Howard Land Fund, and all the lands left in the corporation not disposed of, that one quarter section has been sold and a deed sent on for the same, but the pay for the same has not been received. The Treasurer had some hesitation about giving a warrantee deed, as he knew so little about them, but it was thought best, after a consultation with some of the Trustees, so one was given. I, however, took the precaution of directing the agent who made the sale get from the Register of Deeds a certificate from the Register of Deeds of Polk County, Wisconsin, a certificate that the title to the lands was in this corporation, and that there was no claim on the same. One other piece has been bargained for and a contract sent on, but the notes for the same have not been received.

GEORGE BRIGGS,

Treasurer.

REPORT OF THE
Missionary Committee
OF THE DIOCESE OF VERMONT.

The Missionary Committee would present the following report :

On account of the extreme illness of the Bishop, but three meetings of the Committee have been held during the year. At only one was the Bishop able to be present. In the midst of the year it became necessary for the Committee to issue a circular to all the parishes, urging greater promptness in the payment of the apportionment. There was quite a general response to this suggestion, although there were some parishes indifferent as usual. The Missionary Committee would express the belief, that there is too little consideration on the part of some of the parishes, of the necessities of mission work, and hope that there will be an improvement in this respect during the coming year. New fields are opening, and instead of there being any drawing back in their contributions, there is the demand for a decided increase. The Committee are unable to give an extended statement of what has been done by the various missionaries, as their reports were made to the Bishop, and they have not been informed of their contents. The Committee would suggest that some action be taken by the Convention, for a better method of securing funds for Diocesan work, and that it be made obligatory that the parishes contribute, if they would have representation in the Convention. If it continue purely a voluntary matter, experience shows that there is nothing to be depended upon. There is every reason why there should be the same responsibility for one branch of the work in the Diocese as another, and especially for that work upon which all Church growth depends. If the present mode of apportionment is defective, let us establish another which shall be approved by the Convention, and enforced. Notwithstanding the Treasurer reports a deficiency in the missionary fund, the receipts during the past have been larger than ever before in the history of the Diocese.

Secretary.

[APPENDIX R.]

Report on Christian Education.

Your Committee respectfully report that, to the best of their knowledge and belief, the Diocesan Schools on Rock Point—The Vermont Episcopal Institute and Bishop Hopkins Hall—are in a thoroughly prosperous condition. The pupils in attendance at both schools are more in number than in any former year. In fact there is no doubt that these school are doing an excellent work.

There remains, however, the same difficulty that former members of this committee have annually noted, viz.: The small proportion of Vermont children who are being reached under the present circumstances. At the risk of painful repetition we feel in duty bound to plead again for some plan for endowment of our Diocesan Institutions to such an extent as shall enable us to offer their present high grade of education at rates within the reach of people of moderate means. Until this object has been attained we cannot hope that they will have any appreciable effect upon the condition of the Church in this Diocese.

It is the children of the middle classes—the boys and girls who will be thrown into the active work of life, with the stimulus of necessity behind them, and the possession of a high ideal of honor and self respect born of good associations—who will really form and mould the public opinion of the next generation. These children, though born of Church parentage and continuing, in the majority of cases, Churchmen and Churchwomen, are, under present conditions, likely to be trained either in some school under sectarian influence alien to the Church, or in so-called non-sectarian schools whose religious training, if anything, is thoroughly unchurchly. Is it any wonder, under these circumstances, if our common people, even the best of them, are utterly ignorant of the historic claims of their own communion; if the Rectors of our Parishes everywhere are confronted with the difficulty, which is almost an impossibility, of finding intelligent instructors in Sunday School; if the Churchmanship of so many even of our educated young people is a matter of personal preference or family tradition rather than of personal conviction? There is not a country Clergyman in the State who would not welcome a self-reliant young man or woman, well grounded in the Evidences of the Faith and the History of the Church, as the greatest accession to his working force that he could ask, and there is hardly a country Parish in the Diocese that could not furnish one or two pupils a year to a school which would afford the education now offered in our Diocesan Institutions at $250 or $300.

It was the aim of the life-long self-denial and self-sacrifice which Bishop Hopkins put into the work of founding the Schools at Burlington, to make them feeders to the sacred ministry, by bringing a thorough education upon churchly lines within the reach of the earnest minded young men of the Church in this Diocese. This end is also defeated by the lack of endowments, for the ministry is commonly replenished from the ranks of those in moderate circumstances. It is our opinion, in view of these facts, that the time has come when definite steps should be taken to secure the establishment of a fund, which shall be invested, and the interest added to the principal, until such time as it shall be sufficient to pay the salaries of the instructors in the Vermont Episcopal Institute and Bishop Hopkins Hall.

And we believe that this matter should not be thrown upon the Rectors of Parishes, but should be put in the hands of a Committee, who shall personally visit the Parishes of a Diocese with the consent of the Rector thereof, and obtain subscriptions to this Endowment Fund. And in pursuance of this idea, in order to bring it definitely before the Convention for action, we beg leave to offer the following resolution :

Resolved, That a Committee of three, consisting of one Clergyman and two Laymen, be appointed by the President, who shall be empowered to raise subscriptions by personal solicitation in the several Parishes of this Diocese, the same to be held in trust by the Trustees of the Diocese of Vermont for the endowment of the salaries of instructors in the Vermont Episcopal Institute and Bishop Hopkins Hall.

[APPENDIX S.]

REPORT OF THE COMMITTEE

ON

Sunday Schools.

It was thought by the Committee that a step had been taken in the right direction, when a special service devoted to the interests of the Sunday school work in the Diocese was held on the evening previous to the meeting of our last annual Convention. Much interest was manifested in the brief addresses which were given by three of our Diocesan clergy upon the subject. It was hoped that means would have been provided whereby someone from abroad who had made Sunday school work a specialty could have been engaged to address the members of the Church who might be present at our next annual meeting. The chairman of the Committee corresponded with a prominent layman of the Diocese of Pennsylvania, in relation to being present, but nothing definite could be accomplished, so as before the speakers were chosen from among our own clergy. If it could be so arranged that an institute might be held sometime during the summer months, which a majority of our superintendents and teachers could attend—the result of such a gathering would doubtless be beneficial in the highest degree, and the efficiency of our Sunday school work sensibly increased. The different religious bodies in the state are fully alive to the importance of such meetings, and we ought not to fall behind them in their zeal and activity in so good a cause. We believe that the church has a system of religious instruction for the young, far surpassing any other, and it is our bounden duty as churchmen in this our day and generation, to see that her system of catechetical instruction is faithfully and effectually applied to her children and to all who may be brought under our influence in religious matters. We should not fail to recognize our responsibility in this direction and spare no effort in disseminating the precepts and establishing the principles which serve to distinguish us as members of Christ's Holy Catholic Church and of the household of faith.

REV. WILLIAM BOGERT WALKER.

The sympathy of every member of the Auxiliary is extended to her with the most sincere wish and prayer that she may be restored to health and strength.

DISTRICT MEETINGS.

Early in June, 1892, a district meeting was held in Trinity Church, Rutland. Morning service was held at eleven o'clock, followed by a celebration of the Holy Communion, the sermon being preached by the Rev. William F. Weeks of Brandon. Luncheon was served at one o'clock by the ladies of the Parish, in the Rectory.

At three P. M. a missionary meeting was held, addresses being made by the Rector and Miss Julia C. Emery, General Secretary of the Auxiliary, and a paper by the Rev. William J. Harris, D. D., Missionary of the Diocese, was read by Miss Mary E. Roberts, in which he gave a brief account of his work since January.

A notable feature near the close of our luncheon was the parting words of welcome and encouragement given to us by our dear, feeble Bishop, who had braved the very inclement weather, at great risk to himself, that he might be present with us, as he told us in voice trembling with emotion "perhaps for the last time." He bade us go on with the noble work in which we were engaged with renewed vigor and courage, for we could do nothing that would be of greater helpfulness and lasting benefit to the Diocese of Vermont, as well as to the Church at large, and assured us that the Woman's Auxiliary was a work in which our Bishop placed the greatest confidence and reliance. Commending us and our work to the guidance of the Almighty, he bid us farewell—as it proved for the last time, and took his departure for home at three o'clock in the afternoon, with the Rt. Rev. Bishop Atwill, who was also far from well, leaving us to finish our business, and the Clergy to conduct the evening missionary meeting.

The President then delivered an ADDRESS.

DEAR BRETHREN :

A little more than twenty-five years ago a convention of the Diocese assembled in this Church to elect a successor to the first great Bishop of Vermont. This afternoon we come together to elect a successor to him who was at that time chosen as its second Bishop.

Of those who took part in that earlier election there are only two clergymen, and, probably, not more than ten or twelve laymen present to-day. Of the eighteen clergymen that then answered to their names barely five are now alive. How vivid a reminder that our life is indeed "but a vapor that appeareth for a little time and then vanisheth away," and that if any of us are to do anything to purpose for our Master we must do it quickly.

After the admirable discourse and minute of yesterday, it would be quite supererogatory to enumerate the beneficial results of that election of twenty-five years ago, or to sum up the high and beautiful qualities of our late beloved Bishop, which enabled him to achieve what he did in the development and strengthening of the Church in this Diocese; and which endeared him in so marked a degree personally to each one of us. I will only say that favored indeed shall we be if there shall be sent us another Bishop as strong, as godly, as helpful, as he.

The moment has now come when we are called upon to do our share in securing such a Bishop. Though all of us, I think, profoundly feel that he will be "sent" us, that he will be the gift of God, yet as when the first vacancy in the apostolate was filled, though God "chose Matthias into the number of the twelve," the Apostles "appointed" two, prayed and cast their lots; so it is for us, in our way, out of the 4,000 clergy of the Church to "appoint," or select for special consideration one and another name, to pray as did they, and under a deep sense of accountability to God, to cast our determining lot—our ballots. Though it is God that worketh in us, we work. It is through the proper use of such powers and opportunities as He gives us that his purposes for us are in large part accomplished. While we look for the Blessed Spirit to control the final issues of that solemn business in which we are about to engage, we are bound ourselves, to exercise our most intelligent judgment in choosing, and to keep our minds alert and open for the reception of the fullest information, and thoroughly and patiently to weigh the serious question that will be presented.

I can but think we are particularly happy in the singleness of mind with which this Convention enters upon its responsible work. We know of no self-seeking motives on the part of any; of no personal ends to be reached. As far as I am aware we are all simply seeking a result that shall conduce most to the glory of God and the good of His Church. We are also peculiarly happy in being so much of one opinion as to the general characteristics of him who is likely to do best the work demanded of our next Bishop. We all realize that we need first of all, a holy man, one of a truly consecrated heart and life. We next require a man who, whatever the shade of his theological or ecclesiastical opinions, unequivocally represents the principles of the Church, one who has real convictions in respect to the faith and order once delivered to the Saints. Again we want a well-learned man. But more than that, we want a man of sufficient mental and moral force to command the respect of and to have positive influence with, not only our own people, but with the people of the state at large and in the general councils and service of the Church. We further need a man of decided executive gifts, one who will be able to conceive grand plans and to carry them out with persistent energy, while at the same time manifesting a spirit of conciliation and practical wisdom: One of a strong will, but of a will controlled by love and discretion.

But I think we all further recognize that in addition to these general qualifications that may well belong to any Bishop at any time and in any place, we require qualities suited to our particular time and place.

Among these special qualities is obviously a distinctive fitness to advance two preeminently leading interests of this Diocese just now—Church missions and Church education. No Bishop can properly do our work who has not the abilities to give a marked impulse to Church extension in Vermont and positively to strengthen our Diocesan schools. A splendid opportunity is before us if we will improve it. The field around us is now white with the harvest if we will but go in and reap it. All over the state are minds and hearts ready to welcome the Church if it is once rightly offered them. Already are thoughtful minds all about us looking towards her with favorable regard, won by her general conservatism, by her immovable adherence to the few essential Christian verities while giving large liberty of opinion in matters not of divine obligation, by her gentle temper and ways, by her avoidance of unhealthy excitements, by her insistence on the close union of morals with religion, and by the beauty of holiness in her services. Let the Church now be presented with the fullness and force with which she ought to be presented, and we can but think she will rapidly increase in numbers and strength.

Our schools, too, are now on a vantage ground to press forward to more important achievements. Both have already accomplished what is beyond estimate in making the Church known and loved in places unfamiliar to her, through the boys and girls that have gone forth from them. But none of us can begin to measure what these schools may do in the future in leavening with right influence the people of the State, when under the direction of a wise, enthusiastic and energetic Bishop, they, suitably endowed, and thus able to offer their advantages to our families of moderate means, shall do the work contemplated by their great founder.

We, hence, all can but feel that it is an imperative requirement that our incoming chief pastor be one who shall be a wise, vigorous, capable leader in setting forward these two most vital interests of missions and Church education. Being thus practically unanimous in our view of the general and special qualifications that should be possessed by our new Bishop, may we not hope under the guidance of God's blessed Spirit, to be led before the ad-jourment of this convention to a practically unanimous choice of a person who has these qualifications. May God grant it for the sake of our Lord and Savior Jesus Christ.

On motion of the Rev. Mr. Randall,

Resolved, That when this Convention shall be ready to proceed to the election of a Bishop of this Diocese, only members and officers of this Convention who are entitled to seats and votes therein, the Clergy of the Diocese who are not entitled to votes, and substitutes for Lay Delegates who may be present, be allowed to remain upon the floor.

All persons not embraced within the provisions of the resolution then withdrew, and the doors were closed.

The Secretary then read the Canon with reference to the mode of proceeding when a Bishop is to be elected.

On motion of Mr. Dewey,

Resolved, That the Convention do now proceed to the election of a Bishop for the Diocese of Vermont.

The President appointed the Rev. Messrs. Atwell and Wheeler and Messrs. Gilson and Forbes Tellers of the Clerical vote, and the Rev. Messrs. Sanford and Flanders and Messrs. Parker and Woodworth Tellers of the Lay vote.

The Rev. Dr. Flanders arose and inquired of the President if nominations were then in order, whereupon,

On motion of Mr. Cannon,

Resolved, That no nominations or speeches be made, and that the Convention proceed forthwith to vote according to the provisions of the Canon.

The Secretary then called the roll of the Clergy, who came forward and deposited their ballots with the tellers of the Clerical vote, and then called the roll of Laity, who also came forward and deposited their ballots with the Tellers of the Lay vote. Upon counting and canvassing the votes by the Tellers, it was found that, upon the fourth ballot, the Rev. Samuel Hart, D. D., had received a majority of the votes of both orders, and was therefore elected Bishop.

On motion of Mr. Cameron,

Resolved, That the Rev. Samuel Hart, D. D., be and he is hereby elected Bishop of the Diocese of Vermont.

The President then announced that the Rev. Samuel Hart, D. D., having received the requisite number of votes of the Clerical and Lay Delegates of this Convention, as required by Canons, was, and is hereby declared to be, duly elected Bishop of the Protestant Episcopal Church in the Diocese of Vermont.

On motion of the Rev. Mr. Hardy, the whole Convention then arose and joined in singing the Gloria in Excelsis, after which the President conducted the public devotions of the Convention in the use of the Lord's Prayer and appropriate Collects.

The Canonical Testimonial in favor of the Consecration of the Bishop elect was then signed by the members of the Convention, of which the following is a copy :

TESTIMONY FROM THE MEMBERS OF THE CONVENTION.

We, whose names are underwritten, fully sensible how important it is that the sacred office of a Bishop should not be unworthily conferred, and firmly persuaded that it is our duty to bear testimony, on this solemn occasion, without partiality or affection, do, in the presence of Almighty God, testify that the REV. SAMUEL HART, D. D., of the Diocese of Connecticut, is not, so far as we are informed, justly liable to evil report, either for error in religion, or for viciousness of life, and that we do not know or believe there is any impediment on account of which he ought not to be consecrated to that holy office.

We do, moreover, jointly and severally declare that we do, in our conscience, believe him to be of such sufficiency in good learning, such soundness in the faith, and of such virtuous and pure manners and Godly conversation, that he is apt and meet to exercise the office of a Bishop, to the honor of God and the edifying of his Church, and to be a wholesome example to the flock of Christ.

PREAMBLE TO THE CONSTITUTION AND CANONS.

WHEREAS, It is desirable that those important Constitutional principles which distinguish the Protestant Episcopal Church should be fully exhibited and thoroughly understood amongst her people, and that her whole system of law and government should be presented in a brief and simple form, within the reach of all, so as to leave the least possible ground for ignorance or error :

Therefore, The Clergy and Laity of the said Diocese of Vermont, duly assembled in Convention in Christ Church, Montpelier, on the 10th and 11th days of June, A. D. 1885, have set forth the following Amended Constitution and Canons, declaratory of the said principles, and for a guide in the administration thereof, as follows, viz. :

CONSTITUTION.

Of the Bible, the Book of Common Prayer, Etc.

ARTICLE I.— This Church acknowledges and receives the revealed Word of God, contained in the canonical books of the Old and New Testament, as the only infallible rule of faith and practice, to which her doctrines, her worship, and her government are all referred. And next after the Holy Scriptures, this Church adopts the standard established in the Book of Common Prayer, and the Constitution and Canons of the Protestant Episcopal Church in the United States, as set forth by the General Convention.

Of the Church.

ARTICLE II.— The persons constituting the Church are: 1—The Laity, consisting of all who are admitted to the Covenant of Grace by Christian baptism; and 2—the Clergy, who, besides this, are further set apart to the sacred office of the Ministry by the Apostolic rite of Ordination. Without the concurrence of both the Clergy and the Laity, no rule or law of the Church can be adopted, changed, or done away.

Of the Ministry.

ARTICLE III. There are three Orders of the Clergy established by Apostolic authority—Bishops, Priests and Deacons. Of these all baptize, all officiate in divine service, and all preach the Gospel; but none except a Bishop or Priest can consecrate the Eucharist, or take the pastoral charge of a congregation. In their relative order the Deacon is subordinate to the Priest, and the Priest to the Bishop. And the Bishop, being successor to the Apostolic Order, has the sole official right to ordain, to confirm, to pronounce sentence on offenders, to preside over the Church in his Diocese or district, and to govern the same according to the Scriptures and the Canons. The Priest or Presbyters, nevertheless, are bound to counsel and advise him; and he does not ordinarily act in any important matter without consulting with a certain number of Priests and Laymen, elected by the rest, and called the Standing Committee, or Council of Advice; neither does he exercise any legislative power, except in concurrence with the Clergy and the Laity, duly assembled in Convention.

Of the Laity.

ARTICLE IV. — The Laity are divided, according to local convenience, into parishes or congregations, and commit the general management of their parochial business to a portion of their own number, elected annually out of the parish, and called Wardens and Vestrymen. To these belongs the administration of all the secular concerns of their particular society; but they have no part in the spiritual government, which belongs to the office of the Ministry alone.

Of the Convention.

ARTICLE V. — The whole Church throughout the Diocese meet in Convention once in every year, the Bishop presiding by virtue of his office, the Clergy attending in their order, and each Parish Vestry appointing delegates who represent the Laity. Special Conventions are also holden, when required by the Bishop, or if the Diocese be vacant, by the Standing Committee. And every act of legislation requires the concurrence of the Bishop. The Clergy and Laity may elect officers, and pass resolutions of advice or recommendation, without a Diocesan, but they cannot without Episcopal concurrence enact, alter or abrogate any law or Canon.

Of the Organisation of Congregations.

ARTICLE VI. — Congregations and Parishes, in order to be admitted into connection with the Diocese, shall present to the Bishop, one month before the meeting of the Convention, a written instrument, containing their articles of association, and signed by the male members of the Parish. This instrument must allege the fact that they are entitled to the privileges of a distinct religious society by the laws of the State; and, further, that they adopt, receive and promise entire conformity to the Constitution and Canons of the Diocese of Vermont; which document, being laid before the Ecclesiastical authority of the Diocese, and approved, the Society making application may elect their Wardens and Vestrymen, and their delegates may be received at the next Convention.

Of the Provisions to be Made for the General Fund.

ARTICLE VII. — The duty of providing for the support and maintenance of the Ministry is plainly declared in the Old and New Testaments; but in order that the whole Church in the Diocese may know and provide for the temporal condition of each part, the following rules are to be observed:

At every Convention the Lay Delegates shall report to the Bishop the temporal condition of their respective Parishes, stating their income, their debts, and the amount of their Minister's salary. When these reports are laid before the Convention, the Laity shall proceed to fix the quota which each Parish shall pay to the general fund of the Diocese at the next Convention, according to the circumstances of each Parish respectively. A failure to pay this quota may be accounted for satisfactorily; and in such case the Convention, by vote, may accept the excuse; but if it be not paid, and no sufficient excuse be offered, the Parish in default shall be admonished; and if it continue in default for two successive Conventions it may be, on motion, stricken from the list of the Diocese until due satisfaction be made. The general fund thus supplied shall be expended according to the votes of the Convention.

Of the Administration of Ecclesiastical Justice.

ARTICLE VIII. — All Priests and Deacons of this Church shall be liable to presentment and trial, according to the principles of Ecclesiastical Law, for crime or immorality; for holding or teaching publicly or privately, and advisedly, any doctrine contrary to that held by the Protestant Episcopal Church of the United States; for violation of the Constitution or Canons of the General Convention; for violation of the Constitution or Canons of this Diocese, or for any act which is a breach of their ordination vows; and it shall be the duty of the Diocesan Convention to prescribe, by a proper Canon, the method of such presentment and trial.

Of the Mode of Altering the Constitution.

ARTICLE IX.—The mode of altering or adding to the Constitution shall be as follows, viz: A proposition for amendment shall be laid before the Convention in writing, and, if approved, shall lie over to the next annual Convention; and if then approved by the Bishop, and by two-thirds of the Clergy, and by two-thirds of the Laity present, voting by Orders, the proposed amendment shall become a part of the Constitution.

CANONS.

TITLE I.

OF THE CONVENTION OF THE DIOCESE.

CANON I.

Of the Convention.

SEC. 1. The annual meeting of the Convention shall be held at such time and place as the Bishop shall appoint, unless some other time and place have been determined by the previous Convention.

SEC. 2. The members of the Convention shall consist of the Clergy and Laity of the Diocese, having the following qualifications: Every Clergyman having been admitted canonically by the Ecclesiastical Authority, shall be a member of the Convention. But no Clergyman shall be qualified to vote at the election of a Bishop unless he shall have been a resident of the Diocese for one year.

And every Parish regularly organized as required by the Constitution shall send a Delegate or Delegates, according to the following ratio of representation, viz: If they count three male communicants, they shall be entitled to one Delegate; if there shall be ten male communicants, they shall be entitled to two Delegates; if there be twenty male communicants, they shall be entitled to three Delegates; if there be forty male communicants, they shall be entitled to four Delegates; if there be eighty male communicants, they shall be entitled to five Delegates; if there be one hundred and fifty male communicants, they shall be entitled to six Delegates; and if there be three hundred or more male communicants, they shall be entitled to seven Delegates. Provided, always, that no person under Ecclesiastical censure or process, whether Clergyman or Layman, shall be allowed a seat in the Convention.

SEC. 3. The Convention in its ordinary mode of transacting business, shall deliberate and vote without any distinction of Orders; but any member may call for a division upon any question, and if this call be sustained by two other members, then the question in debate shall be put first to the Clergy and next to the Laity; and in such case a majority of both orders shall be necessary to constitute a vote of the Convention.

SEC. 4. The Bishop presides, as Bishop, in the Convention, being expected to express his opinion from his seat on every subject as freely as the judge upon the bench, or the father in his family. When there is no Bishop, the President of the Standing Committee shall preside as Chairman. And if he cannot attend, the Convention shall elect a Chairman from the Clergy present. A Secretary and a Treasurer shall be elected by a joint ballot of the whole body at each Convention.

SEC. 5. When a Bishop is to be elected, the Convention shall always vote in distinct Orders. The Clergy shall make a nomination by ballot, and two-thirds of the Lay Delegates shall concur by ballot, in order to constitute an election.

SEC. 6. When the Bishop, or, if there be no Bishop, the Standing Committee, shall deem it expedient to call a special Convention, four weeks' notice shall be given to every Minister, and to one of the Wardens of each Parish in the Diocese, and the notice shall express the special object or objects for which said Convention is summoned, and no other object or objects shall be proposed or determined upon in the said Convention.

Of the Secretary and Treasurer.

SEC. 1. The Secretary of the Convention shall keep full and exact records of all its acts, in a fit book, together with all papers, documents, memorials, etc., belonging to the same, duly endorsed and filed in such a way that they can be easily consulted, whenever at any time recourse to them may be necessary. He shall also prepare, under the direction of the Bishop, at least one week before the meeting of the Convention a list of all Ministers canonically resident in the Diocese, annexing their respective stations, or, if they are not engaged, their places of residence only, and stating whether they are Priests or Deacons; but not inserting the name of any Clergyman who may be suspended from the Ministry. The list thus prepared shall be laid before the Convention immediately after it shall be called to order, and the names of the Clerical members shall be called therefrom.

SEC. 2. The Treasurer shall have charge of the general fund of the Diocese, and shall keep a strict account of the same in a fit book, with a distinct place therein for each Parish, and shall endorse and file away in like manner all warrants, orders, or papers belonging to his department, and shall have his accounts audited by the Finance Committee at each Convention.

The financial year shall be from Easter Monday one year to Easter Monday in the following year, and the Treasurer's reports shall be made up to correspond with the financial year.

SEC. 3. When a vacancy occurs in the office either of Secretary or Treasurer, the Ecclesiastical Authority—that is to say, the Bishop, or, in the vacancy of the Episcopate, the Standing Committee—shall appoint a Secretary or Treasurer for the time, who shall receive the records and the funds from the hands of the former officers, or their legal representatives, and shall continue in office until the ensuing Convention shall have elected some other person to fill the same.

CANON III.

Of the Registrar.

SEC. 1. A Registrar shall be elected by the Convention, into whose keeping shall be committed all documents pertaining to the history of the Church in Vermont that are now, or may hereafter become, the property of the Convention. It shall be the duty of said Registrar to preserve all the documents herein referred to, in some suitable place of deposit: and to hold them subject to such regulations as the Convention may from time to time prescribe.

SEC. 2. Said Registrar shall hold his office for one year, and until another shall be chosen in his place.

CANON IV.

Of the Rules of Order of the Convention.

It shall be in the power of each Convention to prescribe rules of order for its own government.

CANON V.

Of a Regular Attendance at Convention.

SEC. 1. Every Parish in this Diocese which shall not hereafter be represented in the Annual Diocesan Convention by a Lay Delegation, unless for reason satisfactory to the Bishop, shall be considered as not entitled to any appropriation from the Board of Land Agents, or from any Missionary Board of the Diocese; and Parishes neglecting to send Delegates for two successive Conventions may be, on motion, stricken from the list of Parishes, until they make suitable acknowledgement.

SEC. 2. No member of the Convention shall leave the same during the session, without having applied for and received leave of absence from the Convention.

CANON VI.

Of the Number Necessary to Constitute a Quorum.

A quorum of the Convention for ordinary purposes shall consist of any number of members, being not less than seven of the Clergy and the like number of the Laity, provided the Bishop be present. But in his absence such number shall not have power to do more than receive the usual reports, and elect the ordinary officers. In the election of a Bishop, two-thirds of the Clergy shall be present, and a majority of all the Parishes entitled to Delegates shall be represented, before the Convention can proceed. In all other cases, a majority of the body having authority to act shall constitute a quorum.

CANON VII.

Of the Convention Services.

Morning Prayer shall be said before the opening of every Convention, and on the same day the Holy Communion shall be celebrated, and a sermon preached.

CANON VIII.

Of the Standing Committee of the Diocese.

SEC. 1. At every Annual Convention three Priests and three Laymen shall be elected by ballot, as the Standing Committee for the ensuing year. They shall elect from their own body a President and Secretary. They shall meet on the summons of the President, and their traveling expenses shall be defrayed by the Treasurer of the Convention, on the order of the President in writing.

SEC. 2. It shall be the duty of the Secretary to keep a regular record of all their proceedings, in a book which shall belong to the Diocese, and which, together with all papers in the possession of the Committee, shall be open to the inspection of the Bishop, or the Convention, when required.

SEC. 3. The Standing Committee shall be summoned on the requisition of the Bishop whenever he shall wish for their advice, and they may meet of their own accord, and agreeably to their own rules, when they may be disposed to advise the Bishop. And the President shall call a meeting at any time, on the request in writing of any two members.

SEC. 4. When the Diocese is vacant through the death or resignation of the Bishop, it shall be the duty of the President of the Standing Committee to call a meeting forthwith, and, after consultation as to the time and place, to summon a special Convention of the Diocese to elect a successor, with all convenient speed. And so long as the vacancy continues they shall exercise all the powers of the Ecclesiastical Authority consistent with their character as the Administrators of the Diocese under the Convention.

SEC. 5. If a vacancy occur in the Standing Committee, by reason of death or otherwise, the Clerical and Lay members shall fill the same at their next meeting thereafter by one of three persons nominated by the Bishop, or if there be no Bishop, then by any person at their option.

CANON IX.

Of the Standing Committees of the Convention.

After the President shall have declared the Convention organized for business, he shall proceed to appoint the following Standing Committees, viz. :

1. On the admission of Parishes into union with the Convention — one Clergyman and two Laymen.
2. On Finance, to whom shall be referred the accounts of the Treasurer, and who shall report the assessments of the various Parishes for the Conventional expenses for the ensuing year — three Laymen.
3. On Education — three Clergymen and two Laymen.
4. On Parochial Reports — two Clergymen, who shall prepare the Parochial Reports for publication.

5. On Miscellaneous Business — one Clergyman and two Laymen.
6. On Canons — three Clergymen and two Laymen.

CANON X.

Of the Reports of the Trustees of the Diocesan Funds.

The trustees of the Episcopal Fund, the Trustees of the Fund for the Relief of Aged and Infirm Clergymen, the Trustees of the Parochial Fund, and the Trustees of the Diocese of Vermont, are hereby required to make a statement to each Annual Convention of their proceedings exhibiting the condition of the funds entrusted to their charge, together with the items of receipts and disbursements, with the vouchers therefor, signed by the Trustees, or a majority of them.

These reports shall be for the year preceding the last Easter Monday before the Convention.

CANON XI.

Of The Auditors of the Trust Funds.

At each Annual Convention there shall be elected a committee of three Laymen, whose duty it shall be to examine the accounts contained in the reports of the Boards of Trustees to be presented to the Convention, and to see and identify the various securities in which any trust funds are invested, and to certify the same by their endorsements made to those reports.

CANON XII.

Of the Election of Deputies to the General Convention.

SEC. 1. Deputies to the General Convention shall be chosen at the Annual Convention next preceding the General Convention; and shall continue in office until others are chosen.

SEC. 2. The clerical and Lay Deputies shall be elected by ballot; which ballot shall be taken simultaneously, by orders, and a majority of each order shall be necessary to a choice.

SEC. 3. Substitutes for Deputies shall be chosen in the same manner as the Deputies are. And in the event of the resignation or inability of any Deputy—Clerical or Lay—such vacancy shall be filled by the Bishop or the list of the substitutes.

SEC. 4. Clerical Deputies must be Priests and members of the Convention. Lay Deputies must be communicants.

CANON XIII.

Of the Preparation of a Report on the State of the Church.

It shall be the duty of the Bishop and Standing Committee, or, if there be no Bishop, of the Standing Committee, to prepare previously to the meeting of every General Convention a condensed report and tabular view of the state of the Church in this Diocese, and to present the same to the Secretary of the House of Deputies on or before the first Monday of the session.

CANON XIV.

Of the Publication of the Proceedings of the Convention.

The proceedings of each Convention shall be published by the Secretary, under the Supervision of the Bishop, as soon as practicable after the close of each session, and the Secretary shall send seven copies to each Clergyman within the Diocese, and one copy to each Warden and Vestryman of every Parish, unless the Convention shall otherwise provide, and also to each Bishop of the Church, and to every Secretary of Convention throughout the United States.

CANON XV.

Of the Continuance of Officers in Office.

In all cases whatever of failure or omission to elect Delegates to the Convention, or officers, whether Conventional or Parochial, the persons last elected shall continue to serve until others be chosen.

CANON XVI.

Of the Mode of Altering the Canons.

Forasmuch as frequent legislation, or any needless fluctuation in the rules and regulations of the Church, is to be avoided as being both troublesome and dangerous, it is hereby declared that no alteration in the Canons of this Diocese shall be made unless it be approved by the Convention on one day, and confirmed by a majority of both Orders on a subsequent day of the same Convention.

TITLE II.

OF PARISHES AND PARISH MINISTERS.

CANON I.

Of Vacant Parishes.

SEC. 1. On the organization of any new Parish in this Diocese, or on the occurrence of a vacancy in any existing Parish, it shall be the duty of the Wardens or other officers of such Parish, to give immediate notice of the same to the Bishop; and until provision be made for the supply of the same according to the Canons the Bishop may cause it to be supplied at his discretion, by Missionary services, or otherwise.

SEC. 2. In order to maintain public worship in such Parishes according to the venerable formularies of the Church, the Bishop may, on the recommendation of the Vestry, appoint Lay Readers, who shall be either Candidates for Holy Orders, or other Laymen of exemplary character for morals and piety; and who, under the direction of the Bishop or some Priest of the Diocese, on Sunday and other proper occasions, shall devoutly read the service of the Church, and a sermon from the works of some approved Clergyman of the Church.

CANON II.

Of Communicants Removing into Other Parishes.

A communicant removing from one Parish to another, shall procure from the Rector or Minister (if any) of the Parish of his last residence, or if there be no Rector or Minister, from one of the Wardens, a certificate stating that he or she is a communicant in good standing; and the Rector of the Parish or congregation to which he or she removes shall not be required to receive him or her as a communicant until such letter be produced. And the certificate shall be in form as follows, viz.:

SEC. 6. It shall also be the duty of the Missionary Committee, first—to acquaint themselves with the work done in the missionary stations and parishes; secondly—to gather such information as they may be able respecting the number and residence of communicants living in towns in which they have not the privileges of the Church; and thirdly—to ascertain, by visitation or otherwise, whether at any time there are places in the Diocese in which the services of the Church are not held that would welcome them with any degree of support.

SEC. 7. It shall further be the duty of the Missionary Committee to meet at least quarterly, to consider and adopt what measures they may deem necessary to raise the money needed for the prompt payment of the missionary stipends when due, to receive reports from Missionaries, and to transact any business that may properly come before them.

SEC. 8. The Missionary Committee shall report to the Annual Convention the amount of money received and delivered by them during the year preceding the last Easter Monday, the general condition of the missionary work of the Diocese, any facts of interest or measures for its prosecution which they may deem important, and the amount of money which they think necessary for carrying it on successfully the year ensuing; and this report shall be made the order of the day at such an hour during the first day of its meeting as the Convention shall appoint.

SEC. 9. The Treasurer shall hold all moneys received by him for Diocesan Missions subject to the disposal of the Committee, and shall pay them upon the Committee's order. His accounts shall be audited by the Committee on Finance of the Annual Convention, and a detailed statement of the funds received and paid out by him shall be printed in an appendix to the Convention journal.

CANON II.

Of Missionary Stations.

SEC. 1. The Bishop, or with his consent, the Missionary appointed by him, may organize temporarily a mission in any place desired, by appointing therefor a Warden, a Secretary, and a Treasurer, whose duties shall correspond to those of the like officers in Parishes. These officers shall hold their place till the following Easter Monday, and until their place is supplied by a new appointment.

SEC. 2. When a mission thus temporarily organized shall have had the regular services of a Missionary appointed by the Bishop for a year preceding an Annual Convention, and shall have not less than three resident male communicants of 21 years of age, a meeting of the Mission may be called in the same way as Parish meetings, for the purpose of organizing more permanently. This meeting, in respect to the qualifications of its voters and to all its proceedings, shall be governed by the rules and limitations of Canon viii, Title II, so far as applicable to their case. They may elect a Warden, a Secretary, and a Treasurer, if there be no Missionary in charge, but if there be such a Missionary he shall appoint the Warden. These officers shall have like duties with those of the same name in Parishes, and be annually chosen as in Parishes.

SEC. 3. They may also elect a delegate to the said Annual Convention, who shall be entitled to a seat, and to a voice in the deliberations respecting the missions of the Diocese, but shall have no vote.

SEC. 4. Missionary stations shall be under the control of the Bishop and Missionary Committee of the Diocese.

SEC. 5. Missionaries shall be appointed by the Bishop.

SEC. 6. The "weekly offertory" shall be established under the direction of the Bishop at the beginning of the Mission.

SEC. 7. The title to real estate given to or purchased by the Mission for Church purposes, shall be vested in the Trustees of the Parochial Fund of the Protestant Episcopal Church in the Diocese of Vermont, or in the Trustees of the Diocese of Vermont, but no gift or donation shall be accepted or purchase made for the Mission without the consent of the Bishop, after consultation with the people.

SEC. 8. The change from the "Mission" to the "Parish" may be made when, first, there shall be ten communicants; and when, second, the Station is able to support a Rector without missionary aid.

SEC. 9. The Missionary stations shall, as a further condition of receiving Missionary aid, make the quarterly offerings for Diocesan Missions designated in Canon iii of Title III of this Convention.

SEC. 10. Missions with only temporary organizations shall report to the annual convention through their Missionaries, or, if they have none, through their clerks. Those more permanently organized shall report through their missionaries and delegates. And in these reports in their own records, in all diocesan statistics and accounts, in their names, in obedience to the Canons of the Church, and the action of the Diocesan Convention, they shall be held and treated as parishes, with the obvious exceptions arising from their having no corporate character.

SEC. 11. The failure of the people of a Mission to fulfil their stipulations may warrant the Bishop in withdrawing his Missionary, and dissolving the organization.

CANON III.

Of the Collections for Diocesan Missions.

In every parish of this Diocese a quarterly collection for Diocesan Missions shall be made regularly in the months of February, May, August and November, and the amount contributed shall be promptly forwarded to the Treasurer of the Missionary Committee. And it shall be the duty of every Parish Minister to give due notice of these collections, and to call the attention of his congregation to their importance and claims.

CANON IV.

Of Clergymen Visiting Vacant Stations.

It shall be in the power of the Bishop, according to his judgment, to detail any clergyman of this Diocese four Sundays in each year, at equal intervals, to officiate in any station he may think advantageous to be visited; the expense of such visits to be defrayed by the station visited, or by the Missionary Board of the Diocese.

CANON V.

Of the Convocations of the Diocese.

SEC. 1. The Clergy of the Diocese may be associated in one or more Convocations.

SEC. 2. The purposes of such association shall be to cherish a common interest in the general work in the Diocese, and particularly in its missions, to preach the gospel, and to seek mutual improvement by the reading and discussion of essays and expositions of Holy Scriptures.

SEC. 3. The officers of Convocation, or if there be more than one, of each Convocation, shall be the Bishop as President ex officio, a Secretary, and such other officers as shall be found needful.

1. Crime or immorality. .
2. Holding and teaching, publicly or privately, and advisedly, any doctrine contrary to that held by the Protestant Episcopal Church in the United States of America.
3. Violation of the Constitution or Canons of the General Convention.
4. Violation of the Constitution or Canons of the Diocese of Vermont.
5. Any act which involves a breach of his ordination vows.

SEC. 2. If a Minister of this Church shall be accused by public rumor of discontinuing all exercise of the Ministerial office without lawful cause, or of living in habitual disuse of public worship, or of the Holy Eucharist according to the offices of this Church, or of being guilty of any or either of the offences enumerated in the first section, it shall be the duty of the Bishop, or if there be no Bishop, of the clerical members of the Standing Committee, to see that an inquiry be instituted as to the truth of such public rumors.

SEC. 3. If a Minister of the Church shall be found guilty of any or either of the offences enumerated in the foregoing sections, he shall be admonished, suspended or degraded.

SEC. 4. In order to bring a Clergyman to trial, a charge shall be made in the first place to the Standing Committee, in writing, under the proper signature of at least two communicants in this Diocese, one of whom shall be a Priest. And if the Standing Committee deem the charges well founded, they shall present the accused to the Bishop for trial.

SEC. 5. Upon the receipt of the presentment, the Bishop shall summon seven Priests of this Diocese to meet at some time not within ninety days, at some place within the county where the accused shall reside or officiate, for the time being; three of whom shall be sufficient to constitute a court. When the seven Priests are assembled, the accused may object to any individual over the number of three, at his discretion. If no objection be made, the whole number shall sit at the court. The court shall be judges both of law and fact. The Bishop shall forthwith furnish to the Standing Committee and to the accused a list of the Priests summoned to constitute the court, accompanied with a notice of the time and place of the meeting of the court.

SEC. 6. The Standing Committee shall be prosecutors in the case, and shall appoint counsel, who shall be a Priest of this Church, and they shall give the accused a copy of the charges presented to the Bishop, and also sixty days notice of the time and place of trial. The Bishop shall also appoint at each annual convention a legal advisor to the court, some person learned in the law, who shall be a communicant of this Church, and shall hold his office until a new appointment be made.

SEC. 7. At the time fixed for the trial, the members of the court shall assemble at the place designated, and choose a President from their own number, and a Clerk who shall not be of their own number; and they shall, before they proceed, adopt and declare the rules by which the trial shall be conducted.

SEC. 8. The accused shall be allowed counsel, whom he shall choose from the Priests of this Church, but if he shall himself decline to choose counsel, the court shall appoint counsel for him from the Priests of this Diocese.

SEC. 9. If the accused shall not appear at the trial without assigning sufficient cause, the court shall proceed against him for contempt, and he shall be suspended by the Bishop from the exercise of his clerical functions for the space of six months. And if during that period he shall not apply for a trial, the Bishop shall degrade him from the Ministry. But if he shall appear, the court shall proceed to the trial on the presentment, and shall adjudge him guilty or not guilty according to the evidence; and if he be found guilty, the court shall declare to the Bishop to what ecclesiastical censure he ought in their judgment to be subjected.

SEC. 10. The Clerk shall keep a record of all the proceedings, which shall contain a copy of the presentment, of the specifications, of the notice to the accused, and of his answer, with a statement of all the evidence, both oral and written, and the final judgment of the court; and an attested copy of this record shall be forthwith delivered to the Bishop.

SEC. 11. The Bishop shall, within thirty days, proceed to administer the discipline prescribed by the court, provided he approve the same, but if he disapprove he may order a new trial, stating his grounds for such decision. Furthermore, the Bishop may, at his discretion, pronounce the sentence next lighter than that adjudged by the court, whether it be admonition, suspension, or degradation from the ministry.

SEC. 12. Every summons, notice, or citation mentioned in these proceedings shall be deemed to be duly served by the delivery of a written notice on paper to the person to be summoned, notified or cited, or by leaving it, or a certified copy of it, at his residence, by a person duly appointed in writing by the Bishop, Standing Committee or court, as the case may require. Or, in case his residence cannot be ascertained, publication of the citation in a newspaper designated by the Bishop, shall be deemed sufficient notice, said notice being sixty days previous to the trial for absence. When judgment of the Court shall be passed, there being no appearance of the accused, nor proof of notice to him of the proceeding, it shall be the duty of the Bishop to suspend sentence, and, if a demand be made in writing by the accused within two years of the date of judgment, to order a new trial.

SEC. 13. Suspension from the exercise of the functions of the Ministry shall, ipso facto, sever the connection between the Clergyman so suspended and his Parish.

SEC. 14. No Clergyman shall be suspended, or receive any public censure from the Ecclesiastical Authority of the Diocese, without having been adjudged thereto in the manner provided by this Canon.

SEC. 15. If there be necessity for the trial of a Clergyman at any time when the Episcopate of the Diocese is vacant, the Bishop of some neighboring Diocese may at the request of the Standing Committee perform all the acts assigned by this Canon to the Bishop of the Diocese.

CANON II.

Of the Caution to be used by those who sign the certificates of Candidates for Holy Orders.

Forasmuch as nothing more deeply wounds the peace of the Church and the honor of the Gospel, than the admission of unworthy men to the office of the Ministry, care shall be taken that the certificates given to Candidates be in all cases founded on reasonable evidence of the facts alleged. And if in any case it be found that they have been signed rashly and unadvisedly, without due care and caution, the signers, whether Clergymen or Laymen, shall be liable to Ecclesiastical censure.

CANON III.

Of the Due Observance of Sunday.

All persons within this Church shall celebrate and keep the Lord's Day, commonly called Sunday, in hearing the Word of God read and taught, in private prayer and public worship, in other exercises of devotion, and in acts of charity, using all Godly and sober conversation.

CANON IV.

Of the Instruction of the Children.

Every parish Minister shall be diligent to teach the children of his congregation in the catechism, and shall devote at least a sufficient portion of the afternoon services of the Sundays, publicly before the congregation, to the instruction of the children and youth in the catechism, and the worship and the Constitution of the Church.

CANON V.

Of Marriage and Divorce.

No Minister of this Church shall solemnize matrimony in any case where there is a divorced wife or husband of either party still living, if such husband or wife has been put away for any cause arising after marriage; but this Canon shall not be held to apply to the innocent party in a divorce for the cause of adultery, or to parties once divorced seeking to be united again. (Digest Tit. II. Can. 13, § 2.)

CANON VI.

Of the Due Observance of Lent.

It shall be the duty of each and every parish Clergyman of the Church in this Diocese to use the sacred season of Lent as a solemn and stated season wherein to employ himself earnestly and peculiarly in the conversion of souls to Christ; that is to say, in preaching to the unbaptized repentance from sin, faith in Christ our Lord, and baptism into the Church of Christ for the remission of sins; and to those within the Church, and who are careless, or have fallen away, the same duty of true conversion to the ways of God, and of a restoration to the full enjoyment of the privileges of the Church in her Holy Communion.

SEC. 2. This shall be done regularly under the Canons of the Church, and also under the direction and advice of the Chief Pastor, the Bishop of the Diocese.

CANON VII.

Of Offerings for the Infirm Clergy Fund.

Offerings shall be made annually in every Parish and Mission Station on any Sunday in the month of May, for aged and infirm Clergymen, and the widows and orphans of deceased Clergymen belonging to the Diocese, and shall be remitted to the Treasurer appointed by the Trustees of that fund.

CANON VIII.

Of the Music of the Church.

SEC. 1. It shall be the duty of every Parish Minister, either by standing directions, or from time to time, to appoint from the authorized collections the Psalms, Anthems and Hymns which are to be sung in his congregation.

SEC. 2. And further, it shall be the duty of every Parish Minister with such assistance as he can obtain from persons skilled in music, to give order concerning the tunes to be sung at any time in his Church; and especially it shall be his duty to suppress all light and unseemly music, and all indecency and irreverence in the performance, by which vain and ungodly persons profane the service of the sanctuary.

CANON IX.

Repeal of Former Canons.

All former Canons of this Convention are hereby repealed.

ABSTRACT OF AMENDMENTS TO THE CANONS,

NOW IN FORCE SINCE THEY WERE PUBLISHED OR REVISED IN 1885.

The following amendments to Sec. 3, Canon I., Title I., adopted at Montpelier, June 7, 1888:

"When a Bishop is to be elected, the Convention shall always vote by Orders, and a majority of each Order, when both concur, shall constitute an election. The Secretary shall first call the roll of the Clergy, who shall, as their names are called, deposit their ballots with the Tellers, and when counted the result shall be announced to the Convention. The Secretary shall then call the roll of Lay Delegates, who shall, as their names are called, deposit their ballots with the Tellers, which shall be counted and announced as ordered for the Clergy. In case of non-concurrence the first time, balloting shall continue in same way and order as above until an election is made."

Amendment to Canon XI., Title II., Sec. 2, adopted at Rutland, June 20, 1889:

"When any Parish that has been legally constituted under the Canons of this Diocese shall fail, for any cause, to possess the requisite number of Communicants to entitle it to the rights of such organization, the Bishop may, with the consent of the Standing Committee, declare such organization void, and place said Parish upon list of Mission Stations."

BOARD OF LAND AGENTS.

The Board of Land Agents has adopted the following rules for its government in making appropriations:—

1. That the year for which appropriations are made shall terminate at Easter.
2. That the appropriations made to any parish for one year shall be considered as applying to such part of the year only, in its proper proportion, as the said parish shall have a Rector or Minister.
3. That the appropriations shall be paid semi-annually, once in six months from Easter, and the balance in twelve months.
4. That it is not expedient in the opinion of the board, to make any further appropriations for the building of Churches and Parsonages.
